Corn Conference Addresses Future

BY EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

CARLISLE — The past president of the National Corn Growers Association told the very large crowd at the third annual Corn Conference here Tuesday that agriculture will produce as much food for humanity in the world in the next 25 years as has been produced from the beginning of recorded history to date. Varel Bailey, Anita, Iowa, keynoted the conference with a discussion of the major areas of problems farmers will face around the world to accomplish this exciting feat.

At the third annual Pennsylvania Corn Conference are (L to R): Varel Bailey, John Shearer, and Walter Johnson.

Bailey listed food safety, environment, and international trade laws as the three major areas of concern.

FOOD SAFETY

"I think it's time to take the high road as far as food safety is concerned," Bailey said. "We need to decide what the problems will be two years from now and do the research so we can either clear the agricultural product in question or change our product to make it acceptable to the consumer."

ENVIRONMENTAL CONCERNS

Bailey thinks environmental concerns will be the number one issue that affects the way we farm in the future. The 1985 Farm Bill with its coalition with environmentalists is a good example. "I was in the meeting where the trade-off -- where the deal was cut between the conservation reserve program and the lowering of the target prices in the out years of the 1985 Farm Bill," Bailey said. "All the numbers you see in this Farm Bill were calculated with the votes needed from such environmentalists as the Audubon Society and the Sierra Club. It was necessary to form a coalition with these environmentalists to maximize the opportunities we have as producers. We need to continue to find ways to work with them," Bailey

Vegetable Growers Urged To Support New Marketing, Research Program

BY LISA RISSER

LANCASTER — Vegetable growers around the state are being called on by the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association (PVGA) to support a program that would fund marketing and research.

The proposed program, which association officials hope will be voted on in April, will collect $25 per producer plus $1.50 per acre for every acre over 10 acres or each 1,000 square feet of greenhouse space over 10,000 square feet, payable by October 1 of each year. These monies will be administered by the Commodity Marketing Board, which is comprised of Boyd Wolff, Secretary of Agriculture, and four growers representing each of the three regions of the state (west, central, and east).

"The program is designed so that every year the Board will determine how to spend the money based on input from the vegetable producers," explained Ernest Bergman, spokesman for the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing Program. "Members will define the problems in an area, and the money will be disbursed to benfit fresh market, processing, and greenhouse producers on a proportional basis."

The new program will affect all

GETTYSBURG — Adams County farmers were served a varied menu of leafhopper control methods, potassium and phosphorus soil level recommendations, and an update on forage grasses, at the Adams County Forage and Soils Day hosted by the Adams County Extension.

Highlighting the meeting was a panel presentation on "New Innovations in Forage Production and Marketing. Panel participants included Larry Mummert, East Berlin, who spoke on alfalfa production and his use of alfalfa-grass mixtures; John Hess, Gettysburg, who related his experiences with grasses and mixes where alfalfa does not persist; Larry Wilkinson, Gettysburg, who discussed opportunities in hay marketing with a special note on the market for poorer quality hay; and John Myers, Littlestown, who emphasized the premium markets for hay and straw.

Mummert operates a 350 head dairy operation and harvests 200 acres of hay annually. He harvests a majority of his hay as haylage to avoid weather problems an excess labor needs.

A perenial top forage producer in the county, Mummert stated, "The key to growing good alfalfa is to plan ahead. Get your seedbed ready a year ahead. When I do a spring seeding, I put the manure to that field in the fall."

Mummert related that he does not apply any purchased fertilizer to his stands, but that he spreads as much as 60 tons of manure to the acre to the soil in the year of establishment. When harvesting the

Lancaster County Dairy Days Is Time Well Spent

BY PAT PURCELL

LANCASTER — It was a beautiful day on Tuesday, and while that usually means most farmers chose to stay home and work instead of attending a dairy seminar, that was not the case.

To farmers time is money, but attending Lancaster County Dairy Days is always time well spent. Those in attendance had dozens of options to take home with them to increase profit by decreasing costs.

"I don't understand how farmers can worry so much about getting another one-tenth of a pound of milk, but yet they won't devote one afternoon a month on their future herd," said Jud Heinrichs of Penn State speaking on the 'hows' and 'whys' of raising growthy heifers.

According to current figures raising heifers into production costs Pennsylvania farmers $800-1,200, assuming they freshen at 24 months. It costs farmers $50-$80 each non-productive animal depending on feed costs for each month after two years.

With this information well publicized it is surprising the large percentage of Pennsylvania dairymen calving heifers at 27, 28, 29 and 30 months. Any milk increase they may feel they gain is lost several times because of the costs of feeding these non-productive units.

It is critical to get growth in heifers so they can be bred at 13-15 months; freshened at 24 months and to do both of these the heifer must have the proper size.

Heifers must be measured in height at the withers and heart girth twice a year and have the measure-

Dr. Sid Bosworth, Penn State Agronomist, congratulates John Myers, center, and Larry Mummert, right for their participation in the states Five-Acre Alfalfa Club. The presentation took place at the Adams County Forage and Soils Day.

FUTURES MARKET TRENDS GRAIN AND LIVESTOCK

This market information provided by ACRES ACRES is a copyrighted market information service developed by the American Farm Bureau and available to Pennsylvania farmers on a daily basis through Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Farm Management Services For additional market comments and trading service contact PFA Commodity Futures Service (717) 761-2740

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures closed from 1-3/4 to 2-3/4 cents lower. Futures came under pressure after the May option failed to pierce technical resistance at $2.10. A lower opening was dictated by India passing on its 200,000 metric tonne tender. Support came from continued strength in interior markets. Generic certificate premiums remained steady to lower throughout the day with bids in the 102 to 103% range.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybeans futures settled from 4-1/4 to 5-3/4 cents lower at session lows. Trading today was volatile with a rally midday on fund buying. Selling on the close was attributed to concerns about competition from South America. November beans are still above the $6.50 mark with support linked to ideas that this month needs to remain firm going into the planting season. March closed at $6.30-1/2 down 4-1/2 after trading in a $6.29-3/4 to $6.36-1/4 range.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat continued its downward trend today pressured by the CCC auctions, and the lack of fresh export news. Subsequent to the close, the CCC announced sales of 10 million bushels in its Tuesday auction. Pressure on the opening was attributed to reports that new crop spring red wheat had begun to rrV,-"=I59 e QIBY%9jJQ"!I=U!5 the winter in good condition. March closed 4-1/4 cents lower at $3.06-3/4 just 3/4 cents above the low for the day.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle futures closed higher this afternoon after a choppy, sporadic session. Buying on the opening was attributed to ideas that front end fed cattle supplies would be tight in the next few weeks. Further support came from buying linked to a steep increase in open interest. Technically, cattle fell below the 10 day moving average for the third consecutive session, which triggered some selling. Feeders closed lower pressured by dropping cash fundamentals.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash -steady futures-steady.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, March 2, 1988

Trading activity was light and selective. Cutlets were fully adequate to ample at $1.75 and some volume sales were noted at 1.68-1.70. Breasts have increased and were negotiable even at the lower levels as additional product remains unsold. Legs were at least adequate, while leg quarters were more available today as the demand had dropped off and was slow. Wings were irregular but fully adequate overall. Livers were adequate to fully adequate, gizzards were tight.

OPINION

We Need The Facts

On three different occasions this week, speakers at farm meetings talked about environmental issues. State Secretary of Agriculture, Boyd Wolff, mentioned his work in representing agricultural interests in the face of environmental pressures. Wolff opened the third annual Corn Conference in Carlisle. At the same conference, Varel Bailey, Anita, Iowa, said that the environment was the most important issue that would change the way we farm in the next few years. And at the Lancaster Poultry Progress Days, Mitchell Woodward, Nutrient Management Specialist from Penn State, said that 70 percent of the soil tests from Lancaster County contained more nutrients than are necessary to grow a crop.

As farmers we are confronted by a rather well defined attitude by the Environmental Protection Agency and other environmental groups. They make the assumption that any pound of pesticide, insecticide, or fertilizer applied to the surface of the earth will eventually end up in the underground water supply. So they take the number of pounds sold times the number of acres and make a scary case to discontinue the use of many of the products that have given agriculture its lofty position in world food production. So we need facts to prove the EPA's assumption wrong.

Unlike the milk, meat and egg industries that have taken their cholesterol battle to research for ammunition to set the facts straight, crops and soils people have not yet generated the facts to uphold the farmers' end of the story. Certainly, we need to do all we can in agriculture to keep pollutants from our streams and underground water supply. Yet we're now at a point where government will soon be telling us how many animals we may have on our farms, how much manure we may spread on each acre, and they will systematically outlaw each product that is alleged to cause chemical contamination in the underground water supply.

So we need to begin right now to work with our agricultural colleges, extension and soil conservation services, and agribusiness firms to get the needed research done. Who knows, we may find that industrial chemical spills and worn-out septic systems contaminate our world just as much as excess manure. But we'll never know if we don't have the facts. And without the facts we'll not be able to uphold our end of the story.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agriculture Agent

To Plan Location For Tobacco Planting

We have been saying for years that animal and poultry manure is an excellent fertilizer. It still is... but not for tobacco. Research shows us that animal manure, particularly dairy, increases the chlorine content of the tobacco; this chlorine content reduces the "burn" quality of the tobacco, and buyers frown on that.

Locate the area that you plan to transplant your tobacco, and be sure NOT to apply any manure to that area this year.

We suggest that a soil test be taken as an indicator of your present nutrient level. Then apply fertilizer at the recommended rates. The fertility program, recommended by our Research Agronomists, for a 2,000 pound tobacco crop, should consist of 80 pounds of nitrogen, 35 pounds of phosphorus ($P_2O_5$) and 165 pounds of potash from either sulfate of potash or potassium nitrate. This fertility program will increase quality and reduce buyer resistance.

To Avoid Soil Compaction

One of the real dangers of being in too big a hurry in getting on the soil in the spring with heavy equipment is that we pack this wet soil so hard that poor yields results. With modern machinery, the weight is much more than a team of horses or mules. As a result we have ground that is as hard as concrete and it is slow to recover. It is important to wait until the soil is dried out sufficiently before taking this heavy equipment over the fields. When the soil is worked too wet, it becomes hard and forms clods. This type of soil structure will not give you the best yields. Don't be in too big a hurry, slow down and leave the weather catch up to you.

To Check Pastures

With March arriving and moderating temperatures, our thoughts quicken to early spring pastures. We need to be concerned with pastures and exercise lots along rural roads for discarded junk. Unfortunately, people still throw bags of waste from their cars into nearby fields. Some of the materials may be poisonous to livestock. Every producer should remove these materials before starting to graze. Also, in hay fields the materials should be removed before growth begins. Bottles and tin cans will damage equipment and be a threat to the livestock eating the hay. Be sure your animals are not poisoned through someone's carelessness.

To Prune Fruit Trees

Whether you have a few or several hundred fruit trees, orchard pruning need not be delayed until spring. It may be started in colder weather. But it is a good practice to work on the hardiest trees first.

Early pruning can involve some problems from winter injury, but in many cases an early start will be necessary to complete pruning of large orchards before spring. By confining early work to the older, hardier trees, fruit growers keep injury to a minimum.

Apple and pear trees are the hardiest of the fruits, with plums and sour cherries next in order. Because peach and sweet cherries are most tender, delay their pruning, particularly the younger trees, until late March.

The Cooperative Extension Service is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.

HAVE YOU BEEN GOOD?

March 6, 1988

Background Scripture:
Matthew 21:1-11;25.
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 58:6-12.

Yesterday a woman at our church greeted me with those familiar words from everyone's childhood: "Reverend, have you been good today?" I feigned thinking deeply about that before replying, "Yes, I think I have." "Good," she replied as she rummage in her purse, "then I have a reward for you!" and she handed me a large piece of chocolate candy. "Gee," I kidded her, "if I had known you carried candy with you, I'd always be good."

On the way back home from the church, the words we had spoken in jest came back to haunt me. How easy it had been to answer that question when I was a child. Being "good" meant not having been disrespectful to my elders, not lying or cheating at school, getting all my homework done and completing my chores. Basically, it meant that I had "stayed out of trouble."

HOW GOOD?

On that basis, I had answered my friend honestly: I had not been "in trouble" that day. I hadn't blasphemed God, borne false witness against anyone, committed adultery, murder, or stolen from anyone, I hadn't broken any civil laws either, unless you want to count a few miles per hour over the speed limit. My religious beliefs and practices are pretty orthodox — at least I think so. Furthermore, I had been generally cheerful and friendly to one and all. By popular standards I had been quite "good."

Then I thought about Jesus' standards of being "good" and I began to suspect that my response to her had not been all that honest. According to Jesus' parable on that day of final examination it won't matter much what beliefs I subscribe to, what doctrines I confess, what heights of benign "niceness" I can claim. What will determine whether or not I have been "good" will turn on my acts of service to those who are in need — to the hungry whom I have fed, to the strangers whom I have welcomed, to the naked whom I have clothed, and the sick and imprisoned whom I have visited. Judged on those standards, I had not been all that "good."

HOW MUCH IS ENOUGH?

To translate this passage into the here-and-now, all I had to do was turn on the television for the evening news and listen to a report that warned of alarming growth in the number of homeless in our city. Jesus may not have mentioned by name the homeless in his parable, but they are clearly there by implication. I don't mean to imply that our church doesn't do anything at all for the homeless of Dallas—we're all doing "something," aren't we? Actually, we are doing as a church considerably more than we were doing five years ago. The question is not whether we're doing something, but whether we're doing enough. In light of the tremendous need, the answer would seem to be "no." In light of our potential, the answer is still "no."

What about you? Have you been "good"? Of course you haven't killed anyone today, or robbed them, beat, or vilified them. No one will likely find you lying drunk in the gutter today or see you hauled off to jail for narcotics violations. In all probability, you've been generally nice to people, perhaps even gregarious. But that doesn't really count. What Christ wants to know at the final judgement is whether we have gone out of our way to help those in need.

Obviously, I can't answer that question for you. It is enough that I have to answer it for myself and you for yourself.

Dairy Farmers

A message from Connecticut Dairy Farmers

We believe in RCMA!

- With RCMA - dairy farmers set the price.
- Without RCMA - dairy farmers take the price.

- RCMA worked for us in 1973.
- We received up to 85¢ CWT premium on $7.50 milk.

- New England dairymen proved RCMA is legal.
- It cost us $1 million to prove - but it returned us over $20 million

Join us in RCMA

- 30 other federal orders collect an average of 92¢ CWT over order premium.
- Build dealer premiums on top of an RCMA price.
- 200 dairymen are depriving 26,000 dairymen of a fair price.
- With RCMA all dairymen can have a higher price.

ALFALFA HYDROSEEDING

Forry's Ag Service Inc. is entering their sixth season of alfalfa hydroseeding. Our goal is to reach the 10,000 acre mark. You can help us reach this goal. Listed below are some of the remarks most commonly made.

1-Hydroseeding is a time saving procedure
2-Forry's method of hydroseeding is far ahead of the field
3-Their 3-10-30 fluid fertilizer gives me my total plant food need for the first year in one trip.
4-I have quicker starts hydroseeding than my old conventional way
5-I like the one-call operation

The list goes on to prove this method is truly a success. Give us a call today; for we are the leader

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures closed lower but off session lows in a choppy session, with selling in response to steady to lower midday values. Some buying was attributed to spillover from the live cattle pit and steady to higher cash openings. Bellies closed higher on a short covering rally and bull spreading of March/May. April hogs closed at $43.25 down 22 while June only lost 8 at $ 46.97.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash - steady futures - steady to mixed

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat continued its downward trend today pressured by the CCC auctions, and the lack of fresh export news. Subsequent to the close, the CCC announced sales of 10 million bushels in its Tuesday auction. Pressure on the opening was attributed to reports that new crop spring red wheat had begun to break dormacy after having made it through the winter in good condition. March closed 4-1/4 cents lower at $3.06-3/4 just 3/4 cents above the low for the day.

Rutherford Receives Dairy Service Award

SYRACUSE, NY — Clyde E. Rutherford, president of Dairylea Cooperative, Inc., was presented with the Service to Dairying Award at the 28th Annual Meeting of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council (ADADC) held February 17, 1988 at the Sheraton Inn in Liverpool, New York.

The Service to Dairying Award is presented once a year to an individual or organization that has made a significant contribution to the dairy industry. Rutherford is a dairy farmer from Otsego County, New York whose leadership and credibility in the dairy industry has been recognized on a regional and national scale. In New York State, he is chairman of the Milk Advisory Committee, appointed by the Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets to assist him in dealing with the many problems associated with milk laws and regulations.

Nationally, Rutherford has been appointed to the National Commission on Dairy Policy, created under a provision of the 1985 Food Security Act.

ADADC's annual meeting concluded with guest speaker Philip Lempert as he focused on the theme, "Reaching Regional Markets."

ADADC is a dairy promotion organization representing 20,000 dairy producers from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Special PA Holstein Farm Tour

BY PAT PURCELL

ATGLEN - The Special PA Tour will feature five outstanding Holstein farms in the Chester County area. The tour is scheduled for Friday, March 11, following the East Coast 500 Holstein sale being held Wednesday, Thursday and Thursday evening, March 9 and 10.

Those interested in the tour should meet at the farm of Harold and Esther Bare, Swann Rd., off Route 30, just east of Route 41. Tour will begin at 9 a.m. and should be concluded by 2 p.m. For information contact Harold Bare at (215) 593-6577.

On the tour agenda are:

Joy-Wil Farms

Joy-Wil Farms is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Hostetter and his sons Barry and John. The latest herd average is 19,437 lbs. in milk production with 724 lbs. of fat with 631 protein and a BAA of 105.9. It was Joy-Wil Millie Glendell Padst which sold at the 1987 state Holstein Convention sale for $15,000. According to Barry her new owner said she just hit over 1,000 pounds of butterfat.

The foundation of their herd comes from an Ivanhoe daughter, EX-94 4E, which had 5 EX daughters. They have four Valiant daughters out of Patsy and one is classified EX as a 3-year-old. Patsy has a lifetime record of 167,410 lbs. with a 4.1% test. Her record at eight years is 29,192M, 4.3 % test and 1250F and protein at 3.5% and 1027 lbs. Several Patsy bulls have gone into AI in Canada.

Her Valiant daughter at 3-years-old has 26,093 lbs. of milk, 4.3% fat, 1112 lbs. fat, 3.8% protein, 1004 lbs. protein.

Pinta Lane Farm

Tim Barlow and Ben Beiler will be welcoming the tour to Pinta Lane Farm. With a milking herd of 90 Holsteins, the herd average is 19,451 lbs. of milk and 741 lbs. of butterfat. Ben and Tim have two Walkway Chief Mark daughters and quite a few Valiant and Tradition daughters. The two Mark daughters produce 75 lbs. of milk at 2-years-old.

Pinta Lane Farm follows the Animal Analysis Association (AAA) recommendations. According to Tim, their BAA of 104.7 reflects their success with that program.

In July a Polygon Mixer was added to the farm. The more precise feeding system has improved overall production and test figures, but the greatest benefit has come in overall improvement in herd health.

Closed circuit TV cameras in the calving area for the past five years have cut down on calving problems in the middle of the night.

"With the farm economy the way it is, you need all the help you can get," said Tim.

Glen Valley Farms

There are seven generations of homebred milking cows on the Ken and Marilyn Umble farm with 60 head in the milking herd. Their herd average is 20,500 lbs. of milk, 750 lbs. of butterfat. This was the home of Glen Valley Star which went into the young sire program of Carnation Genetics. Star was the highest type index bull for two years. Umble's Bell Petra is indexed at 1713M, 45P and 45F and good enough for three contracts.

Umbles sell nearly 15 cows a year to local farmers looking for good, sound milk cows. The Glen Valley Farm BAA is 105%.

Swann Road Holstein Farm

The Swann Road Holstein Farm is a 142-acre, 70-cow dairy farm which also has a broiler house on it, operated by Harold and Esther Bare and family. The rolling herd average is 20,180 lbs. of milk with 756 lbs. of butterfat. The BAA is 105.4%.

Their sires include five milking daughters of Rotate and also milking daughters of Walkway Chief Mark one of the most popular sires on today's AI market. The Bares also have milking daughters of Memorial and Swann Road Krypton. Krypton is a newly released sire at Atlantic Breeders which has a PDT of 2.79 and this places him as the second highest living type bull in top 100 on the TPI list, according to Harold.

Fountain Hill Holstein Farm

This 150-acre farm, owned by Tom Lapp and family, has a milking herd of 65 cows. The rolling herd average is 20,600 lbs. of milk with 750 lbs. of butterfat. The BAA is 102.4.

Fountain Hill Holstein Farm has strong cow families with only one cow not carrying the Fountain Hill prefix. Most are Atlantic Breeders sires with a few by Chairman, Cavalier, Achilles and Krypton.

This is home to Fountain Hill RA Achilles at Eastern Breeders. The Lapps feed TMR and some baled hay.

Adams Forage And Soils Day

crop for haylage, he mows 25 acres in three hours and then chops it the same day.

In summary, Mummert recommended, "If you have the right kinds of soil and you take care of your soil nutrients, you can do alot with alfalfa. You have to select the variety that is right for your soil conditions and meets your disease resistence requirements. There are more good varieties available today than ever before."

John Hess also has a 350 head dairy operation but farms wetter ground than Mummert, Hess finds grasses and mixed hays meet his soil conditions. Hess produces no straight alfalfa, but rather has 250 acres of alfalfa-grass mixes and 50 acres of straight orchard grass.

Hess stated, "Mixed hays give me a wider window for harvest and don't require the extensive management that alfalfa does. In my wetter ground, grasses survive longer than alfalfa and they take the manure better."

Hess admitted that the grass mixes don't bring the top hay market price. However, his six-week harvest interval allows more time for his custom farming business, which includes the sale of silage, haylage, and baled hay. Hess harvests three to five tons from three to four cutting on most of his grass seedings.

Larry Wilkinson also has a large dairy operation, but when two of his sons joined the operation, the family decided to diversify. Originally a Chester County native, Wilkinson had a number of contacts in the mushroom industry who would contract for mulch hay. Utilizing those contacts, Wilkinson now has yearly contracts with a number of mushroom growers.

Wilkinson bales all his hay into Hesston 4x4x8 bales and moves it six weeks or later after harvest. Explained Wilkinson, "To make the hay business profitable in the mulch industry, you must move large volumnes of hay."

He related that most farmers have the wrong assumption about what the mulch buyer will accept. He stated, "What some people think of as mulch is anything you can get into a bale. Mushroom growers work on an end product production quota and they know what kind of hay will produce that number of mushrooms. The hay for mulch most have a certain level of protein and have some quality. They won't take fine grass, meadow grass, or old grass. These have no hollow stem to take up the moisture. If it won't grow enough mushrooms they'll refuse the load."

John Myers addressed the other end of the spectrum of market, premium hay sales. Myers also operates a dairy farm, but is also the proprietor of J.D. Myers, Ptrs. a hay dealership which last year marketed 2500 tons of premium hay, almost exclusively to the horse industry.

Myers stressed that premium hay can be valued on cosmetics, color, leaf content, bales size, or on nutritional value. He stressed that these two markets are not mutually exclusive, and the best hay will capture the best of both these markets.

Myers defined a premium market as one that is above the average hay price year in and year out and cautioned the audience concerning unusually high spikes in the market. He said that premium hay must be weed free and cannot be musty. Hay bales should weigh from 45-60 pounds and be baled with twine that does not easily tear.

He concluded, "A premium market is often determined by your proximity to a horse market. Your best market is a consistant one. The premium market demands quality year after year and also year round. That's what you should strive for in your production. Its a service industry and you must respect that and give it your best."

Culinating the program was the recognition of county participants in state 5-Acre Alfalfa Growers Club. Dr. Sid Bosworth congratulated Larry Mummert and John Myers for their production. Mummert on a new seeding harvested 5 tons to the acre in three cuttings. It yields 5678 tons of digestible nutrients. John Myers two-year-old stand yielded 5.14 tons to the acre in four cuttings. His yield was 5983 tons of digestible nutrients.

Manage Agricultural Risks Workshop

LANCASTER — Farming is a high risk venture, and it is no surprise that risk management has become a high priority concern of many successful farmers.

In 1988 there are new concerns about prices, crop insurance, hedging, environment and credit. To help people in all facets of agriculture to learn more about these risks and how to minimize their impact on the farm business and farm family, Penn State in cooperation with other state agencies and county Extension agents has set up three Risk Management Workshops throughout the state. One will be in Lancaster.

The Lancaster workshop will be held Wednesday, March 9 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, starting at 9:00 a.m. and concluding at 3:00 p.m. For reservations, call the Lancaster Extension Office, (717)394-6851.

Topics for the day include: 1988 Agricultural Outlook by H. Louis Moore of Penn State, Futures Market Risks by Bob Schlichter of Dean Witter Reynolds, The 1988 Feed Grain Program by Al Flemming of the ASCS, Credit Risks and Alternatives by Don Delph of FHA and Greg Diehl of Lancaster Farm Credit, Crop Insurance by Mark Kooker of the University of Delaware and Health and Environmental Risks by Winand Hock of Penn State.

How Richlawn Farms Broke T

Calf mortality, according to Robert, is less than one percent on the Richlawn Farms. Smysers have used calf hutches for over ten years, feed soured colostrum and ween calves at three weeks old. Hutches are closed in with chicken wire because birds in the past have gotten into the pens.

BY PAT PURCELL

YORK — When Rodney and Robert Smyser of York County joined Richlawn Farms with their father, Richard, they had a problem.

"Our biggest problem was improving on an already excellent record Dad had and he had been farming for fifty years," said Robert.

Richard milked around 36 cows, but added 30 in 1971 when Rodney joined the farm. By 1978 their average was up to 19,600 pounds of milk with 741 pounds of butterfat. While that average was good, Rodney and Robert wanted more milk, but could not break the 20,000 pound barrier.

Rodney and his father formed the original partnership in 1970 and built on to the barn in 1971. Robert joined in 1974. Today the Smysers' total head is approximately 200 registered Holsteins. They raise all their own replacements. The bull calves are castrated for steers and fattened to sell for beef.

Smysers latest DHIA figures for January put milk production at 24,225 pounds, test and 864 pounds of butterfat.

"Four of our cows have an estimated production of over 30,000 and 21 are estimated at over 25,000, according to the latest DHIA records," stated Rodney.

While an average of 20,000 pounds per cow milk production would be enough for many dairy farmers, Robert and Rodney were determined to break 20,000 pounds and that determination paid off. They changed their feeding program nearly two years ago. By examining the complexities of feeding high-producers and making some changes they have increased milk production from 20,615 pounds and butterfat from 760 pounds in 1985 to 22,500 pounds and 792 pounds butterfat in 1986. In 1987 milk production average per cow was 23,829 pounds and 827 pounds butterfat and the last DHIA report was 24,225 pounds of milk and 864 pounds of butterfat as of January 1988.

"We were feeding a flake feed and grain mix and I think we were feeding a little too much grain," said Rodney.

They started on a high-protein, high-energy top dressing to cows producing 80 pounds and above daily. Some of their cows received the top dressing three to four months and several of their cows earned that bonus for most of their lactation period.

The top dressing is Master Mix ProTek 1890 pellets. Robert's wife, Lisa, for six years has been the District Sales Manager for Master Mix. When the top dressing is used, they cut down on the grain fed and feel the high-producers are actually eating more grain.

"We also feed some Iso-Plus. To pay for itself you need a two-pound increase and I think we've seen a three to four pound increase," explained Robert.

They have recently added a Microbial Feed Additive within the past two months. They are testing its effect on milk production by giving it to half the milking herd and have seen a two to three pound increase. Although Robert and Rodney may not agree on everything in their partnership, they do agree that they are never satisfied to level off in milk production.

"We always want to produce more milk," said Rodney.

Cows are fed grain three times a day, corn silage twice; haylage once and hay twice. If they had more hay Rodney said they would feed it again.

"The more often you feed the cows the better they digest it. We like to spread out the grain and get more in them. Butterfat improves when fed hay first in morning," said Robert. "We used to feed hay and then grain immediately after hay. Now we feed hay and wait about an hour. They have something course in their rumen. After breakfast we feed them corn silage and then grain and the Master Mix same time as we feed grain.

Robert, Joyce and Rodney Smyser of Richlawn Farm program for their registered Holsteins nearly two years 20,615MP and 760F. Latest DHIA figures of January 19 wonder they are smiling.

The Cobactin, the microbial feed additive is sprayed on the corn silage and the IsoPlus is fed at the same time.

Curbing Mastitis Problems

A high somatic cell count can cut milk production. Their SCC falls regularly between 200,000 to 250,000 and they are not happy about that. They use individual paper towels, teat dip and dry treat

Years ahead of the Chesapeake Bay Program, Robert and Rodney installed the manure storage system ten years ago and began utilizing manure nutrients and cutting costs on commercial fertilizer. Richlawn Farms was the 1987 winner of the Clean Water Farm Award. A portion of the funds received from the CBP were used to enlarge the manure storage system.

all their cows, but their SCC does not change.

"We should cull harder for mastitis, but we don't. When you get good cows you don't want to give up that milk production and that pedigree, you don't want to lose that," said Robert.

The commercial dairyman has the advantage, according to Robert, if he has a cow which has a problem with mastitis he can ship her out.

"If his cows aren't registered and he's not worried about pedigrees he can get rid of her. But we hate to see one go. We hope she'll straighten out. We always seem to have a couple that keep the cell count high, but if that's a high producer, well its tough to get of them," explained Robert.

They do not milk the high count SCC cows with the low SCC cows to keep the mastitis from spreading. Halfway through the milking they wash the milkers in a low acid iodine udder wash and milk the high count cows last. They never put a milker on a high count to a low count cow.

"I don't think it's high production that contributes to the problem I believe it's mostly herditary. If the dam has mastitis problems the offspring does. It's as simple as that," stated Rodney.

Their calving interval is at 13.5 months with some repeated AI services. However, they take part of the blame for not paying more attention to when the cow is in heat.

Their top cow Dolly produces 31,500 pounds in milk production at 1,241 pounds of butterfat her calving interval is 13 months. Their second highest cow Mabel, produces 30,650 pounds with 1,043 pounds of butterfat. Her calving interval was at 18.8 months and need six services.

Their culling rate is 25 percent. The cows they cull are usually sold into other milking herds. Their milk production is high enough they have been able to sell their low producers to farmers who are glad to have them.

"We don't cull as hard as we should. If we have a good cow from a good cow family that has good milk production we like to hold on to them," said Robert.

How to get more milk is always being examined. The biggest problem is in breeding.

" We need better heat detection and we know it, but we just don't do enough about it. Cows go out once a day in the winter and twice a day in the summer," explained Robert. "We use a heat inducing medicine and it has helped. The breeding problems are cystic ovaries and some other general problems."

"Twice a month our vet comes in and checks the herd for pregnancies, to make sure they are ready to breed and after calving."

Their calving interval average is at 13.5 months.

Weaning Calves At 3-weeks Old

The Smysers raise all their calves in individual hutches and have for 10 years, according to Rodney.

"It has worked out real well for us. We have lost very few. I don't remember when we lost a calf last. We needed space is why we went to the hutches, but we had more problems with raising calves in the barn," said Rodney. "Calves grow better, do so much better in the hutches."

Smysers' calves get soured colostrum until 3 weeks old when they are weaned.

"We milk the cow for four days and dump the milk into a large garbage pail. Calf-wena from Master Mix, a pelletted milk replacer fed in conjunction with calf starter started on it as soon as possible. As soon as the calf is eating eight ounces of Calf-wena you can ween them. They must be eating atleast eight ounces," explained Robert.

Richard retired in 1982, but still helps out a lot when he's not golfing or vacationing in Florida. Joyce, Rodney's wife, is the bookkeeper and works part time on the farm.

Close to 40 young Richlawn Holsteins have been exported to Brazil, Ecuador, Japan, Columbia, and Germany through the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

The Smysers have earned awards for high milk production average and butterfat average for six out of the past ten years in York County DHIA figures.

State Senate Ag Committee Approves Farmland Bill

HARRISBURG — Taking the lead to conserve prime farmland, the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee unanimously approved legislation, prime sponsored by Sen. Noah Wenger (R-36), which provides for the issuance and distribution of the $100 million in state bonds approved by the voters in November for farmland preservation.

Senate Bill 1251 establishes the procedure for distribution of the bond funds to counties which will use the money to purchase development rights to prime farmland from farmers volunteering for the preservation program.

"Farmers whose land borders expanding urban regions or is near prime development areas are faced with pressures to sell their land," said Wenger. "For many farmers it is a difficult decision because some developers have offered large sums of money for prime pieces of land.

"Last November, the voters overwhelmingly indicated on the ballot that preserving prime farmland is important to them as citizens and to the future of Pennsylvania," said Wenger, who authored the original agricultural land preservation concept and was a major force behind having the referendum placed on last November's General Election ballot asking voters whether the state should issue bonds to support the program. "Legislation similar to Senate Bill 1251 has been under consideration in the House for several months now, but the House Agriculture Committee has taken no action on the legislation," the Senator said. "It is time to see that the wishes of the electorate are met."

As provided in the bill, money will be distributed to county governments in the form of grants to be used to purchase "agricultural conservation easements" in recognized agricultural areas of 500 or more acres. The "easements" are similar to development rights in that they represent the right to prevent the development or improvement of the land for purposes other than agricultural use. Wenger pointed out that farmers may participate in the program only if their land is included in a designated agricultural preserve.

Farmers who wish to participate would be offered the monetary difference between the value of their land for agriculture and the value of the land if developed in exchange for the development rights. Wenger stressed that the farmer does not lose his legal ownership nor is he restricted as to what type of agricultural activity may be conducted on the land once the development rights are transferred to the county.

"No farmer will be forced or required to participate in the program," explained Wenger. "Criteria for participation is based on the quality of the farmland and the likelihood of development if the land were not preserved."

To oversee the implementation of the program, an Agricultural Conservation Board will be established. The Board will be responsible for certifying county programs and for distributing the state funds.

The bond money will be issued in three stages of $25 million, $35 million, and $40 million. Half of the funds from each of the three bond issuances would be distributed to all counties in the state in proportion to the amount of land transfer activity within that county. The other 50 percent will be distributed to counties in a matching program at $1 in local funds to either $4 or $8 in state funds, depending on each county's agricultural production.

"Agriculture is Pennsylvania's leading industry," said Wenger. "It is imperative that we conserve farmland which is threatened by development or other uses besides agricultural production. We must begin as soon as possible to implement the necessary programs to conserve prime farmland which is vanishing every day.

"Senate Bill 1251 now goes before the full Senate where I believe it will receive swift attention," Wenger said. "By taking immediate action, we can insure that future Pennsylvanians will be able to enjoy the fresh and affordable farm products that we all too often take for granted."

Farm Credit Is Plowing New Ground.

There's something satisfying about that morning when the winter wait's over and you start breaking ground for a new growing season.

At Farm Credit, we know the feeling. Because we're owned and controlled by farmers. And because we've just finished the groundwork to make our services faster. More economical. And more responsive to you than ever before.

We're adding the business technology to cut paperwork. And we're expanding our services, so you can come to us for all your farm loans. Loans to buy acreage or build on it. Production loans for seed and fertilizer. Equipment loans for new machinery. And our people will be there for you season after season, plowdown to harvest. People who understand farming from the ground up.

Our changes aren't earth-shaking. They're simply ways to set up the best possible conditions for growth.

And whether it's done with a plan or a plow, that's what breaking new ground is all about.

On Farm Testing Can Prevent Antibiotic Residues

ARLINGTON, VA. — Do you realize how much of your money is spent on extra time, mileage and antibiotic testing costs? Cooperative records show that the average farm call costs about $40.

What's the solution to the problem of antibiotic contaminated milk reaching the market?

The obvious answer is that antibiotics need to be prevented at the farm level. If you're unsure whether antibiotics have cleared a cow's system or if contaminated milk has been put into your tank, an on-farm test can confine the problem on the farm. Once contaminated milk leaves the farm, the problem multiples.

Testing suspect milk at the farm can prevent contamination of loads and even silos of milk. Tests available range from the official test (Bacillus stearothermophilus disc assay) and the DelvotestP (2½ hours time), which are recognized as A2 methods by Standard Methods to three faster tests which do not detect as wide a range of antibiotics.

The Bacillus stearothermophilus disc assay was designed for laboratory use. Results are available in 2½ hours. Equipment investment can range from $200 to $1,000; per sample cost is less than $1. The test is read by observing a zone of inhibition. This test will tell you if the antibiotic is a beta lactam (penicillins) or other inhibitor.

The Charm field test (Penicillin Assays, Inc., 36 Franklin St., Malden, MA 02148, phone 617-322-1523), requires an investment of about $1,800. Results are available in 6 minutes with a cost per sample of about $2. Besides beta lactams, this test also can check for macrolides (erythromycin) and chloramphenicol. A digital readout provides the results.

The DelvotestP (Gist-brocades USA, Inc., 5550-77 Center Drive, Charlotte, NC 28224, phone 704-527-9000), was designed for the laboratory, field or on-farm use. Results are available in 2½ hours, but can be read up to 12 hours after the incubation period is over. An equipment investment of about $100 is required and cost per test is about $1. Results are read by observing a color change.

The Penzyme test (Smith Kline Animal Health Products, P.O. Box 2650, West Chester, PA 19380, phone 800-523-4835), can be run at the plant, in the field or on the farm. Results can be read in 15 minutes and require observing a color change. The equipment investment is about $100 and costs per sample are in the $2 range.

The Spot test (Angenics, Inc., 100 Inman St., Cambridge, MA 02139, phone 617-876-6468), results are available in about 6 minutes. Laboratory use is recommended. The equipment investment is about $500; cost per test is approximately $2. A texture change is observed in order to interpret the results.

Milk Market News

HARRISBURG — Milk production in Pennsylvania during January totaled 858 million pounds, an increase of less than 1 percent over last January's production, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

The number of milk cows in the Commonwealth during January averaged 724,000 head, unchanged from December but 5,000 less than January a year ago.

Milk production per cow averaged 1,185 pounds in January, up 15 pounds from December and also from January a year ago.

For the year 1987, Pennsylvania maintained its ranking as the nation's fifth leading state in milk production with 10.2 billion pounds.

Milk production in the 21 states surveyed during January totaled 10.2 billion pounds, 3 percent more than January 1987. Total milk cows in the 21 states averaged 8.67 million head, 2 percent less than January a year ago. Production per cow averaged 1,177 pounds, 19 pounds more than December and 54 pounds more than January a year ago.

During the October-December period, the 21 selected states produced 85 percent of U.S. production. If producers in the remaining 29 states not surveyed followed the same production pattern as the 21 reporting states, then U.S. milk production would be 12 billion pounds for January.

"We discard our old hybrids . . . not blend 'em"

Silage blends are tempting. So are farm economy packs. But who are we kidding. These are discontinued hybrids . . . ones that no longer meet the competition. Or pay the bills.

That's why Doebler discards the has beens. And only sells the top of the line. Like Doebler 75X, Pennsylvania's all time champ with 281.6 bushels.

New Extra Performance single crosses lived up to advance notices in 1987 tests. And then some. Doebler 66XP popped 212.7 bu. at Saegerstown, PA, with solid 165.2 bu. average in 30 trials. Same great news for 57XP and 28XP. But bad news, too. Two XPs sold out. Supply of 28XP limited.

Ask your Doebler dealer about these hot ones. All top of the line for 1988:

DOEBLER 89X-C, 120 days. Old reliable popped 184.4 bu. last year at East Earl, PA. Averaged 158.3 bu. in 1987 farm tests, 165.4 bu. in 1986. Shakes off drought and leaf diseases. Good standup. Deep kernels.

DOEBLER 86X-A, 119 days. Outstanding stalks on this 86X update. Better sheller, too. Hit 196.7 bushels at New Holland, PA last fall, 187.8 bu. at Dover, DE, Quick drydown. Medium ears.

DOEBLER 75X, 113 days. PA's all time corn champ and making new fans every year. In 1987, shelled out 212 bu. at Lewisburg, PA, 164.7 bu. average for 32 farm tests. Great stander. Drought tolerant.

DOEBLER 70X-C, 112 days. Fill silo and pick rest. Large, green plants. Sturdy stalks. Big ears. Coming off 155.5 bu. test year, with a 186.8 bu. top in Ohio. Shrugs off Northern Leaf Blight.

DOEBLER 67X, 108 days. Talk about consistent. 67X averaged 167.3 bu. in 1986 Penna Commercial Standard trials, and 162.5 in 1987. Half sister to 65X. Same strong stalks and disease tolerance. But lower price.

DOEBLER 48X, 90 days. Three time champ of PA Commercial Corn trials. Capable of two, three and four ears per stalk. Averaged 165.2 bu. in 1987 farm trials. Medium height. Excellent stander. Plant thick.

DOEBLER 48X-E, 87 days. Quicker dry down than 48X. Same great stalks. Multiple ears keep it shelling big year after year. 157.2 bu. average last fall in 11 tests, 173.1 bushel top at Saegerstown, PA.

DOEBLER 29X, 79 days. Best choice for shortest season areas of Pennsylvania and New York State. Long ears. Fairly tall. Quick drydown. Outshells many 85 day hybrids. Sorry, supply limited for 1988.

Everything sells in Doebler's bushel bag, of course. Super singles and single crosses can have up to 10% more medium flats than 80,000 unit bags. Now that's a real bargain.

Lancaster Conservation Banquet Set

The 37th Annual Banquet of the Lancaster County Conservation District is scheduled to be held on Thursday evening, March 17, 1988 at the Yoder's Banquet Hall, located in New Holland, at 7:00 P.M. Tickets are now available from any District Director, members of the Staff, or at the District Office by calling 717-299-5361, at the cost of $10 each, for a family style dinner.

We are honored to have as our guest speaker Secretary of DER, Arthur A. Davis. Secretary Davis was appointed Secretary of the Department of Environmental Resources on January 7, 1987, by Governor Robert P. Casey.

DER is responsible for wisely managing the state's natural resources and enforcing laws and regulations to prevent environmental contamination and to guarantee the rights of all Pennsylvanians, including future generations, to a clean environment.

Prior to his appointment at DER, Davis held the Maurice K. Goddard Chair of Forestry and Environmental Resources at Penn State, where his responsibilities included teaching; research in selected areas of environmental policy; and work with community, state, and federal leaders and private sector decision-making groups.

Davis holds a Bachelor of Science in Wildlife Conservation from the University of Maine and a Master of Forestry Degree from Yale University.

He and his wife Neen enjoy wilderness canoeing on northern Canadian rivers, often accompanied by several of their five children.

Advance reservations are needed to attend this dinner meeting.

Acreage Reduction Program Option For Dairymen

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

Although it's been all but mandatory for crop farmers, few livestock producers, particularly dairymen, have participated in the acreage reduction program — the federal government's annual exercise in attempting to limit the harvest of wheat, corn and other crops.

For many such farmers, their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office, which administers this program on a local level, is an unfamiliar spot.

This tendency is now changing, however, according to local and state ASCS officials who say recent revisions have sparked greater interest.

"The number of livestock farmers in the program has been increasing," said Alarie Fleming, a staffer in Pennsylvania state ASCS office in Harrisburg. Colleagues in state offices in Maryland and Virginia concurr.

The basic premise of the acreage reduction program is still the same as it's been in past years. Farmers agree to idle a portion of their acreage "base" for a particular crop — 20 percent this year in the case of corn — in return for deficiency payments, access to loans on that crop and, in some cases, diversion payments as well. The calculation of bases is critical; basically, it represents an average over the past five years of the acreage devoted to that crop on a particular farm, provided these plantings have been reported to ASCS officials.

The fact that corn grown for silage does not count in this calculation generally has limited the program's usefulness to dairymen. Even today, those who use all or most of their land to grow forage for their cattle probably won't benefit from participation, according to Wayne Kurtz, executive director of the York County, Pa., ASCS office.

On the other hand, those farmers who grow more corn than they need for silage — particularly those who plant crops on more than one farm — may reap significant rewards from enrollment, Kurtz said.

Corn grown for grain, whether harvested as ear corn or shelled corn, traditionally has been eligible for deficiency payments, a portion of which is paid at sign-up and the remainder several months after harvest. (The estimated deficiency payment for corn is $1.10 a bushel this year.) Participating farmers receive this payment whether they feed the grain themselves or sell it.

In the past, however, few livestock producers have taken advantage of the other major program benefit — access to nine-month loans on the crop they harvest — according to ASCS officials. These commodity loans allow farmers to receive payment in the fall for their crops while leaving them in storage for favorable market prices. If they haven't sold their grain at the end of the nine months, it can be turned over to the government as payment for the loan.

The introduction of generic commodity certificates in the past few years has given a lot of flexibility to this process. The certificates, which are redeemable for government-owned grain at rates that fluctuate daily, can be used to pay back loans. When, as has been the case most of the time, county loan rates exceed these posted prices, farmers have used the certificates to "PIK and roll." By taking out a loan and redeeming it immediately with certificates, farmers could have the use of their grain and pocket profits that averaged 10-20 cents a bushel last year, according to Dave Wolfe, the ASCS director in Frederick County, Md.

ASCS officials said they expect this year's higher market prices will make PIK and roll less favorable. Nevertheless, the use of certificates remains an interest-free way for farmers to pay back commodity loans.

Often, dairy farmers have not taken advantage of loans or PIK and roll strategies because they harvest their crop as high-moisture corn, which traditionally has been eligible for loans on no more than 75 percent of the total stored and not eligible at all if the corn is processed in any way before storage. Under a program option in effect last year, however, farmers could weigh high-moisture corn before storage to obtain a loan for 100 percent of the total if they then redeemed that loan immediately with PIK certificates. Although it is not currently part of the program, lobbyists for the National Cattlemen's Association, who were instrumental in its inclusion last year, said they expect this option will again be available this fall.

One major stumbling block to greater participation by livestock farmers remains their past lack of involvement with the program. Few Frederick County dairymen, for instance, have bothered to register their planting decisions with ASCS personnel, Wolfe said. Should such a farmer walk into the ASCS office this spring to enroll in the program (sing-up closes April 15), he probably would find his base limited to just one-fifth of the acres he harvested last year.

For this and other reasons, ASCS officials are continually urging all farmers to at least record their planting intentions regardless of whether or not they participate in acreage reduction.

"There may not be a program now that will suit them, but, who knows, a couple of years down the road (there may be)," York County's Kurtz said.

Moreover, farms with established bases are more valuable to sell or rent, he noted.

Details Of Acreage Reduction

Sign-up for this year's acreage reduction program options, which include wheat, corn, sorghum, barley and oats, began Feb. 16 and will close April 15.

Farmers must idle 20 percent of their bases to enter the corn option, 27.5 percent to enter the wheat option. Corn growers also can sign up for an additional 10-percent diversion in return for payments of $1.75 a bushel.

The loan rates established nationally are $2.21 a bushel for wheat, $1.77 for corn. Local rates may vary somewhat.

Deficiency payments, 40 percent of which are payable in advance (20 percent in cash at sign-up, another 20 percent in certificates about May 16), are estimated at $1.53 a bushel for wheat, $1.10 for corn.

The options for sorghum, barley and oats are similar to that for corn, although at lower rates.

Most other program features are the same as they were last year. One major change, however, is the inclusion of the so-called "0-92" provision. Under this, a farmer who idles part or all of his base acres still can obtain up to 92 percent of the deficiency payment he'd receive if he planted his maximum permitted acreage. Sign-up for this option closes March 11.

Jersey Organizations Fund $35,000 In Research

COLUMBUS, OH — The American Jersey Cattle Club and National All-Jersey Inc. funded $35,000 in research at meetings of the Boards of Directors of each organization held in Columbus, Ohio, February 20 to 22, 1988.

In the past several years, the Jersey organizations have increased their emphasis on research and development of new information useful for Jersey owners. The endowment of the AJCC Research Foundation has been substantially increased, and a competitive grants program has been initiated.

Projects funded included development of more efficient processing of milk as well as practical feeding methods for Jersey cattle, growth standards, and efficient reproduction. Funding included a total of 12 projects from eight different states. The researchers and specific projects are:

1. J. A. Bertrand and B.F. Jenny. Clemson University, Clemson, South Carolina. Characterization of feeding and management practices of high-producing Jersey herds.
2. A.J. Heinrichs and G.L. Hargrove. Penn State University, University Park, Pennsylvania. Development of Standards of Weight and Wither Height for Jersey Heifers from 2 months to 2 Years of Age.
3. Ina Hoeschele. Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, Virginia. Association between genetic defects and performance for traits of economic importance in dairy cattle.
4. Paul S. Kindstedt. University of Vermont, Burlington, Vermont. Effect of milkfat globule size on fat recovery in cheddar cheese made from Jersey and Holstein milks.
5. P.S. Kindstedt and J.R. Kunkel. University of Vermont, Burlington, Vermont. Effect of subclinical mastitis by a minor pathogen on milk proteins, protease activity and casein degradation in Jersey milk.

Dry-flowable PROZINE®. Costs less than Bicep or Lasso + atrazine and gives superior control of the toughest weeds and grasses in corn.

PROZINE® 70DF corn herbicide delivers season-long control of major problem grasses and broadleaf weeds, including velvetleaf, triazine-resistant pigweed and lambsquarters, foxtails, panicums and seedling Johnsongrass.

In fact, PROZINE does it all for up to $3 an acre less than Bicep[1] or Lasso[2]+ atrazine.

One application of PROZINE, applied pre-emergence or early postemergence, gives corn growers broad-spectrum control of grasses and broadleaves. Do NOT incorporate PROZINE in corn.

PROZINE is packaged in two convenient 20 lb. bags per carton. Its dry-flowable formulation makes it easy to mix and apply.

So get season-long control of your toughest weeds. And save up to $3 an acre. With convenient, dry-flowable PROZINE.

RCMA Calls Six Meetings In Southeast PA

CAMP HILL — Southcentral Pennsylvania dairymen will learn first hand how over order pricing can work for them at six county meetings scheduled next week by the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency.

The meetings kickoff Monday, March 7, at Middleburg, Snyder County, and continue through Thursday, March 10.

"The sharp drop in milk prices has sparked new interest in RCMA," Pennsylvania Coordinator Roy Romberger noted in making the announcement. He said Class I milk price in Federal Order 2 was $13.89, or 57 cents lower per hundred this January than a year earlier. It is expected to drop another $1.04 by June.

Blend price for first six months of 1988 could average 90 cents less than 1987, it also is forecast.

For an average 40-cow dairyman, a 90-cent cut in blend price in 1988 would mean a $4,680 slash in income, Romberger pointed out.

"And that's very possible," he noted.

At the same time, he said, there is a shortage of milk in the Northeast.

RCMA is asking dealers and handlers to pay $14.45 per hundredweight for Class I milk only, Romberger explained.

"It works," he added. "In November, RCMA members received a 48-cent premium for Class I milk. That came to 16 cents per hundred for the Class I and II blend."

Premiums could improve dramtically, according to Romberger. By June, it is projected, Class I premium will reach $1.71 as federal order prices keep tumbling.

Dairymen at the March meetings also will have a chance to review membership options and learn more about the Farmland diversion, he said.

Upcoming meetings are:

Snyder, Union and Northumberland counties — 8 p.m., March 7 at Snyder County Courthouse Community Room, Middleburg.

Juniata and Mifflin counties — 1 p.m., March 8 at Walker Grange Hall near Mexico. It's on old Route 22 between Mifflintown and Thompsontown.

Perry County — 8 p.m., March 8 at Newport High School Vo-ag Room, 6th and Gant streets, Newport.

Cumberland and Franklin counties — 8 p.m., March 9 at Shippensburg Junior High School Vo-ag Room. School's off Route 11.

Dauphin County — 1 p.m., March 10 at Dauphin County Ag Center, 1451 Peters Mountain Road, at intersection of Routes 225 and 325.

Schuylkill County — 7:30 p.m., March 10 at County Extension Office on Penn State Schuylkill campus, Schuylkill Haven.

Other meetings are also planned. For more details, call RCMA at 1-800-382-1356 or (717) 761-2740.

ford County Extension Association annual meeting here Feb. 25.

The award recognizes farms that have remained in the same family for 200 years, since the signing of the U.S. Constitution.

Presented with mounted certificates bearing the signature of U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Ling were Clarence and Larry Beegle of Bedford RD 4 and John and Mary Miller of Buffalo Mills.

The Beegles operate a 228-acre beef and dairy enterprise while the Millers farm 255 acres, keeping a dairy herd and producing maple syrup.

Receiving a Pennsylvania Century Farm Award, recognizing a farm's ownership within the family for 100 years, were Milton and Sally Arnold of Bedford RD 6. The Millers crop their 120 acres. The award, signed by Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolfe, was presented by Ted Hoover of the Department's Altoona regional staff.

Vegetable Growers Urged

growers who produce vegetables for sale on one or more acres or on 1,000 or more square feet of greenhouse space. This would include growers who have crops that are commonly defined as vegetables standard to marketing practices plus pumpkins, gourds, and Indian corn and excluding white potatoes, whose producers have established their own program.

Those growers who are delinquent in their payments will be assessed a one percent per month penalty plus collection costs, enforceable by the Secretary of Agriculture.

The program would replace the five-year old Pennsylvania Vegetable Research Program, which was terminated last August. The old program had collected more than $120, 000 for vegetable research from growers with 10 or more acres of vegetables. This research helped increased crop yields, but didn't help farmers market their produce at a profitable price.

"The program we had before was more geared to the processing grower than the fresh-market grower," Bergman noted. "Also, the little guy didn't get anything out of it."

In addition, under the old program growers delinquent in payments were not penalized. "There was really no practical way to enforce the old program because if a grower didn't pay his assessment, the money to take him to court would come from payments made by other growers," explained William Troxell, executive director of PVGA, "If they owed us $30, it just wasn't worth it to take them to court. From there, it just mushroomed because when people saw others getting away with not paying an assessment, they figured they could too."

In the new program, delinquent growers would be liable for court costs in addition to their assessment fee.

The program has been drafted by PDA, who is preparing a mailing list to get a copy of the proposal and a notice of public hearings to vegetable growers. If there is enough support for the program at the hearings, the Secretary of Agriculture will call for a mail referendum.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

- Three directors of the Farm Bureau Cooperative Assn. were re-elected to three year terms at the annual meeting of the co-op Wednesday at the Guernsey Breeders Pavilion.

They are Willis Z. Esbenshade, 1631 Esbenshade Road, Lancaster, Northeastern District; Paul G. Hershey, R3 Manheim, Northwestern District, and Veryl E. Brown, R1 Peach Bottom, southeastern district.

- A Pennsylvania farm girl will become "National Queen of the Furrow" and preside at major functions during the National Plowing Contest at Hershey Aug. 21-22, the contest committee announced Friday following a meeting in Hershey.

- WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 28-B. Snavely Garber, Willow Street, general farmer was re-elected a member of the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange board of directors today. Garber has been a member of Eastern States since 1937 and currently a member of the executive committee.

- If you are one of the more than 80,000 persons who own one of the 100,000 pieces of taxable property in Lancaster County, you are going to have visitors sometime during the next year.

Farmers will probably be visited first by a man asking them to point out their property lines on a map. Then will come a team to assess the farm.

These men will be visible evidence of the re-assessment program now being carried on by the county.

- Repeating an event which last year netted the March of Dimes $1,310.79, a sale will be held Wednesday evening of next week at the Ephrata Farmers Market.

Everything from horses and hogs to pies and cakes will be offered and sold.

Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder can free you from your chains

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS. On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house Year after year

TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel, their chain has more Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life, their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life

PROVEN DESIGN. Over 10 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction

EASY ADAPTABILITY· Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles

5-YEAR WARRANTY Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough Theirs doesn't In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales Ours don't

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake

HI-GRADING OF FEED. Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops, birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition

REMIXING FEED Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed, theirs leaves most old feed to get stale

BILLED-OUT FEED Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed, neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste

COST SAVINGS Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs

LOW MAINTENANCE With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga trough (one competitor has only 22 ga ) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs

SIMPLE OPERATION "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation

Corn And Forage Event

The basic premise that EPA and the environmentalists use is that everything that is applied to the foliage and the surface of the earth over time goes straight down until it intercepts with the ground water. "How do we attack that premise?" Bailey asked. What research can you quote that proves this is not true? These people calculate all the chemicals, pesticides, and fertilizers that are applied. They may take these tons multiplied by the acres and say, 'Just think about all that pollution out there that's heading for our underground water supply.' Our challege is to prove that's not true," Bailey said.

Bailey said not much research is being done in this area; only limited research in central Iowa and Illinois with field tile systems. Here the field history of crops from the last 25 years is compared with the water testing program in the tile system to see what's being picked up in the water. The theory here is that the tile lines will pick up any pollution before it goes down into the ground water. "I hope we can buy enough time to find out what happens to these products we use because we're going to need information if we are to continue to use them. These ground water problems will not go away," Bailey said. "It will get worse. We need to unite to address this issue. EPA will begin to eliminate products that can be sold in a given state wherever there's alleged contamination."

INTERNATIONAL TRADE

Bailey said a decision in Brussels, Tokyo, or Moscow affect us as farmers just like it does farmers close to those capitals. All the farm subsidies, target prices, and quota systems affect international farm trade. "Free trade is in the best interest of all of us," Bailey said. "We all have a higher standard of living when this happens. But if we are going after Japan to eliminate their beef and citrus tariffs, how can we justify our dairy support prices."

Bailey said whatever progress is made in the general agreement on tariffs and trade right now will affect what we will be able to do in the 1990 Farm Bill. "We're talking about significant change in the agricultural programs here," Bailey said.

The main theme of the 1990 Farm Bill will likely be decoupling-- no set-asides, no target prices, and no loans; only a cash payment that goes down five or ten percent each year, and we may be on the world market totally. "We must begin to think about this possibility right now," Bailey said.

While people say the American economy is all service, the recent stockmarket crash came because of weakness in the basic industries-- agriculture, forestry, and manufacturing. "All these things are basic and agriculture is the most basic of the basic industries," Bailey said.

Walter Johnson, Julian, was recognized for meritous work on the field service committee for the National Corn Growers Association. He was given a plaque for his service. The national association now has 18,000 members in 21 states. Membership in the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association is $5. To join both the state and the national associations is $20. Membership inquiries can be made to Johnson at RD1 Box 52, Julian, PA 16844.

John Shearer, immediate past president of the state association, chaired the program. Curt Rakestraw, president, and Boyd Wolff, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture, gave opening remarks.

Herman Warsaw, an Illinois farmer that produced 300 bushels of corn per acre, suffered a serious illness and was not able to attend. Harold Reetz, vice president of the American Phosphorous and Potash Institute, showed a slide presentation on the Warsaw operation. Seminars were held throughout the day. The sponoring agribusinesses listed on the program are as follows:

Agri/Quip Corp., Agway, Inc.; American Cyanamid; J.E. Baker Co.; Beachley Hardy Seeds; Brubaker Agronomic; Cargill Hybrid Seeds; Central Petroleum; Ciba-Geigy; Dekalb-Pfizer Genetics; Doeblers Hybrids; Dow Chemical Co.; Dupont.

FMC Corp.; Fred Gutwein Hybrids; Hanover Lime & Stone; Hoffman Seeds, Inc.; ICI Americas; Jacques Seed Co.; May Co. Supply; Mobay Corp.; Monsanto; Muncy-Chief Hybrids; NC+ Hybrids; Pennfield Corp.; Pioneer Hi-Breds; P.L. Rohrer & Bros.; Ryder Supply; Stanford Seed Co.; Tam Agri Corp.; Willard Ag. Services.

The AgMaster® Inoculant System Still Beats The Others Cold!

Here's the most cost-effective way to protect the feed value of your ensiled forage crops.

All silage inoculants are not created equal! Only AgMaster helps you:

- Protect different ensiled crops with three separate inoculant products.
- Get easy, thorough application to ensiled crops with two liquid applicator models (silo-site or in-field).
- Protect valuable fermentation bacteria with a special frozen shipment/storage method.

Place your order now for haylage/baled hay, corn silage, and high-moisture corn inoculants and get a 10% discount on all AgMaster inoculants.

Exit On I-81 To Take Prime Farm Land

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG — Farmers in Franklin County recently voiced their concern about a long-debated exit on I-81. The proposed Exit 7 would, in the opinion of area farmers, cut through prime farm land in Greene Township. The exit is intended to relieve traffic congestion on Route 30 East through Chambersburg.

The Buchart-Horn study, done in 1987, places Exit 7 on the 232 acre dairy farm of Clyde Kuhns, Chambersburg. Kuhns is in the process of forming an agricultural district that would include his farm. Such a district, however, would not necessarily prevent the construction of the exit in that area.

According to Herman Wirth, who was active in the formation of another agricultural district in the township, the Ag Security Act was an attempt by the legislature to give farmers the right to farm. "It is more difficult for land in an ag district to be taken under eminent domain," Wirth said. The matter must be presented before several boards, including one on the state level. "They must prove that using that farm land is the only viable alternative they have," he said.

Plans for Exit 7 are not definite, but it has been approved and funded by the state, and is on the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation's twelve year plan. Plans for a bypass around Chambersburg have been discussed for years, but funding for it has not been approved. The Greene Township Board of Supervisors and the Franklin County Farmer's Association have gone on record as opposing Exit 7 without a bypass. "A bypass is what is needed," said William Swailes, president of the Franklin County Farmer's Association. The association is in favor of saving farmland, "but we're going to lose that anyway," Swailes said. "Chambersburg is growing out that way. That area will be in development anyway, eventually."

According to Richard Kramer, Chairman of the Greene Township Board of Supervisors, the Board is opposed to Exit 7 without a bypass because Exit 7 alone won't eliminate traffic congestion. "Why spend money for something that won't help the traffic situation?" he asked. "There's no money for a bypass," he added. "It's years down the road."

Phil Tarquino, Franklin County planner, said that PennDOT is seeking an engineering firm to do a design, location and environmental study. "The location has not been determined," he said.

"If it follows the study done last fall, the whole exit will be on my farm," Kuhns said. He added that he has no reason to believe that the recommendations of the study will not be followed. "Our feeling in this neighborhood is that if it gets into the concrete planning stages, it'll be too late for us to change it," he said. "Now is the time to voice our opposition."

The only thing that all sides seem to agree on is that something must be done about the traffic congestion on Route 30 East.

WESTFALIA HIGH TECH DAIRYING®

To manage an employee like this...

You need a system like this...

The Westfalia high-tech Dairy Management System !

Your cows are the most important employees you have That s why it makes good business sense to manage them with a Westfalia high tech Dairy Management System

With Westfalia s exclusive PC Operating System you re in command with a system that controls peripheral equipment from feed stations to milk meters

Now you can manage by exception to

- Challenge feed each individual producer
- Catch health problems before they become serious
- Get accurate breeding reports
- Obtain optimum lactation records

And with the optional Metatron you ll get

- Electronic milk metering
- Automatic take off
- Pulsator with built in stimulator
- Automatic or manual parlor feeding
- Remote terminal for weigh jar users

And this program is user friendly with self help screens and pop-up windows for individual cow and group reports

Why the Westfalia system even has an exclusive interrupt driven feature which allows concurrent management programs to be run while cows are being fed!

Aren t you interested in increased production better herd health and reduced calving intervals? That s what Westfalia users everywhere are reporting ments plotted on a growth chart according to breed standards. Measuring girth is not enough. A heifer can get fat on a corn silage diet and a fat heifer is undesirable, Heinrichs stressed. The skeletal structure will suffer from lack of protein and minerals resulting in lack of size at breeding time. Holsteins should be gaining 1.7 pounds/day and the smaller breeds should be gaining 1.4. If heifers are not gaining at this rate, then the farmer is doing something wrong.

A balanced ration, proper housing and good management can make a difference in costs and in income. On farms studied in Indiana and Butler counties with an average of 51 head per herd, the farmers who made inexpensive changes in their calf and heifer management realized an increased return of $5,400.

According to Heinrichs these farmers had several similarities:

-- growth rate was monitored

-- additives such as Rumensin and Bovatec were used for better growth (when it was considered economical).

-- Heifers were bred at 14 months.

-- Farmers fed the heifers a balanced ration.

The farmers who did not make these recommended adjustments in their replacement raising program, did not gain $5,400 in return on input.

Heifers were sorted by height after two years into three groups. The smallest group at less than 50 inches and approximately 1,000 pounds produced 14,708 pounds of milk as a two-year-old. The tallest and most desirable group at 53 inches or more and weighing approximately 1,200 pounds produced 16,904 pounds of milk as two-year-olds. Getting height on heifers with a proper nutritional balance made obvious economic sense.

Heinrichs said that those farmers who have a calf mortality greater than five percent need to make some changes in management. Those farms studied with a calf mortality of less than 5 percent had these similarities:

-- either wife or spouse (instead of hired help) cared for calves.

-- udders were washed immediately after calving.

-- frozen colustrum was fed.

-- first colustrum was hand fed.

The timing of colustrum and quantity fed and calf raising facilities with particular attention to ventilation and forage intake before weaning all had a critical effect on calf mortality. Poor ventilation led to health problems and calf mortality, but pneumonia-stricken calves also freshen nearly three months later than the calves in facilities with good ventilation.

Heinrichs recommended the use of growth additives known as ionophores as in Rumensin and Bovatec, but only when the farmer looked closely at the price and determined it economically feasible for his operation. Since Bovatec was new and did not have as much data available on it as Rumensin, Heinrichs discussed the advantages of Rumensin. This feed additive can decrease the effects of coccidiosis on calves and heifers and can decrease the age at first breeding.

New Diseases For Dairy Animals

Dr. Larry Hutchinson, Penn State Extension Veterinarian did not like being the bearer of bad tidings, but told farmers that as the density of the animal population in Lancaster County increases, so will the spread and occurence of several diseases increase.

These diseases are not new to the dairymen. However, they are just recently becoming a new problem to dairy farmers. There are several farmers should know about:

-- BRSV is a respiratory disease which should be vaccinated for, but is not included on many immunization programs. The symptoms are coughing and sneezing. A temperature of 107 degrees is common among the 5 percent of animals which develop an allergic reaction to it and may die.

-- mastitis is anti-biotic resistant. This bacteria grows in standing water and thrives in weak iodine solutions.

-- Johnes is becoming known as the Lancaster County disease according to Hutchinson. Infected cows will experience weight loss, production loss and will eventually die. There is no treatment for it. Within the next two months New Bottom labs in Kennett Square, Chester County, will be able to conduct tests for Johnes, which will ease the state testing program for which there is a long waiting list.

-- BLV or Leukosis has infected nearly one-third of the state's dairy cows. BLV can prevent exportation of bred heifers to foreign markets. It can only be spread through blood.

-- Coccidiosis is a bloody diarhea which is striking at a younger and older animal than it had done previously. Rumensin and Bovatec are good treatments for it. To prevent it in young calves, hutches should always be moved, cleaned and sanitized after each calf.

-- Crypto appears as a form of mild diarhea and there is little that can correct it. It can spread to humans and small children are particularly susceptible to it and can be serious. A thorough washing of hands after tending calves should prevent its spread.

Udder Washing VS Teat Dipping

There are three priorities to be considered when deciding upon the right udder preparation to control environmental mastitis, according to Dave Galton of Cornell University:

1. Milk quality.
2. Minimizing mastitis.
3. Obtaining optimum milk production and milking efficiency.

"I recommend pre-dipping teats and dry wiping. If there is manure on the teat you must wash it first and then pre-dip, but only use pre-dipping products with supportive data. This is extremely important for you to get results," said Galton.

A farmer can do as good a job with a water hose and a wet towel, but he must be very careful to do it correctly, and Galton added that people are not always careful. Pre-dipping was the optimum choice simply because it would be difficult to do it incorrectly.

"Using a water hose can make a situation worse by allowing water to drain from the udder onto the teats. You do not need to wet above the teat. What you need is a clean, dry teat," stated Galton.

Udder washes, according to Galton, offered a small benefit because of the low concentration of iodine and the long contact necessary in order to kill contaminants on the teat. Pre-dipping is found to be very effective in killing bacteria within seconds, according to Galton and does a better job of killing bacteria at the teat end, which is a critical area for controlling mastitis. One precaution for teat dipping is the teat must be wiped dry after dipping or a high level of iodine will be found in the milk and that is undesirable.

Pre-dipping reduced the occurence of new mammary infections in herds studied by 51 percent over wet towel use. Galton also noted that farmers in New York have been successful using newspapers in place of paper towels.

Heat Stress Reduction

Shade barns prove to effectively reduce the loss of milk production by preventing heat stress, according to Dennis Buffington of Penn State.

Farmers can realize two valuable benefits from their investment in a shade barn. According to Buffington cows kept in a shade barn had a conception rate of 44.4 percent over cows allowed to stand in the sun, which had a 25.3 percent conception rate. Secondly, those cows in the sun produced 10 percent less milk than those cows in the shade.

The shade barn to be effective must be large enough to provide each cow with 50 square feet of space and it must encompass the feed and water area. Cows will not leave the shade just to get feed and water, according to Buffington. The roof ridge should run east to west. A concrete floor is a must for sanitary conditions to provide easy cleaning. Before investing in a misting system or fans, Buffington suggested that farmers first invest in a shade barn.

Liner Slippage and Mastitis

Liner slippage and the improper removal of milking machine from teats can have detrimental affects on teats and contribute significantly to mastitis problems. In studies conducted by Galton, bacteria was

Richlawn Farms

On the 700 acres they farm, 300 acres is in corn, 50 acres in barley and 50 in wheat. The 150 acres in soybeans is sold as a cash crop. They use no-till and have for nearly 5 years. They find it time saving and as well as soil conserving with no noticeable differences in yields, according to Rodney. The Smysers were way ahead of the Chesapeake Bay Project on many instances.

"Dad has always been involved in soil conservation practices long before the Chesapeake Bay Program began. We received the Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award in 1987 for implementing the conservation program designed for us," said Robert.

"We put the manure storage facility in about ten years ago and have soil tested and tested the manure and spread the manure only where it was needed and always try to incorporated it into the soil as soon as possible," said Rodney, "It's extra work, but it saves you money. But even if it didn't, we'd do it anyway. We enlarged the storage tank with the funds from CBP."

Conservation practices have always been used on the Richlawn Farm and when the additional famr was purchased in 1977 the same practices were put into use.

"It's very important to keep the soil on the fields. Fertilizer and herbicides won't do you any good in a ditch somewhere. You always want to get the most return on your money that you can," said Robert.

"Before we got the manure storage facility we had to haul manure out everyday. Now we only do it twice a year. There's a definite fertilizer savings and less soil compaction which is very important around here," said Robert.

Soil compaction is a real problem in the York area, according to Rodney. The clay soil compacts tight. Hauling over it constantly makes it almost impossible to get worked up. It's a visible problem.

Although Richard still works on the farm part time, and Rodney and Robert are both thankful for that, labor shortage is a problem.

"We agreed this year that to get good help we are just going to have to pay more. Dad works for us still part time and that's a big help. We had someone working full time before, but now we just have two part time employees working after school, but it does not give us enough time to get all the necessary work done," said Robert. "And it will show up in the srping. Cows are neglected more than we'd like to see.".

This is the fifth generation of Smysers to work the farm. The land was originally deeded to the family in the 1700's, but left the Smyser family somewhere in the interim. John and Caroline regained the farm in 1861 according to deeds. Richard and his wife Marie continue to live on the farm.

Farmland Preservation Applications

LANCASTER — Friday, April 1, 1988, is the deadline for this spring's conservation easement sale applications for qualified areas of the following Lancaster County Townships: Ephrata, Clay, Elizabeth, Warwick, East Donegal, Conoy, West Donegal, Mount Joy, Caernarvon, Conestoga, Drumore, and Martic. These are the municipalities in which Agricultural Areas have been established for farmland preservation eligibility under state and local programs.

The Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board, 50 North Duke Street, Lancaster, PA 17603, will receive applications in 1988 both on April 1 and September 1. Applications, sample easement documents, and procedures are available by telephone request to (717) 299-8355.

Dairy Days

torced up into the teat canal within four seconds from liner slippage. The impact from the liner allows the reverse flow of milk which carries bacteria into the teat canal in the same teat and also the diagonal teat.

"The prevention of liner slippage should be of top priority with all of you. You don't need to be drinking coffee or doing something else. You should be right there so when she's done milking you're right there," cautioned Galton.

Herd Health Checklist

Hutchinson briefed farmers on the concept of farm bio-security and its importance. While poultry farmers have initiated this program, dairy farmers are just coming to understand its importance, according to Hutchinson.

Dairymen must vaccinate for Bangs, Lepto, BRSV, BVD, PI3 and IBR. And should only vaccinate for diseases such as pink-eye, coli, pasteurella, if they see the need to and should discuss available immunizations with their veterinarian.

Hutchinson recommends strongly that all herds should be dewormed in May and June and again in October. Although worm counts may be down in a herd, larvae thrives in the lush pasture of spring. Deworming as recommended can lead to an 80 pound weight gain over heifers not dewormed. This also means dewormed heifers can be bred nearly three months earlier.

Lancaster Dairy Days will continue Tuesday, March 8.

The second day features the following topics: "What Affect Do Growing Conditions Have on Forage Quality?", "Recent Research and Developments in Milking Equipment", "Surviving and Thriving in the Dairy Business", "Cost Effectiveness of Additives, Preservatives, and Alternative Sources of Protein", "Strategies for Keeping Cows Milking and Testing Well", and "Boosting Milk Checks by Lowering SCC, PI and SPC's."

Speakers for the second day are: F.M. Brown's Nutritionist, Tom Kichura; Penn State Dairy Specialist, Stephen Spencer and Joseph Hlubik; and Farmer Panelists, John Brubaker, Gordon Hoover, Stephen Hershey and Donald Risser.

Celebration Of Quilts '88

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK — Since the early days of our nation's history, quilting has been stitched into the colorful patchwork of Americana. Originally a way to utilize even tiny leftover bits of scarce and expensive fabrics, quilting today has taken on the status of an art form, high prized by collectors.

With the resurgence of interest in quilting, the York Quilters Guild organized less than three years ago as a sharing and support group for both veteran and novice quilters. About ninety members are now gearing up for the Guild's first major public event, a juried quilt show.

The Guild's "A Celebration of Quilts '88" is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, April 23 and 24, at the Yorktowne Hotel, Market Street, in downtown York. Planned events include judging of several competitive categories, invitational and antique quilts on display, plus demonstrations, lectures and a merchants' mall.

Many of the quilting enthusiasts take pleasure in sharing their love of stitchery, design and color, and frequently teach their craft, either in formal class settings or casual gatherings.

The razor-like wheel on the rotary cutter is winning quilting converts away from scissors cutting of fabrics. Used with a ruled, acrylic guide, and a protective mat beneath, the cutter slices through several layers of fabrics in mere seconds.

Manchester farm woman Ethel Gross has been stitching lines of neat, tiny quilting designs for some fifty years. Many of the quilts she's worked with in that time have gone for community charitable purposes, including the first one she ever put a needle through.

"It was a quilt being worked on at York's Hartman Street Mennonite Church, for a relief project. My aunt told me my stitches were so long I'd get my toenails caught in them," she laughingly recalls.

Ethel's admission of making those too-long stitches as a beginner is relished by a group of quilters she is currently advising. Several members of the York County Farmers' Association are working on a queen-size Jacob's Ladder design, in shades of blue, for a fund-raiser drawing for the Association's annual farm tour in June. Many of the same ladies participate each winter in making the fund-raiser quilt — last year's took about 300 manhours — and praise Ethel's assistance.

"Ethel's fussy," they tease, adding, "but, if she says something is done well, it's a compliment."

She also works similarly with church groups, and is helping supervise quilt making for an upcoming bazaar at the Christ Lutheran Church in Manchester.

Although she first quilted as a girl, Ethel began seriously stitching about 30 years ago. Her more than 50-year-old quilting frame, Ethel relates, came from an aunt who lent it and "just never took it back after she married." In addition to the frame's sentimental value, Ethel prizes it for the metal cogs in its design, which allow quilts to be fastened more tautly than in the wooden-cog frames.

Her initial attempt at a full-size quilt was appliqued with designs of leaves. A blanket was sewn between the quilt top and bottom, not as satisfactory in Ethel's opinion as modern quilt batting. Although worn from use, she still keeps and treasures that first quilt. But while she does have several completed quilt tops to be finished, most of Ethel's quilts have gone to proud owners elsewhere.

Among those are several made by Ethel and her four sisters for the annual Mennonite Central Committee's Relief Sale, held the first Saturday in April at the Farm Show Complex, to benefit the church's worldwide relief efforts.

A Homestead quilt made by the sisters topped the sale of $2900 a few years ago, purchased by a "kissin' cousin" from Hanover. The central design featured a country scene. Other years, the sisters' quilts have commanded prices upwards to $1000, and a wall hanging brought $350.

This year's contribution to the Relief Sale is done in blues and pinks, with a Lone Star design in the center and Log Cabin pattern around the outside.

Sometimes the five sisters travel together, often to Lancaster County, to select fabrics. Quality materials, in harmonizing colors, along with straight, fine stitching, are their guidelines for making the quilts which continue to be in demand.

Holly McCaffree, who teaches quilting at Southeastern High School adult education classes and at a Delta fabric-crafts shop, also stresses fabric and color selection to her students. It was a lesson she learned through complete dissatisfaction with her first quilting square attempt.

"Now, I take my mistakes to share with my students, to show them what not to do," said Holly. "I had chosen colors and fabrics that didn't 'go' together. But, the first items of nearly anything you make just aren't perfect."

Holly, who dairy farms near Delta with her husband Jim, began quilting for her own pleasure just a few years ago. With a professed fascination for quilts, she turned to the ancient craft after becoming "saturated" with needlepoint, and a couple "disastrous" attempts at knitting.

Feeling a need for guidance in quilting, she took a class from Carol Blevins. Carol is president of the York Quilters Guild, and was instrumental in helping start the organization, in order to see the completed projects of her students.

"That is a problem for quilting teachers," Holly agrees. Bulk of a quilting class time is spent in technique, the designing , cutting and piecing of the intricate patterns of color which make each creation unique. Most of the actual hand quilting is completed at home.

Undaunted by her initial frustration with the patch that "didn't go," Holly tackled a full-size quilt in shades of gray, maroon and rose, which did "come out." Other projects and additional classes honed her skills and interest. When a friend was organizing the high school's adult education program, she asked Holly, a vo-ag teacher by profession, to teach beginner quilting.

Six-year-old Jessica McCaffree chooses a favorite fabric in the pieced sampler wall hanging Holly uses as a guide for her beginner quilting students.

Stitch length gets less emphasis from Holly than does stitch consistency and artistic design. She believes beginning quilters do not need the extra stress over making tiny stitches on their own personal projects. Instead, she wants them to be pleased with the overall eye appeal of the quilted item.

Proper tools help make quilting design more exact, and the fabric-craft industry has responded to quilters needs. A rotary cutter is a favorite tool of Holly's, simplifying the tedious task of cutting fabric pieces. Combined with acrylic rulers and square-marked mats, the cutter can sharply slice through fabric for straight or angle-edged pieces.

Blueprint pencils, now being packaged and sold with quilting supplies, work well for marking the design to follow for stitching, and don't rub off in handling as may chalk markings.

Holly has devised her own system of marking quilting patterns. She lays the pattern design over a piece of glass, which is suspended over a light. When the quilting fabric is laid over the pattern, the light shines through, allowing the pattern to be traced. Holding the fabric and pattern to a window or glass door also works, but almost requires an "extra hand."

Graph paper is another of Holly's recommended tools, to form a mock-up of geometric quilt designs before the fabric is cut. She finds that many of her students, however, resist doing the mathematical calculations necessary to figure yardages of materials needed for a pieced project, and prefer pre-printed instructions. Students also learn to cut cardboard and plastic templates, in the shapes needed for their quilt pieces.

Along with her teaching and quilting for friends and family, Holly is venturing into custom work. Design especially interests her, and she has customers okay her selections of fabric and color before beginning. Pure cottons are her preference, being generally more durable than cotton-polyester blends, which have a more shiny finish and slip out of place more quickly while being pieced. To get just the right color for a project, however, Holly will occasionally work with a blend fabric.

And, while quilting for Holly seems headed more toward a part-time business than just a pick-up pastime, she quilts primarily "because I just enjoy it."

"There's a challenge for me in building something from those little pieces," she has decided.

"I really thought the interest in quilting might drop off, but there is no sign of that happening. A lot of people want to learn; mothers and grandmothers don't quilt like they once did. It's a tie to the past, and something you can pass down to your children," she comments on quilting's resurgence.

Treasured quilts, such as those that might pass down through a family, should be displayed or used away from bright sunlight, which will eventually fade the colors. Cloth bags, such as a pillowcase, are preferable over plastic bags for storing quilts, since they allow the fabric to "breathe" and cut the rate of deterioration.

Owners of antique quilts are invited to share their heirlooms by putting them on display at the York Guild's Celebration of Quilts.

Categories for judging quilts are full-sized pieced, applique and whole cloth designs, group team quilts, mixed technique, and others, such as cross-stitch or embroidered. Crib quilt categories, for quilts no more than 60" in length, are pieced, appliqued and other designs. Wall hangings must include a permanent provision for hanging, and can be entered as pieced, appliqued or other category. A clothing category includes any quilted garment, and a miniature category is for items 24" or less on the longest side.

Since first-time quilters are often shy about exhibiting their work, a special category has been established for first quilts.

Entry deadline is March 15. All entries must be pre-registered; further details are available from Guild president Carol Blevins, phone 717-244-2505, or Ruth Longstreet, 11 Woodstone Court, York, PA, 17402.

A talented and precise quilter, Ethel Gross has lost track of the number of these fabric works of art that bear her tiny stitching. The Homestead creation, hanging, with stitching in the shapes of farm animals, is a tribute to agriculture.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

People often quote the time-proven philosophy that "the more things change, the more they stay the same."

Upon these dependable changes, our lives find measures of stability.

Wars, of some sort, will forever be waged. New lives enter the world and old ones move on. The sun rises in the East and sets behind the opposite horizon. Some years will be wet and others dry.

Stock markets will rise and fall. New frontiers will forever beckon, be they ocean, prairie or outer space. Medicine will conquer old ailments and new ones will be discovered — or at least labeled.

And cows, will be cows.

Over the millenia, the domestic bovine has changed her outward physical appearance.

Her legs are longer and neck more sleek. Her udder is wider and more securely attached. Her body has become more deeply ribbed and shows more depth. And, her capacity for producing one of nature's most wholesome foods continues to increase.

It's in her head that everything has stayed the same.

Today's improved-genetics, computer-coded, transponder-tracked, twentieth-century cow still has the brain of her ancestors. And, it continues to send the same message that, wherever she is, the living somewhere else is better.

Consider the following evidence.

A movement past a living room window just barely caught the corner of my vision. In the split second that followed, the thought whizzed through my subconscious that a horse was outside, but that the only resident horse ever on the place was sold last fall, because of owner conflict with a busy college schedule.

By the time this thought process had evolved, the "horse" was clearly visible through the window of the front door.

"There's a cow standing out front!" I groaned to the other two family members still finishing Sunday dinner dessert.

"There are cows all over the place," corrected the farmer, racing down the basement steps after a glance outside.

All over the place, indeed. Dessert was abandoned as the three of us shoved our feet into boots and took off in hot pursuit in different directions. After years of practice, we have these anti-stampede maneuvers down pat.

Now, the first members of our dairy herd are near ancient history, replaced with great-great-granddaughter offspring and occasional purchased outcross bloodlines. Though dozens of individual cows have come and gone, the herd behaves exactly as it did two decades ago.

They charge through the muddiest part of the back yard — after the morning ice has thawed off. Slip. Slide. Leave long, deep skid tracks in the grass. And at the same spots.

They still hide in the alleyway of the old barn. Rip up hay bales. Mess up straw bales. Woof down half a bag of calf starter. Knock over forks, shovels and feed scoops. Stomp on 'em going in. Stomp on 'em going back out, just in case any were missed first time through.

Take cover behind the trailer, then mosey on out and down the road after the less clever of the "girls" have been chased, corralled and chewed out.

True, their names, their physical appearance and their gigantic potential has changed. But, escaped cows still leave the same giant pockmarks in muddy, wet grass as did their ancestors when they hot-footed it out of the swamps ahead of meat-eating dinosaurs.

Turned out that an ancient fiber-baler-twine hinge on a gate had let go under the shoving and rubbing of this bunch of boisterous bovines. And, where the living looked better was on the freedom side of the sawdust storage area, accessible after the assault on a rotten-twine fastened gate.

We may be stuck with the same mentality of cows. And I doubt we'll ever get away from the tendency to fasten "temporary" gates with twine.

But I hope they tied the gate fast with that new, improved, plastic stuff this time.

Sometimes, a little change is better than none.

Broccoli Flowers

With Taste And Nutrition

Green, leafy and loaded with nutrients such as iron, calcium, potassium, and Vitamins C and D, broccoli is a versatile vegetable that is as popular as is it delicious. A member of the cabbage family, broccoli is native to the Mediterranean and Asia Minor and was called Italian asparagus. In 1920, Italian-Americans introduced broccoli to Boston, where it was an instant success.

Broccoli is tasty raw, cooked, or crisp-tender, and it can be found in a variety of dishes ranging from American to French cuisine and Italian to Chinese meals. It works in main courses as well as salads and is especially fine as a side dish smothered in butter with a dash of Parmesan cheese.

Below are some recipes to add to your collection that use this vegetable, which is a staple in everyone's diet.

BUDDHA SAUTED VEGETABLE MIX

10 mushrooms
10 snow pea pods
10 baby corn
6 asparagus
2 cups broccoli
1 bamboo shoot
2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
5 Tbsp. oil
½ cup soup stock
½ tsp. chicken grease

Remove shells from vegetables, clean, devein where needed, cut into thin slices.

Boil half of the soup stock and cook for 15 minutes. Heat frying oil until medium hot

Stir-fry vegetables in oil until tender crisp. Add other ingredients and stir-fry until warm. Serve immediately.

James C. Wu
Erie

RAW BROCCOLI SALAD

Flowerets from 2 bunches of broccoli
10-12 strips of crisp bacon, broken in to pieces
1 cup raisins
½ cup chopped onion
¾ cup mayonnaise
2 Tbsp. vinegar
¼ cup sugar

Mix sauce and chill. Add to other ingredients before serving.

Sue Stockdale
Macungie

VEGETABLE MEDLEY WITH MINT MARINADE

1¼ pounds fresh vegetables, cut in bite-sized pieces (red pepper, yellow squash, cauliflower, broccoli, zucchini)
½ cup water
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup vegetable oil
¼ cup vinegar
3 Tbsp. chopped fresh mint or 1 Tbsp. dried mint leaves
1 Tbsp. sugar

Combine vegetables, water and ½ teaspoon salt in 2-quart casserole. Cover with plastic wrap and vent one side. Microwave on HIGH for five to eight minutes or until tender; stir halfway through cooking. Let stand two minutes. Drain and set aside.

Combine oil, vinegar, mint, sugar and remaining salt in 1-cup glass measuring cup. Microwave on HIGH for 30-60 seconds, or until sugar is dissolved. Pour hot marinade over warm vegetable mixture and mix well. Serve warm or refrigerate several hours. Makes 4 cups.

VEGETABLE PIE

2 cups chopped, cooked broccoli
½ cup chopped onions
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
1½ cup milk
¾ cup biscuit mix
3 eggs
1 tsp. salt

Beat your eggs, milk, and biscuit mix together. Add all other ingredients. Pour into quiche pan and bake at 375 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

Jennifer Barnett
PA State Alternate Dairy Princess

BILL'S HOOTIE BROCCOLI

1½ pounds fresh broccoli, cooked until tender-crisp
2 Tbsp. butter
2 Tbsp. flour
1 cup fresh orange juice
Salt to taste
Paprika

Melt butter in small saucepan, blend in flour and cook a few minutes. Add orange juice and salt; cook and stir until thick and smooth. Drain broccoli and serve with orange sauce. Top with paprika. 4-5 servings.

T. Lencoski
Latiobe

FRESH VEGETABLE MEDLEY

1½ pounds fresh broccoli, cut in flowerets
½ medium head cauliflower, cut in flowerets
¼ pound fresh mushrooms, cut in ¼-inch slices
1 cup carrots, thinly sliced
2 Tbsp water
¼ cup butter
½ tsp. garlic salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Arrange mushrooms in a ring around the edge of a 12-inch round plate. Then arrange a ring of broccoli and a ring of cauliflower. Place carrots in center. Sprinkle with water. Cover with plastic wrap, leaving a vent in one side. Microwave on HIGH for three minutes.

Rotate the plate ¼ turn and microwave three more minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Let stand two minutes.

Combine butter, garlic salt, and pepper in 1-cup glass measuring cup while vegetable plate is standing. Microwave on HIGH 40 to 45 seconds.

PRIDE O' THE COMMONWEALTH VEGETABLE MEDLEY AU GRATIN

1 cup cauliflower flowerets
1 cup carrot slices
1 cup broccoli slices and flowerets
1 cup string bean slices
1 cup zucchini slices
1 cup baby turnip slices
1 cup fresh mushrooms, halved

Boil 1 cup water with ¼ teaspoon salt in Dutch oven or kettle. Add vegetables except mushrooms, boil gently for five minutes. Add mushrooms, boil another five minutes. Drain in collander.

Prepare sauce:
¼ cup butter
¼ cup minced onion
½ cup chicken broth
¼ cup flour
1¾ cup half & half or whole milk
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp pepper
⅛ tsp. cayene pepper
¾ cup grated cheddar cheese
¼ cup chopped pimiento

Saute onion in melted butter over low heat until transparent. Blend together broth, flour, milk, and seasonings until smooth. Add to onion butter, stirring until thick, smooth, and bubbly. Add cheese, stirring until melted. Stir in pimiento. Remove from heat. Cover vegetables with sauce in 2½-quart casserole. Bake in preheated 450-degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Serves 8 to 10.

Raw or cooked, broccoli remains a favorite for vegetable lovers.

BROCCOLI-CHEDDAR SOUP

3 cups broccoli, cut in ½-inch pieces
¼ cup butter
1 cup chopped onions
1 tsp. minced garlic
2 Tbsp. flour
2 cups half & half
3 cups chicken broth
¾ pound grated sharp Cheddar cheese
½ tsp. nutmeg
¾ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
2 Tbsp. Dijon-style mustard

Cook the broccoli in boiling water, rinse with cold water, drain, and set aside.

Melt the butter in a large saucepan, add onions and cook until tender. Add garlic and cook for a short time. Add the flour, cook and stir for a few minutes until thickened. While whisking hard, add the half & half and chicken broth. Bring mixture to a boil. Reduce heat to a simmer and stir in the cheese. Add the seasonings and mustard. Don't let the soup boil again or it may curdle. Add the broccoli and heat through. Serve with additional Cheddar cheese. Makes two quarts.

Mario Korenstein

CORN-BROCCOLI BAKE

¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
1¼ cups milk
1 cup corn liquid
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
2 eggs, well beaten
2 Tbsp. minced parsley
½ tsp. celery salt
2 12-ounce cans kernel corn
2 10-ounce pkgs. frozen broccoli, parboiled for 3 minutes
¼ cup toasted, slivered almonds

In sauce pan, melt butter over low heat; stir in flour. Gradually add milk and corn liquid; bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add cheese, eggs, parsley, and celery salt; simmer until thick. In baking dish, layer corn, broccoli, and sauce. Top with almonds. Bake for 25 minutes inn a 350-degree oven. Serves 8.

Featured Recipe

This week's featured recipe is a favorite beef dish of Pennsylvania Angus Queen Tiffany Rohrer. To learn more about Tiffany, look for her story in this section.

Gardenburgers

1½ pounds ground beef
2 slightly beaten eggs
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup catsup
1½ teaspoons salt
dash pepper
1 6-ounce can (2/3 cup) broiled sliced mushrooms, drained
Melted butter or margarine
6 thin slices onion, centers punched out
6 thin slices tomato
6 slices processed American cheese

Combine meat, eggs, onion, catsup, and seasonings. Mix thoroughly. Form into 12 thin patties. Place mushrooms on half the patties, leaving border of meat. Top with remaining patties, sealing edges well.

To charcoal broil: Broil patties over hot coals till done the way you like, turning once. Brush with melted butter, top with onion, tomato, and cheese. Serve burgers in toasted buns. Serves 6.

ANSWER - A lover of Cook's Corner wrote that some time ago K. H. Bowman, Myerstown, requested recipes for preparing Shad Roe. The writer included a recipe that she finds is the easiest to prepare. Boil the roe in salt water for 10 minutes, longer depending on the size of the roe. Drain and pour brown butter over them.

Fruit Bars

½ cup butter, softened
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup all purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped walnuts
½ cup red candied cherries, halved
1 cup sliced pitted dates
½ cup sliced soft dried apricots
½ cup sliced soft dried figs

In a large mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well. Blend in vanilla, stir in dry ingredients gradually. Blend well, stir in nuts and fruit. Spread batter in greased 9-inch square baking pan. Bake 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Cool in pan before cutting into bars. Makes 24 bars.

ANSWER - Ethel Megonnell, Harrisburg, requested a recipe for Flannel Cakes. Thanks Isabel R. Ray, Sunbury, for sharing this old-time favorite.

Flannel Cakes

1 tablespoon shortening
2 cups flour
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoon baking powder
2 eggs, separated

Rub shortening into flour. Add salt and baking powder. Beat egg yolks until light, add milk and beat well. Add liquid to flour mixture. Stir until smooth. Beat egg whites lightly and add to batter. Bake on hot greased griddle.

ANSWER - Mrs. Jerry Ganz, Scranton, requested both regular and diabetic recipes for homemade chocolate pudding and carrot cake. Thanks Mary Watkins, Clarksburg, for the following recipes.

Diabetic Chocolate Pudding Mix

1 cup instant nonfat dry milk granules
½ cup lightly packed cornstarch
½ cup firmly packed cocoa

Sift ingredients at least three times and mix with fork. Pack firmly into a pint jar. Cover tightly. Store in a cool dry place. use for making Chocolate Pudding, hot chocolate sauce or a filling for Cream Puff Shells.

Diabetic Chocolate Pudding From Our Mix

1 cup chocolate pudding mix (see above recipe)
2 cups cold water
½ teaspoon vanilla
Artificial sweetener to substitute for 8 teaspoons sugar.

Measure dry pudding mix into a small heavy saucepan. Add water slowly, mixing well. Stir constantly over moderate heat until bubbling boil is reached around the outside edge. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla and artificial sweetner, blend well. Pour ½ cup into each of 4 dessert dishes. Cover lightly and chill. Calories 73. Sodium 45 mg.

Phoney Whipped Cream

¾ cup sour cream, add 2 tablespoons powdered sugar and beat about 5 minutes with electric mixer. Makes about 1½ cups. can be stored in refrigerator for several days.

ANSWER - Mrs. Howard Schwenk, Lebanon, requested a recipe for homemade noddles without egg yolks. Thanks Mildred Lewis, Elizabethtown, for the following recipe.

Homemade Noodles

7 egg whites
Water to equal egg whites
1 teaspoon salt

Beat all ingredients then add enough flour to make a stiff dough. Yellow food coloring may be added to give noodles a yellowish tint. Roll dough as thin as desired then cut into strips. Dry at room temperature.

ANSWER - Ruth Detwiler, Telford, requested a recipe for onion rings and for fried mushrooms similar to those sold at Farm Show. Thanks Mary Watkins, Clarksburg, Md., for sharing a recipe for onion rings.

Onion Rings

Peel large onions. Slice crosswise ¼ -inch thick. Separate into rings. Dip into seasoned flour, then into 1 egg beaten with ¼ cup milk, then into fine bread crumbs. Fry in reheated shortening at 375 degrees for about 3 minutes or until browned. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with salt. Serve hot.

ANSWER - Mrs. Detwiler, Telford, requested a recipe for soft pretzels like those sold at the Lititz Pretzel Factory. Judy Fritz of Garret mailed in a recipe that "National Geographic" magazine printed when they featured the Julius Sturgis pretzel house, the oldest pretzel bakery in the United States.

Soft Pretzels

⅛ cup hot water
1 package active dry yeast
1⅓ cup warm water
⅓ cup brown sugar
5 cups flour
Extra flour
Course Kosher salt
Baking soda

Heat oven to 475 degrees. In a large bowl, mix the hot water and yeast until the yeast dissolves. Stir in the warm water and the brown sugar. Slowly add 5 cups of flour to the mixture, stirring constantly. Continue stirring until the mixture is smooth and does not stick to the sides of the bowl. Put the dough on a lightly floured board. Dip your hands in the extra flour. Knead the dough until it is stretchy and smooth. Push it down and away from you with the palms of your hands. Turn the dough as you work.

Grease two cookie sheets. Sprinkle with the salt. Pinch off a small piece of dough about the size of a golf ball. Shape into pretzel.

Fill a frying pan with water. For each cup of water, add 1 tablespoon baking soda. Bring water to a gentle boil. Put pretzels in water and slowly count to 30. Remove and put on cookie sheet. Sprinkle salt on top and bake for 8 minutes or until golden brown.

Broccoli Flowers

SPAGHETTI WITH BROCCOLI AND ANCHOVIES

2 pounds broccoli
½ cup olive oil
4 cloves farlic, peeled
1 small, dried red hot chili pepper
1½ pounds ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped (or canned tomatoes)
4 ounces anchovy fillets, drained and chopped
Salt to taste
⅓ cup seedless white raisins, soaked in warm water for 15 minutes and drained
¼ cup pine nuts (optional)
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
1 cup grated Romano or Parmesan cheese
1½ pounds spaghetti

Peel the broccoli stalks and slice, divide the tops into flowerets. In a deep pot, boil enough lightly salted water to cook the broccoli and then later the spaghetti. Parboil the broccoli for three minutes. Scoop out with a slotted spoon to save water. Set broccoli aside.

Heat ¼ cup oil in a skillet, and saute two of the garlic cloves and the chili until golden. Remove and discard the garlic and chili and add the tomatoes and anchovies to the oil. Season with salt and bring to a boil, cooking about 15 minutes. If the sauce seems too thin, continue to boil until of desired consistency.

Heat remaining ¼ cup oil in another pan and saute the onion and remaining garlic cloves until golden. Remove and discard the garlic. Add the broccoli, raisins, and nuts. Season with salt and a good amount of black pepper, then add to the tomato mixture. Mix gently so as not to break up the broccoli. This sauce shoould not be simmered or the broccoli will overcook.

Bring the broccoli cooking water to a boil and cook the spaghetti. Drain. Arrange the pasta, sauce, and cheese in layers in a serving dish so that they will be easier to toss together. Serve immediately. Serves 4 to 6.

BROCCOLI & CHEESE CASSEROLE

3 eggs
1 cup cottage cheese
½ cup Cheddar cheese
3 Tbsp. flour
2 tsp. salt
½ of a teaspoon of pepper
2 10-ounce pkgs. frozen broccoli

Beat eggs; stir in other ingredients except broccoli and beat well. Cook broccoli as directed on the package and drain well. Add to egg mixture. Pour into a greased baking dish and cook for 30 to 35 minutes in a 350-degree oven. Serves 6 to 8.

Meet The State Angus Queen

BY MARJORIE KEEN
Chester Co. Correspondent

NOTTINGHAM — Tiffany Laura Rohrer of Nottingham was crowned Pennsylvania Angus Queen the same week she was awarded the Future Farmers Association Keystone Farmer Degree at the Pennsylvania Farm Show last month. Rohrer was named Champion Showman that week, too, and her Angus steer won third in its class.

Also, she was chosen a Pennsylvania Junior Angus Association alternate to participate in the National Junior Angus Showmanship Contest.

For the busy Oxford High School senior, promoting Angus beef comes naturally. She speaks convincingly about Angus' superior marbling, flavor and texture, without too much fat. As Queen she'll be working with the Angus Association Beefcakes at malls and fairs to humorously and educationally promote beef as a healthy, nutritious and economic product.

Rohrer is president of the Chester County Baby Beef 4-H Club. When she and her older brother joined 4-H, their family's Rob Roy Farm was raising only swine. The Angus Queen credits a hired helper with interesting the youngsters in Angus cattle. Today, a younger brother is also active in the Baby Beef Club.

"I didn't show registered steers until four years ago. That's when I started going to bigger shows and really enjoying myself," Rohrer declared.

As FFA Gold Medal Winner in Livestock Judging, Rohrer won trips to judge in Massachusetts and Virginia and also to the national convention in Kansas City, where she earned the bronze medal. A member of Chester County's 4-H Livestock Judging Team, she was high individual scorer at the Penn State Spring Judging Contest last April.

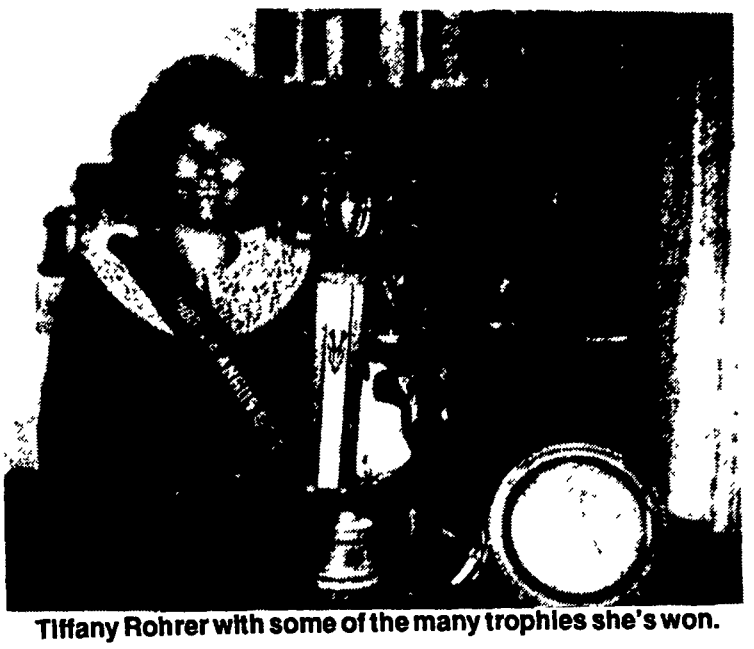
The Angus Queen expects to study agriculture-business when she enters the University of Delaware next fall. "I'd like to be in the cattle or horse business, one of the two," she said. "I love my animals."

Rohrer began riding lessons when she started kindergarten. "In third grade I got my own horse. I stopped lessons and I just kept riding. I have two horses by my first horse." Recently she purchased a fourth horse and retired her mare. When her busy schedule permits, the Angus Queen would like to try barrel racing at nearby Nottingham County Park.

Between 4-H and FFA, Rohrer has had projects and won proficiency awards with horses, swine, steers, sewing and cake decorating. She has been a feed efficiency winner, has received the Teen Leader Award and Farm Credit Achievement Award and is an Honor Roll Member in Lancaster County. Secretary of her FFA chapter for three years, she's also Chester County secretary.

Listed in "Who's Who of High School Students," Rohrer won the U.S. National Agriculture Award. FFA honors include Star Greenhand, Chapter Farmer, Creed Contest Winner and first runner-up for regional Star Farmer. Vice President of Oxford's National Honor Society, she won the Physics Award, was selected as the Hugh O'Brian (leadership conference) representative and named Rotary Senior of the month. Rohrer is also co-editor of the school newspaper and works part-time in an Oxford hardware store.

The tall brunette scored a girl's record 22 points in a single game for her school's basketball team. She has twice been selected first baseman on the All-League Chester County Varsity Softball first team. She enjoys family skiing in Vermont and hunting in Tioga County.



Tiffany Rohrer with some of the many trophies she's won.

Although Rob Roy Farm's main production is still swine, Rohrer and her brothers are presently raising 12 Angus steers, including a couple for the family freezer. "We eat more beef than we do pork," her mother stated.

"I like anything barbecued or done on the grill," the Angus Queen smiled. ". . . but not just beef in general. Angus beef are bred in such a way that they can actually marble without having too much fat. (People) are going for leaner meat. (Angus) already has the flavor that the other beef breeds don't have unless they are fatty."

The PA Angus Queen prepares T-bone steaks.

Stripes Are For Spring

This spring's fashions show stripes in lots of combinations. Stripes can be the major design element, themselves. The design or style of the garment should be kept simple when using stripes. Everyone can wear stripes, but you need to consider how the stripes will look on the body. Consider not only the direction of the stripes, but also the size of the stripe. Take some time to choose the appropriate stripe for the garment, and think about the individual who will wear the garment. If you are unsure whether or not a fabric is suitable, read the back of the pattern envelope. It offers advice on whether stripes or certain types of fabrics are suitable for the garment.

Unsure if stripes are for you? Try mixing and matching with solids. Use stripes for pockets, yokes, or collars, and solid fabric for major portions of the garment, or vice-versa. Textured stripes (like seersucker) are the freshest look for spring '88. Match up nautical prints (anchors, boats, etc.) with stripes to make a splash this spring and summer.

Millie And The Dairy Princess Visit Students

BY LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster County Dairy Princess Nanette Bushong walked into a fourth grade classroom at the East Petersburg Elementary School.

"Ah, look, a princess," exclaimed the students as they gazed at Nanette.

A blond-haired girl whispered with awe, "She has a sparkling crown."

Nanette smiled and pulled out some posters. She asked the children, "Where does milk come from?"

Some thought it came from the store.

Nanette told them about cows. The children did not know that milk trucks pick up the milk and take it to a processing plant. They watched and asked questions as Nanette showed them pictures and told about milk yogurt, 37 different kinds of cheese and about their favorite dessert—ice cream.

Nanette told them to look for the real seal that proves that products like ice cream and butter are made from real milk. She told them they should drink three glasses of milk each day and that their teenage sisters and brothers should drink four glasses so they can stay healthy.

Then Nanette called her friend, Millie the cow, to come into the classroom. The children giggled when Millie walked into the classroom. Millie could not talk, but she whispered some secrets to Nanette and then she gave the children a litter bag filled with a coloring book that had pictures of dairy products, a cow-shaped eraser, a pencil, a sticker that said, "I love milk," and a picture of a cow to color.

Many children who do not grow up on a farm do not know where milk comes from. They do not know that milk makes them strong and healthy or about the many good tasting foods that are made from milk.

To teach these children about milk, dairy princesses like Nanette go to schools and tell the students all about milk.

There are 41 dairy princesses in Pennsylvania. Each one comes from a dairy farm or owns dairy animals. Their job is to tell others about the good qualities of milk by appearing on TV, or speaking on radio and to groups and by handing out milk or cheese at places like stores, fairs and farmshows.

Nanette lives with her parents Glen and Ruth Bushong on a 150-acre Holstein farm in Columbia. About one day a week, Nanette takes off from Hempfield High School where she is a senior so she can tell children about milk.

Nanette said that she wanted to be a dairy princess ever since she was a little girl. Now, that she has a crown, she said, "It's so much fun. I get to go to different places. It has a lot of rewards."

Nanette said, "If any girls would like to become a dairy princess, they should read about milk and try to visit a dairy princess."

Find out if you have a dairy princess who lives near you. Maybe she will come to your school.

Millie, the cow and the dairy princess like to visit classrooms so they can tell the children how good milk is for them to drink.

The children were excited to open the packets that Millie the cow gave them.

"Thank you, Millie the cow," said this girl when Millie gave her a litter bag that included a coloring book, cow-shaped eraser, pencil and sticker.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Fish and your microwave are a perfect pair. Besides cooking fish quickly, your microwave seals in juices and keeps any kind of fish tasting moist and fresh.

A pound of thin fish fillets can be done in as little as four minutes on High. For thicker fillets, allow five to six minutes per pound. Fish is a super-quick entree when you're cooking for one. If you microwave the standard four-ounce serving of fish, cooking time takes less than two minutes! Thick fish steaks take a little longer. They microwave best on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) and take 10 to 13 minutes per pound.

Use a shallow microwave-safe casserole or baking dish that can be used for serving too. Arrange fish with thickest, meaty parts to the outside edges of cooking dish. Tuck skinny tail parts under, or roll up thin fillets to avoid overcooking. For even cooking, rotate dish halfway through cooking; or rearrange and turn over large pieces

For color and extra flavor, coat fish with a mixture of melted butter or lemon juice and paprika Or sprinkle with Micro Shake® For Fish, a product introduced last year that adds attractive color and a subtle herb flavor and also helps seal in juices.

Cover fish with waxed paper, unless you're cooking fish to add to other ingredients. Then use a tight lid or plastic wrap to steam fish. Waxed paper allows even cooking without holding in all the steam. Fish will have a "baked," rather than "boiled," taste, and seasonings won't be diluted by excess moisture.

Slightly undercook fish. When done, it should be barely changing from translucent to opaque (solid white). Let it rest, still covered, for two or three minutes before tasting for final doneness. It should be completely opaque, and when tested with a fork it should flake easily. If overcooked, fish is dry and rubbery.

Frozen fish should be completely thawed before microwaving. As a general guide, thaw fish on Medium Low (30 percent power, about 200 watts, sometimes called Defrost). Allow three to five minutes per pound of boneless fish. Rotate and turn over package during defrosting. Separate pieces as soon as possible, removing thawed pieces when pliable, but still slightly icy. Finish defrosting under cold running water.

For crispy fish, coat fish with crumbs. Preheat your microwave browning dish according to manufacturer's directions for fish, add butter or oil, add fish and microwave, uncovered, according to browning dish directions. For most browning dishes, preheat time for fish is the minimum time -- about 5 to 7 minutes -- and cooking time (on High) is about 1 minute per side. This is just approximate -- each browning dish/skillet/grill is different. Follow the directions that come with your browning dish

Another way to get crispy fish is to pick up some of the new microwave fish sticks and fillets in the freezer section of your supermarket. At least three brands are available and all give excellent results -- fish that is crisp on the outside and tender and moist in the inside.

Today's recipes add a little variety to fish and make quick and easy main dishes. Cubes of salmon combine with tender-crisp brightly-colored vegetables in Salmon Vegetable Toss. Serve with rice for a light supper or lunch In the second recipe, simple bread stuffing cooked between thin fish fillets turns plain fish into a hearty entree. All you need for a full meal is vegetables or salad.

Salmon Vegetable Toss

½ small onion, cut in ½ -inch cubes

½ small green pepper, cut in ½ -inch cubes

1 tablespoon butter or margarine

½ teaspoon dried thyme leaves

½ pound salmon steaks, thawed, bones and skin removed and cut in 1-inch cubes

6 medium mushrooms, quartered

1 small tomato, seeds removed and cut in ½ -inch cubes

Freshly ground black pepper

Put onion, green pepper, butter and thyme in a microwave-safe 1-quart casserole. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave (High) 1 minute or until barely tender-crisp. Stir in salmon and mushrooms Re-cover. Microwave (High) 2 to 2½ minutes, stirring once or until salmon is done. Stir in tomato and pepper. Re-cover. Microwave (High) 30 to 45 seconds more or until tomato is warm Serve on rice or noodles Makes 2 servings.

Each serving: 252 calories, 28g protein, 13g fat, 5g carbohydrate, 191mg sodium, 63mg cholesterol

Stuffed Fish Fillets

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

½ teaspoon paprika

1 stalk celery, thinly sliced

½ small onion, chopped

1 cup herbed stuffing crumbs

¼ cup water

1 teaspoon grated lemon peel

2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley

1 pound think frozen fish fillets*, thawed

Melt butter in microwave-safe custard cup by microwaving (High) 30 to 45 seconds. Pour about half of butter into microwave-safe 8x8-inch dish, turning dish to coat bottom with butter; set aside. Stir paprika into remaining butter; set aside

Place celery and onion in medium microwave-safe dish, cover with plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 1½ to 2½ minutes or until vegetables are tender. Stir in stuffing crumbs, water, lemon peel and parsley.

Cut fish fillets into 8 pieces so meaty parts are about equal size. (Cut thin tail ends longer, so thin ends can be tucked under in dish.) Place 4 pieces in buttered dish, putting them in dish corners with thickest parts to the outside edges and thin tail ends tucked under With a spoon or hands, lightly press stuffing mixture together and place on the 4 fillets Top each with another fillet. Brush with butter-paprika mixture. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave (High) 6 to 7 minutes, rotating dish once, or until fish looks opaque (solid white) and flakes when tested with a fork Let stand 3 to 5 minutes and test center bottom for final doneness. Makes 4 servings.

* Use any kind of lean fish fillets such as torsk (cod), haddock, halibut, pollack, ocean perch, red snapper, flounder, sole, walleye and northern.

Each serving: 274 calories, 28g protein, 11g fat, 12g carbohydrate, 414mg sodium, 17mg cholesterol

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The calendar tells me that it is March and spring is fast approaching. Everyone that I talk to seems to be happy to see warmer weather coming. I guess I'm the oddball but I would gladly postpone it another few weeks. There are still some unfinished jobs here in the house.

Winter brings a change of pace in jobs. They are much less physical than working in the garden and mowing our hilly lawn.

The other Saturday I found out how much out of condition I am. Allen and I joined a group who hiked a few miles through Muddy Run Recreation Park in southern Lancaster County. I huffed and puffed up the hills.

We saw lots of white-tailed deer. Some of them were not very wild and only moved out of sight slowly. One little fellow was alone and he stood and watched us for a while We saw the usual winter birds. However, one that I don't see here at home is the bluebird. As there were many bluebird houses on posts, they seemed to be attracted to the area.

The Nature Center building was quite interesting with specimens of snakes, gulls and wild geese We could hear the hammering of folks who were building more bluebird houses.

After the hike Allen and I had a winter picnic near a lake. There were many wild ducks nearby who waddled to our table and begged to be fed bread crusts. Many boats were there that could be rented by the hour. We went on the hike hoping to find a new place to fish in the summertime.

But as far as I'm concerned, the weather can wait a while longer to become warm and balmy. I am contented to braid rugs and watch the Winter Olympics at Calgary, Canada on TV

How To Make Decisions

Decisions! Decisions! Families are faced daily with decisions. Where will the family spend its next vacation? When will that old car be replaced? Should Johnny have a new trumpet or would that money be better spent on new screens or storm windows?

Individuals make decisions in different ways, explains Roxanne Tomczak, a University of Delaware senior majoring in individual and family studies. "Some people like to gather a great deal of information before making a decision. Others like to quickly choose the first possibility that seems reasonable to them. Some people rely on the experiences of their friends and neighbors while others prefer to review the results of carefully controlled consumer studies," she says.

Tomczak, who is serving an internship with Extension family and child development specialist Dr. Pat Nelson, has been studying decision making in families. "Since each person in the family is likely to view situations differently, depending on their style of decision making, this leaves many opportunities for conflict and disagreement," she says.

"While it can be difficult to make decisions with other people, there are clear advantages to sharing the decision-making process. Studies have shown that some of the unhappiest people are those who make decisions on their own and carry all the responsibility for the family's financial well-being," she says.

The student intern says that researchers have found that families tend to develop their own decision-making styles. In some families, people make their own decisions without consulting anyone. In other families, decisions are based on what is best for the family as a whole, rather than what is best for specific individuals. A collaborative style — one in which all family members have a voice in what happens — is also used by many families.

In the collaborative style, Tomczak says, the final decision is usually made by the adults in the family who know most about the issue at hand, but the ideas of all interested members are considered.

Meet A Self-Styled Quilting Expert

BY LOU ANN GOOD

EPHRATA — Lancaster County may be the quilt capitol of the world yet many residents can not piece a quilt. Donna Lucidi-Nachwostach, an extension teacher assistant, said, "If they don't grow up in a home where the tradition has been passed down, people don't learn to quilt."

About 12 years ago, Donna, a Pittsburgh native, anticipated the quilt making skills she would learn when she moved to the county. She recalled, "But I found there weren't any classes that taught quilting. The Mennonites had sewing circles where they taught it, and the Amish did it in their homes, but I didn't know how to break into those circles."

As an outsider, Donna did not fit into any of these categories. Undaunted, Donna bought books and taught herself. Because she had a strong sewing background, Donna learned quickly. Later, she took classes wherever she could in places like New York where two-week courses are offered. She said, "There are always lots of new ways of doing things."

Through practice and accumulated knowlege, Donna has discovered some tricks of the trade which save time and effort in quilt-making. Now, Donna shares her expertise with others by teaching classes through extension, school and community services. Although she teaches a variety of sewing-related classes she said, "Quilting is my specialty."

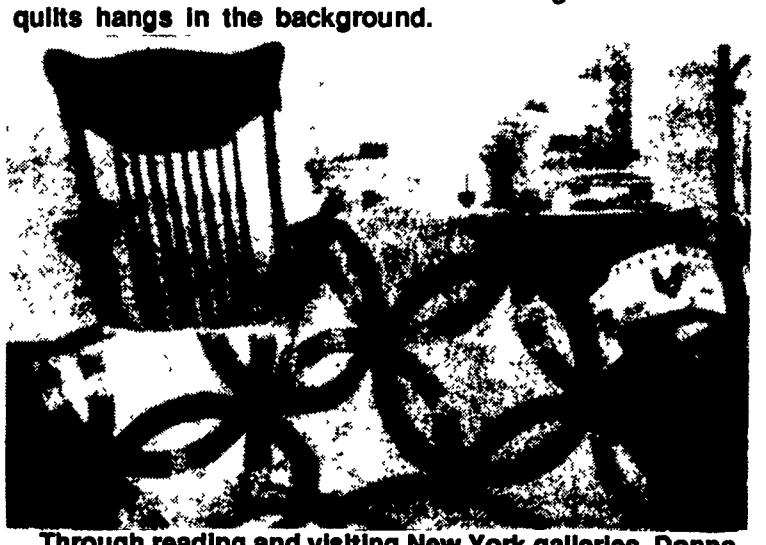
She is also a home economist teacher at Elizabethtown High School. Donna laments the dying interest that teenagers seem to have in developing sewing skills. She said, "It's a shame that kids don't have that sense of achievement that sewing gives and that their parents don't encourage them to pursue sewing."

She recalls that during her own childhood, she often stole her mother's dusters and cut them up for doll clothes. By ninth grade, she had tailored a wool-lined suit with bound buttonholes.

Donna believes that adult students appreciate the opportunity to learn skills more than teens do in a school setting. "They get excited about new ideas," Donna said.

Donna is known as a highly organized and skilled teacher. She points out that some people are beautiful quilters but they can't teach it. She maintains that teaching ability is acquired. With 11 years of teaching to her credit, Donna has perfected her teaching skills.

Quilting should not be limited to covering the bed. Here Donna Lucidi-Nachwostach displays a little girl's jumper that features "The Heart of Curved Piecing." One of her quilts hangs in the background.



Through reading and visiting New York galleries, Donna has learned a lot of tricks to shorten the painstaking work of cutting endless patches to complete a quilt.

All sewing begins with a sewing machine that makes evenly spaced stitches. She notes that many people are blithly unaware that sewing machines need to be oiled and cleaned regularly. Others know it should be done but they don't want to spend the money to have it serviced. Donna has the solution. She teaches classes in sewing machine maintenance that is equal to cleaning and oil maintenance, but not repair jobs. Donna said, "It's amazing what a little oil and cleaning does." After completing one of her Sewing Machine Maintenace class, students always make remarks like, "This is great. My machine runs like a new machine."

"Sewing is part of life," Donna stated. "Everyone should have a background in sewing. It makes us more self-reliant and boosts our self-esteem that makes us open to other challenges."

A listing of some upcoming classes that Donna will teach at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, follows. To enroll, write the title of the workshop and the cost with your name, address and phone number on a piece of paper. Return with your check made payable to Agricultural Extension Service.

T-Shirt Workshop - Learn how to use master patterns to work with single knits, match stripes, apply ribbing, and set-in a sleeve without pinning by actually completing a basic, crew-neck T-shirt during class. Cost $8. April 13, 10 a.m.

Flying Geese Exchange - A new quick cutting and piecing technique will be introduced. Quilters will be amazed at its versatility...not just for geese, but for many other traditional patterns. Cost $18.50 includes $3 for pattern. March 7, 14 and 28 from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 2

Society of Farm Women 2 recently met at the home of Esther Farrel with Ada Almodover acting as co-hostess. For roll call, members gave stamps or money to be used by the Sunshine Committee. Three members will help at the LARC sale on Friday, April 15, at Park City. The banquet committee took reservations for the March 12 banquet scheduled for 5:30 p.m. at the Country Table Restaurant.

President Betty Geib reviewed the agenda from the recent Executive Board meeting and delegates Mae Hosler and Loretta Steiner gave their reports on the state convention.

Lancaster Society 3

Society of Farm Women #3 recently met at the home of Barbara Wenger. Two members, Pauline Risser and Sandy Davis, were installed by Esther Stuber. Vera Smoker reported that six member participated in Bingo at Conestoga View on January 21.

Betty Jo Heisey presented a demonstration on packaging for pennies. The next meeting will be held on March 19 at Linda Bell's home in Lititz.

Lancaster Society 14

Farm Women #14 of Lancaster County held their meeting at the Strasburg Fire Hall. After business was conducted, Polly Good of New Holland entertained members with a presentation showing the character of God using goblets from her large collection.

Lancaster Society 6

The meeting of Farm Women Society #6 was held at Janet Schlegel's home. A film on coping with a disability was shown. Committee reports were read and approved. The March 15 meeting will be at the Reading Rehab, with members meeting at 10:00 a.m. in the main lobby for a tour followed by lunch and a business meeting.

Those planning to attend the May 18 Spring Rally in Altoona elected to travel by bus. It was decided to sponsor one young child for a year through Concern Youth Services. The Christmas party will be held at the Dinner Bell on Route 100 in Boyertown. Donations will be made to the Heart Association and to a student of Oley High School for medical costs.

Richard Schlegel awarded prizes to those who brought the best Valentines to the meeting. First prize went to Joyce Mast, second prize to Erma Bauer and third prize to Linda Snyder.

Lancaster Society 13

Farm Women Society #13 met at Laura Denlinger's home for their February meeting. Ruth Schroeder, Kit Martin, and Grace Bigler were co-hostesses for the meeting.

The 13 members in attendance answered roll call by donating a stamped get-well card. The business portion of the meeting began with Lydia Denlinger reading the minutes from the last meeting. A bake sale has been scheduled for April 23 at the East Towne Mall. In addition, members will entertain Society #12 members on March 12 at the Lancaster Farm & Home Center.

Members were entertained by Sue Bailey, Matron at Christ's Home, who gave an interesting report on the children living at the Home and their progress.

Lancaster Society 19

Farm Women Society #19 met for the February meeting at the Farm & Home Center. Members' husbands were invited to share the music of Jeff Tomlinson of Manheim, a 13-year-old blind pianist. Tomlinson played waltzes by Brahms, sonatas by Clementi, preludes by Bach and Chopin, a minuet by Poderewski, and a hymn arrangement.

President Grace Landis conducted the business meeting where members voted to support the Harb-Adult Program for their county project.

Lancaster Society 24

Members of Farm Women Society #24 met in Ronks at Mrs. Jack Golston's home for their February meeting. The president, Carol Groff, conducted the business meeting at which time the by-laws were read. Membership attendance was taken by revealing a favorite childhood game.

Tentative plans were made to attend the Spring Rally in Altoona. Following the business portion, several writing games were played.

Berks County 5

The Society of Farm Women #5 held a game night on February 9 at the home of Mrs. Sylvia Scharff. Twenty-one members responded to roll call by bringing a gift-wrapped red item to be used as a prize for the games.

President Carol Stoudt conducted the business meeting. The date of the ham-on-roll sale has been changed from March 19 to March 26. The price of the sandwiches will be $2. Members also will be taking orders for Stanley products, which will be distributed at the sandwich sale.

The March meeting will be on the 8th at the home of Connie Smay in Bernville at 7:30 p.m. The evening's program will include a plant auction.

Travel Plans

It's been a new experience for us... planning a vacation that includes our six month old. Setting up the date and planning took some effort, but packing has been an organizational nightmare.

Are you planning or looking forward to a vacation? It's not too early to get started with your planning. Whether you have plans for the spring or the summer, just thinking about enjoying some warm sunshiny beach or cool mountain side is an aid to surviving the winter doldrums and will avoid last minute headaches.

Many people carry around the notion that young families must give up real vacations until the children are grown. Of course, some vacations are not at all suited to young children, but there are lots of vacations that can be fun and refreshing for the whole family.

Planning is the key word to a successful vacation. First consider where you are going. Will the sights be of interest to young children? Preschoolers will not enjoy museums. School-age children may enjoy them as much as adults, but they tire much faster than adults. With very small children, it is best to keep some familiarity in the surroundings. A new bed, different water, and strange food all at the same time is quite a bit for any youngster to handle.

Decide how you'll get there. Long days of driving cross-country are hard on the patience of some adults and its worse for children. Planned stops at parks and playgrounds make the drive much easier. Some airlines will make special provisions for babies and preschoolers if you notify them before take-off time. It's also a good idea to choose an uncrowded flight for children. That means more space for them to move around, and often more attention from the flight attendants. They may have special equipment to help make your child more comfortable such as bassinets or youth seats.

It's no fun being sick on a vacation. If you take prescription medicines with you, be sure to have a copy of the prescription itself in case the medication has to be replaced. You may want to take along an anti-nauseant for those who have trouble with motion sickness.

If you have planned this far, your next step is deciding what to take along. Check out the expected weather for your destination--don't assume that every place is warm in July! Plan what clothes everyone will need for the activities that you'll be doing. If you want to, run through your itinerary day by day to help you decide, then take just those things-- don't over pack. I've learned that too much clothing simply results in more to carry around and more laundry to do upon return.

Children are naturally active, so you can expect them to be uncomfortable if they're asked to sit still for long periods of time. Allow them to take along a favorite toy or pack a variety of small surprise packages to be opened at intervals during the trip. However, make sure these surprise toys are compatible with the travel situation. Finger puppets, picture cards, washable foam blocks, or an art pad with washable crayons are good choices.

Well, most of your planning is finished to this point, but there is one more thing you can do to help your preschooler prepare for the trip. Talk about the trip casually several weeks before you go to get him used to the idea. If he seems particularly anxious you may want to sit down with him and explain in as much detail as you can what it will be like there and what you'll see. Young children are often concerned about things that adults take for granted. He may ask such things as, "Where will I sleep?, How will we know where we are?, Who will make supper for us?, or "Will there be other children there?" You should answer these questions to the best of your knowledge without making up answers. Although he probably cannot comprehend a time span in days or weeks, you may need to assure him that you will return home soon.

Careful advance preparations will make your vacation a lot more enjoyable for everyone. Now, if I can get all the gear together, we'll see how this advice works out!

Food For Profit Seminar

Do you make a special dessert, make a special jam, desire to do catering or have another innovative idea for a food business venture? Or, do you already have a home-based or small food production business.

If so, the "Food For Profit" seminar being sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension will be of interest to you. It will be held at two locations-- 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., March 23 at Sunnybrook Ballroom, Pottstown and March 24 at the Penn State-York Campus Conference Center.

The seminar is designed for individuals considering establishing or improving a home-based or small food production business. Topics to be covered are:

"Resources for Small Business"- How to access the network for information, publications and personal help in establishing your business.

"Regulations Affecting Food Businesses"- Licensing and inspection and labeling requirements for small and home-based food production businesses. Where to go, what it costs.

"What Do I Charge"- Pricing your product to make a profit and to be competitive in the market place. How and where to find your market.

"Food Safety and Specialty Food Products"- Food handling and safety practices related to food processing, storage and preparation.

"Legal Information for the Small Business Operator"- Information on zoning, taxes, tax I.D. number, fictitious name, liability, etc.

"The Birth of a Business"- a first hand experience from successful experienced businesswomen who have a food business.

Advanced registration is required. The fee is $15.00 which includes lunch. Request an information brochure or send your registration to the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Service, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA 17601. Make checks payable to: Extension Service Special Fund. Please indicate which seminar you will be attending. Deadline for registration is March 14, 1988.

The Old Country Store And The Family Behind It

BY LOU ANN GOOD

FLEETWOOD — When Paul Kurtz sat in the one-room school house at Fleetwood as a first grader, he never dreamed that some day, he would carry on a thriving business in that same one-room school house.

Neither he or his dad, Jacob Kurtz, who sold the plot of land to the county for the schoolhouse, suspected that the school would become a center to where people within a 50-mile radius would one day flock for their shopping needs.

The change happened slowly. About 20 years ago, a farmer, Harvey Weaver, purchased the outdated schoolhouse for his small hardware and bike shop business, called Weaver's Hardware Store. Over the years, Weaver expanded the building until there were six haphazard additions.

Three years ago, Paul Kurtz purchased the business, which caters mostly to the farming community. The shop is reminiscent of an old country store complete with hardwood floors and shelves that stock everything the farmer and his wife needs and then some. It's the place where community folks go to purchase things such as bottle stoppers and fencing that the average department store does not carry. It's a place where nuts and bolts are bought by the ton and sold by the pound. More than 35,000 different items fill the 23,000 square feet of selling space.

"If we don't stock it, we'll get it," said Paul. "That's our slogan."

And the community has learned to depend upon them for just that. Twenty-five employees are needed to meet the growing demands of the business, which has retained its former name. Over the years it has steadily increased in sales, and in the last five months alone, it experienced a rapid 28 percent growth. Their loyal clientele includes farmers from as far away as New Jersey and Maine.

"We must be doing something right or people would not come from such a distance," Paul said. He credits much of their success to their inventory volume and to reliable service. He added, "And we had a good foundation to build upon."

Others say that Paul is a good organizer and manager. But those who know him best say he is much more than a successful businessman. He's a family man who values spending time with his wife Marie and their children: Paula, 17; Brian, 15; Deanna, 12; Daniel, 8; and Wendy, 4.

A neighbor claims that both Paul and his wife have super energy that enables them to be active in home, church, school and community affairs. The Kurtz's three oldest children help part-time in the store.

Marie, who has degrees in nursing and social work, no longer works in the nursing field because, "The hours are anti-family." She said although she doesn't plan to go back into nursing, she does dream of getting her master's in counseling psychology to enable her to counsel families who are adopting.

The Kurtz's have a special interest in adoption because, in addition to their three biological children, they have two adopted children. Marie said, "I love mothering, and both Paul and I always wanted a big family." During her third pregnancy, an Rh-negative blood problem prevented her from having any more children. Eventually they adopted Daniel, who comes from Korea, and Wendy from El Salvador.

With five children who are active in school and church activities and music lessons, Marie finds chauffering takes up much of their time. They also take an active part in community, school and church functions such as teaching skiing to high school students.

The Kurtzes spend a lot of time traveling as a family and with friends. Marie maintains that children learn better by relating to others than learning merely by rote in a school setting. Last summer the Kurtz family took a month to travel to the West Coast. This summer, Paul, Marie and Brian, their oldest son, will work with the Jamaica Medical Missions for 2 weeks. Marie will work as a nurse while Paul and Brian will be medical helpers.

Of all they have done, Marie and Paul believe their greatest accomplishments are staying happily married for 19 years and having five children they enjoy.

Weaver's Hardware Store holds a whole lot more than typical hardware item. The store which evolved from a one-room school house is a farmer's haven where everything but groceries can be found.

Paul and Marie Kurtz like the togetherness that owning a family store can bring. At right, Jacob Kurtz, Paul's dad, stands. Jacob sold a plot of ground off his farm for the original school house.

After nursery school, Wendy likes to climb on her dad's lap and look at their store's catalogue.

Marie finds life exciting. "I like new things. I'm adventurous," she said.

Lean Answers About Today's Pork

Q. Some people say that pork has high fat and calorie levels, while others claim just the opposite—what are the facts about these levels?

A. Recent research by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) confirms that many fresh pork cuts are lean, "nutrient-dense" food selections that have a high ratio of nutrients to calories. Thanks to strictly monitored feeding practices and genetic advances, the hog became much leaner over the past twenty years. Many cuts contain about 200 calories per three-ounce serving and 9 grams of fat, which is 40 percent fewer calories and 70 percent less fat than just 25 years ago. In addition, only one-third of the fat in many lean pork cuts is saturated. However certain cuts have higher fat levels, such as bacon, ribs and processed pork products.

Q. Is pork high in cholesterol?

A. Three ounces of lean fresh pork loin contains only about 76 milligrams of cholesterol representing 25 percent of the American Heart Association's recommended maximum of 300 milligrams of dietary cholesterol per day. Fresh pork's cholesterol levels are comparable to many beef and poultry cuts.

Q. How does pork stack up in other nutrient categories?

A. Pork has long been an excellent source of vitamins B-6 and B-12. It also provides a generous contribution of niacin, riboflavin, iron and zinc. The USDA confirms that pork is the leading dietary source of thiamine.

Q. Do I still need to cook pork to an internal temperature of 185 degrees Fahrenheit to control trichinosis?

A. Absolutely not. While trichinosis was a serious problem in the U.S. pork industry many years ago, the incidence of trichina infection in hogs today is nearly nonexistent. Most trichinosis cases today result from eating wild game. Since hogs have a much leaner composition today than twenty years ago, the USDA lowered its internal cooking temperature recommendation for pork from 185 degrees to 160 degrees (medium). This new temperature produces optimum juiciness and tenderness and ensures against trichina, which is eliminated at 137 degrees.

Q. Where can I get more recipe information about lean pork?

A. For a free copy of "Pork Nouvelle," a weight-reduction diet brochure featuring mouth-watering lean pork dishes, write the National Pork Producers Council, Department B-M, P.O. Box 10383, Des Moines, Iowa 50306.

Spread fertilizer and lime in your orchard or vineyard

Now there's a high quality, reliable Stoltzfus spreader designed to care for your trees and vines as much as you do. It easily spreads fertilizer and lime—even wet, stockpiled lime—just where you want it. Consider these features and options:

- Limb guards
- 65" height
- 60" width
- 84 cubic feet capacity
- Spread to either side only, or to both.
- Center-limiting deflector puts material under your trees, not on the driveways.
- Low-rate feature lets you spread fertilizer as low as 125 lbs./acre

"The Best Investment You'll Ever Make In Raising Calves"

WHAT DO OUR CUSTOMERS TELL US?

"They are drier in the winter, the snow doesn't get in them. The calves stay warmer and start eating at earlier age in just 2 days in winter. You don't see the frozen ears or tails in sub-zero weather The temp inside our Poly Domes is warmer and we have no problem with ventilation."

EBY ALUMINUM GOOSENECK TRAILERS

20' Gooseneck Trailer

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

- LIGHTWEIGHT - Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE - Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY - Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

More Vegetables Please!

If only the family would reach for carrot sticks or broccoli buds as often as they dip into the ice cream container or the cookie jar. Often the items at the top of a family's dislike list are vegetables.

Vegetables contain many important vitamins and minerals essential for good health. And in-season vegetables can be great bargains. Try these tips to help your family increase their appreciation of this important food group.

Try adding interesting toppings as grated cheese, nuts, sauces or crushed crackers to cooked vegetables. A simple shake of Parmesan cheese instantly perks up zucchini squash, and a sprinkle of slivered almonds makes green beans elegant and tasty.

Sauces add a nice finishing touch to vegetables as well as a delicious flavor. Most sauces such as white, cheese and hollandaise can be made quickly and easily in your microwave. Remember to cover sauce with plastic wrap or wax paper to avoid splattering. The plastic wrap cover also seals in moisture and steams vegetables in your microwave, helping to preserve their nutrients.

If your family doesn't eat all the vegetables you serve, ask them why. Maybe it's not the vegetables they dislike, but the method of preparation. While Dad may balk at eating steamed broccoli in hollandaise sauce, he may appreciate raw broccoli with dip. Try keeping freshly cut vegetables in plastic storage bags in your refrigerator. Cut up pieces of broccoli, cauliflower, carrots and zucchini. Raw vegetables make a nutritious, low-calorie snack for everyone. And you can select vegetables out of the bag to prepare as a side dish, salads, stir-fry, soups or casseroles.

Children seem to be the fussiest eaters, especially when it comes to vegetables. Make eating them fun by calling broccoli stalks "trees" and carrot slices "pennies." It also helps if you eat the vegetable in question yourself. Children are great mimics of their parents and other family members.

Many people are bored with plain, cooked vegetables. Experiment with different herbs and seasonings. Who knows, your family might surprise you and say, "More vegetables, please!".

Understanding Loneliness

Loneliness is caused by anything that leads to lost contact with those who share one's concerns such as death, divorce, or moving away. We can be lonely at any age, but we are more vulnerable to loneliness in our later years. Advanced age brings people into situations that risk both emotional and social isolation. With again, the greater risk of losing a spouse, retirement, infirmity, and depletion of energy can lead to lost contact with friends.

Social activity does not necessarily relieve loneliness. Loneliness is not simply a desire for company. A new friendship does not remedy loneliness automatically. It takes another emotional attachment of a single and intense nature, according to Robert Weiss in his book on loneliness. If that relationship can be established, loneliness ends abruptly.

Loneliness is distinct from grief in that most aspects of grief usually subside as time goes by. Shock disappears, anger and sadness diminish, but loneliness may be expected to continue so long as no new relationship is formed to replace what has been lost.

Loneliness is not solitude. Solitude refers to a time used to gain a clear understanding of oneself, to begin to be true at that self. Paul Tillich, a theologian states that solitude is the glory of being alone while loneliness is the pain of being alone.

Jersey Cattle Club Has Banner Year In 1987

COLUMBUS, OH. — The American Jersey Cattle Club (AJCC) and its marketing arm, National All-Jersey Inc. (NAJ), recorded strong participation in all breed programs in 1987, according to AJCC/NAJ Executive Secretary, Maurice E. Core.

Core reports 52,713 applications for registration were recorded in 1987, marking the eighth consecutive year of 50,000 or more registrations. There were 25,476 registration transfer applications recorded by the AJCC in 1987, the second best year for transfers in a quarter century.

There were 749 Jersey herds representing 50,391 cows enrolled in the Total Performance Evaluation (TPE) and Dairy Herd Improvement Registry (DHIR) programs in 1987, the most cows enrolled in these performance programs in the 119 year history of the AJCC.

AJCC/NAJ staff members spread the word about U.S. Jerseys in eight foreign countries in 1987, expanding the market for U.S. Jersey genetics around the globe. Jersey breeders staged the largest single national dairy breed show in the world in 1987, when 617 Jerseys were exhibited at the All American Jersey Show in Louisville, Kentucky in November.

The Jersey associations finished another strong year financially, despite the purchase of new and improved data processing equipment and the expansion of field staff.

Core credits several factors for this high level of Jersey activity. Foremost is the ever-increasing number of milk markets recognizing the value of high solids milk, giving Jersey breeders extra income during these difficult times in the dairy business.

Also, Jersey breeders have long taken an active part in the marketing of their product, through programs like All-Jersey Milk and Jersey Pride Cheese. These efforts are now paying dividends.

In 1987, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) issued a landmark decision, calling for the

Adams Farmers Set Goal

GETTYSBURG — The Adams County Farmers' Association Board of Directors recently held their monthly meeting at the home of President John Hess. Membership was reported to be at a high of 885 families. Membership chairman Dave Donaldson expects to meet the goal of 900 member families by the end of February, "I fully intend to reach goal by then because of the top-quality of our workers and captains. We will definitely have a victory party to recognize the hard work that has been done, but only if we reach goal by the end of February."

President John Hess and legislative committee chairman Donald Wenk will be attending the Washington Legislative Tour to be held on March 9th and 10th. The tour will consist of meetings between the county farmers and their legislators to concentrate and resolve problem areas within the county regarding the farming community.

A meet-the-candidates night will be organized by chairman Melvin Durboraw during the month of March. All members are urged to attend and meet the local candidates who will be running for office in the Fall. Details will be forthcoming.

The annual Spring meeting has been scheduled for March 29th at the Aspers Fire Hall beginning at 6:30 p.m. with a reception, followed by a ham and oyster family-style dinner. Guest speaker will be Dr. Dennis Murphy, an agricultural engineer, who will speak on ag safety.

The Safemark open house will be held on February 23 through the 25th at the Middletown Warehouse. All interested persons are invited to attend. The March board of directors meeting will be held on the first Thursday of the month, March 3rd, at the Adams County National Bank, Gettysburg.

implementation of multiple component pricing of milk in the Great Basin Federal Milk Marketing Order. Leading dairy authorities believe this could lead to multiple component milk pricing in other federal milk marketing orders across the country, more fully recognizing the value of high solids milk, like the milk produced by Jerseys.

The AJCC's Genetic Recovery Program, started in 1975, allows for the identification of unregistered, purebred Jerseys and the eventual registration of their offspring sired by Registered Jersey bulls. Core credits this program with expanding the base of Registered Jerseys in this country and increasing the numbers of breeders who participate in other Jersey programs.

PUMP, Don't Haul, Your MANURE!

...you can pump and spread in one day what would take a week to haul, regardless of field conditions.

PUMPS any type of manure
Dairy, Chicken, Beef, Veal, Hog
High Performance Bauer helical rotor pumps are self-priming and can pump through irrigation pipe and spreader nozzles (shown), or through tractor-mounted Honeybar injectors for direct injection into soil, eliminating run-off.

TICO HONEYBAR INJECTOR
New system injects* liquid manure into soil, eliminating run-off, odor problems and loss of nitrogen value associated with other spreading methods. Honeybar attaches to tractor 3 pt. hitch—is fed directly from lagoon or storage tank through irrigation pipe and flexible hose. Designed for one-man operation. Components can also be used for hose reel irrigation system.
*(injects up to 600 gpm depending on ability to supply material to pump)

MAGNUM Self-Priming Chopper Pump
has a powerful chopping and shredding device to reduce animal and vegetable matter to a pumpable non-clogging slurry Tractor pto-driven models can pump up to 880 gal/min Other models available pump up to 1012 gpm can irrigate up to 1/3 mile long and up to 400 ft. wide, or 14 acres in one run. And, depending on model and pipe size, up to 800 gpm and up to 50 acres per day coverage. Gets the water to the crop when needed.

BAUER RAINSTAR REEL IRRIGATOR

TICO also offers all other types of irrigation systems
• Wheel Row • Center Pivot • Giant Sprinkler • Trickle • Solid Set • Hand Move
Tico quick-couple irrigation pipe is the only irrigation pipe made to withstand pressures up to 300 psi

FOR A QUALITY BUILT FORAGE BOX... TRY A Meyer's

500 Series

Folded up, the cross conveyor extension acts as a gate
Five models to choose from Floor boards are Wood-Lite treated
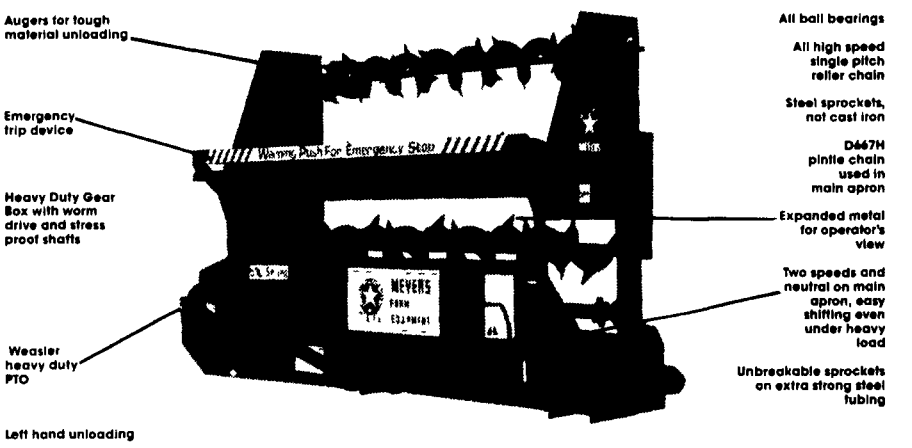
Oak cross pieces
All components are painted before assembly

The 500 Series Unloading Unit has most of the features used in the high-performance 600 Series Unit



Augers for tough material unloading
Emergency trip device
Heavy Duty Gear Box with worm drive and stress proof shafts
Weasler heavy duty PTO
All ball bearings
All high speed single pitch roller chain
Steel sprockets, not cast iron
D667H pintle chain used in main apron
Expanded metal for operator's view
Two speeds and neutral on main apron, easy shifting even under heavy load
Unbreakable sprockets on extra strong steel tubing

STEEL FRAME OR ALUMINIZED SELF UNLOADING FORAGE BOXES

We're extra proud of this box — the design incorporates everything we've learned in over 30 years of Forage Box manufacturing

The 500 Series Self Unloading Forage Boxes are the last word in utility convenience and durability.

All the smooth, trouble free performance you have come to expect of a Meyer's Box is here plus new features that make it the easiest to use and maintain of any made.

Available as an all bolted and riveted steel frame or our aluminized sided box. Both have hardwood bed pieces.

An important feature of all Meyer's Boxes is that all components are painted before assembly thus preventing hidden rot and rust. Long life is assured.

On all models one easy to operate lever controls all functions: in neutral the cross conveyor still runs for easy cleanout.

Left hand unloading means all material goes into the blower — no messy cleanup.

The 400 and 500 Series main apron chains are made up of D667H pintle chain with a combined capacity of 40,000 lbs. pull.

Fourth Auger
A fourth auger is available as an option for unloading light, bulky loads. This attachment gives you the utmost in even unloading.

Higher Sides
Adds one board or 5" to our standard sides.

Tie Down Kit
Used to fasten forage box to running gear. Stops box from moving forward and backward yet allows some movement up and down.

Optional All-Steel Sides (steel frames only)
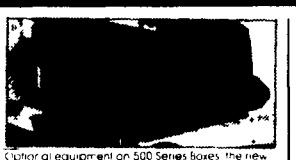
Heavy 20 gauge rust resistant Galvanneal steel is used for our steel liners. The Meyer "Red" finish is hot electrostatic applied for long life with 10 year limited warranty.



Optional equipment on 500 Series Boxes: the new fold down cross conveyor extension delivers material deeper into the bin, makes it easier to align for tandem wagon loading, and adds a fence-like feeding.

The extension is folded for transport and when the box is used as a feeder wagon. It can be set at various angles to accommodate different crops.

A standard cross conveyor extends 12" from side of box. The fold down extension adds another 12 inches.

There are so many more features we can't list them all. We urge you to compare before you buy — surely you want the best and Meyer's gives you the most value at an affordable price.

Case International 5100 Soybean Special Drill

Drill soybeans with a 5100 Soybean Special and you can expect yields up to 25% higher than with conventional row-planting methods. Here's what you get with the 5100.

- Outstanding seeding accuracy. Famous Case International feed cups deliver seed smoothly and positively at a uniform rate
- Solid seeding. Accurate depth control in row spacings as close as 6".. while some other drills provide depth control only in 10 or 12" spacings
- Fast emergence. Case International dual-rib press wheels compact the soil around the seed, and gently "firm" the top to prevent air pockets

The 96 Series: Advanced Design In The Perfect Size

When your workload falls right in the middle, efficient performers like the 1896 and 2096 really pay off.

Powered by technologically advanced 5.9 liter six-cylinder diesel engines, the 1896 and 2096 pump out more fieldworking power than you'd expect from tractors in the 100-120 PTO hp (74.6 to 89.5 kW) class. The key is turbocharging on both models and aftercooling on the 2096. The state-of-the-art Intelligence Center and Silent Guardian cab complete the package.

So if your tractor demands fall somewhere between moderate and heavy, check out the 96 Series.. and discover the difference top technology can make.

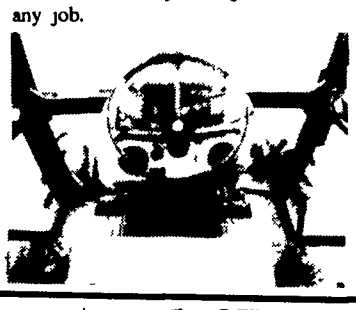
The 94 Series: Where Power Comes In Small Packages

You'll be amazed at how much productivity you can get out of these three mid-sized tractors. Every one of them offers the power and features you need to put nearly any job to rest.

Whichever model suits your demands, from the 65 PTO hp 1394 to the 75 PTO hp 1494 to the 85 PTO hp 1594, you'll be impressed with the level of standard and optional equipment available. For instance, Mechanical Front Drive is an option that can enhance the performance of any of these models. With the available cab, you can turn a 94 Series tractor into a comfortable, climate-controlled workhorse. And by adding a Case IH loader, you're set for nearly any job.



The powertrain provides all the reliability and performance you expect from Case IH. The standard 12-speed transmission gives you three forward speeds in each of four ranges, with on-the-go synchro shifting between second and third in each range. For heavier loads, there's an available 12-speed powershift. It provides four on-the-go shifts in each of three ranges. Both transmissions have four reverse gears.

3640 and 3650 ROUND BALERS

They Are Here! We Equip Our Big-Capacity Balers With Even Bigger Features... To Make Your Bales The Best!

The Right Features, The Right Baler. If you've ever had to unplug the throat of a troublesome baler, you know how important it is that material is allowed to enter the bale chamber freely.

And that's exactly how the Case IH round balers are built. Our open-throat design allows material unobstructed entry ot the bale chamber. Even large clumps can pass through easily, because there are no rollers to mat windrows or slow the incoming flow.

But the high-maintenance parts of any round baler are its belts. And it's here where Case IH round balers stand out.

Many competitive balers use very long belts that are spliced with wear-prone flexible lacing. Case IH uses short, seamless, rubber-faced belts made with durable nylon cord. Their 11-inch (279 mm) widths keep them in their tracks and cut down on maintenance In fact, our belts last up to 40 times longer than competitive spliced belts made of the same material.

This is just a glimpse. If you have a feeling that the 3640 or 3650 might fit into your big-baling operation, we have a feeling that you're right.

Check out the complete rundown on what our line-up can offer you, including the host of options that lets you tailor the 3640 or 3650 to your specific needs.

No matter how you outfit a Case IH round baler, you'll be building a better bale.

THE ONE SPREADER FOR A TWO-SPREADER FARM

A Gehl 300 Series Scavanger® II manure spreader handles all types of manure It saves you time and money by bridging the gap between liquid and solid manure handling. It's the one tough, reliable machine built to cut right through your manure spreading problems. It's available in five sizes — from 912 to 2925 gallon capacities — so you can choose the one that best meets your operation's specialized needs

Gehl has a patented, exclusive hydraulically raised and lowered internal auger to handle pen-packed material. That's why Gehl stands apart from the rest!

Manure from confinement housing can be quickly and easily loaded and delivered to your spreader with a versatile Gehl skid loader. The heaviest loads are no problem with a Scavenger® II manure spreader. It's built with heavy duty chain drive and rugged construction throughout. Your first glance will tell you the Scavenger® II is unlike any spreader you've ever seen.

Handles All Kinds Of Manure - Liquid, Semi-Solid, Pen Packed, Even Frozen

Unload fast!

The Model 355 grinder mixer unloads a full 100-bushel tank in less than five minutes! Its big eight inch diameter auger unloads feed fast. With extensions the unloading auger can reach a full 20 feet. The mixing auger thoroughly mixes your ration from the bottom up to produce consistent, uniform feed. And the new optional electronic scale gives you accurate control of rations. Stop in and see the "355" today.

NH 304 SPREADER

The side-delivery manure spreader that does it all

The new Model 304 side delivery spreader from New Holland has 122.5 gallons (slurry or 164 cu ft of per) manure with the optional fishbowl side extensions (shown). Or if you want to back under low barn cleaners you might like the optional low side extensions. Either way you get clean hauling and fast efficient unloading. And the 304 is built for years of reliable service.

HEAVY-DUTY LEVELING OFFSET HARROWS

650 SERIES

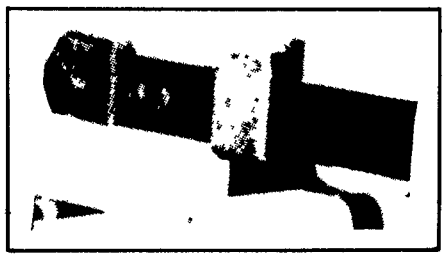
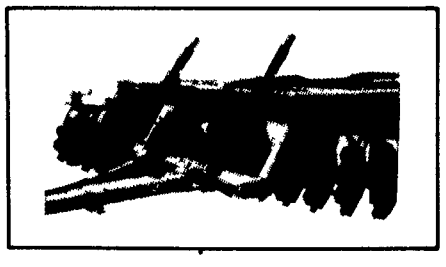
Split Gang Construction with more bearings eliminates axle stretch due to excessively long axles

Equipped with Shallow Concavity Discs on front for penetration and Deep Concavity Discs on rear for better leveling ability Discs are tapered on both front and rear gangs, one disc tapered on front, three discs tapered on rear



Adjustable depth control holds the cutting depth constant Then simply lock bar for transport to eliminate wear and tear on hydraulic transport cylinders on those rough and rocky roads



Positive adjustment leveling from front to rear is no problem Weight is shifted by these Spring Rods to produce a smooth finish

OUR OFFSET LEVELS LIKE A TANDEM

- Wide Range of Adjustments
- Tapered Discs
- Disc Concavity
- Spring Leveling Rods

RESULT...

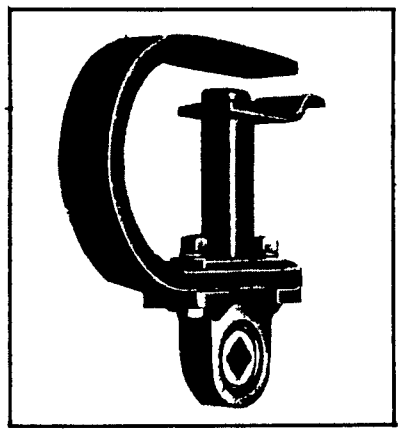
Furrows And Ridging In The Center Is Virtually Eliminated.
A Tandem That Cuts Like An Offset Leaves A Furrow.



FLEXIBILITY

PRECISION ENGINEERED... FULLY FIELD TESTED!

SANITIZING TEAT DIP

Don't kid yourself . . . killing GERMS is only part of the mastitis prevention program!! The answer is PRO-4 Teat Dip.

Approved By National Mastitis Council Protocol "A", "B", and "C"

Pro-4 formulation recognizes that killing germs is only half the battle in mastitis control. Maintaining good healthy teat tissue is the other half of the battle that must be won to reduce mastitis. The multiple conditioning action on the teat skin of Pro-4 is superior to any teat dip on the market today. Pro-4 Teat Dip has a record of 14 years of safe and effective use.

Remember Bladex®
What was true for corn growers in the 1970s is even more important today. For more effective control of grasses and broadleaf weeds, without carryover, nothing is better than BLADEX® herbicide. Using BLADEX on corn allows you to rotate to soybeans and gives you the freedom to use the herbicide of your choice including Du Pont's Prescription Weed Control℠ products. BLADEX, only from Du Pont. Keeps weeds out of your corn this year. Keeps your herbicide and crop options open for next year.
There's nothing else like it.

Rubber Mats May Be Key To Low SCC For This Potter Farmer

ULYSSES (POTTER CO.) — Sometimes trying something new works out okay, and sometimes it doesn't. But for Robert and Shirley Francis, Potter County dairy farmers, trying something new usually turns out for the best.

Recently the Francis' were recognized by the Pennsylvania and Potter County Dairy Herd Improvement Associations for superior quality milk production. Their average somatic cell count for 1987 was an outstanding 87,000 on 39 registered Holsteins producing 18,675 pounds of milk and 708 pounds of butterfat per cow.

Since 1954 Robert and Shirley have operated the farm in Ulysses which belonged to Shirley's father, Lou Brown. Shortly after that Robert made a decision which made a small change with big benefits.

"I use rubber mats instead of bedding and that keeps everything more sanitary, but a lot of people don't believe that. It's better than straw," stated Robert. "If you drop the milker you don't get all that straw and dirt on them. I've used mats for 30 years and I've never been sorry I got them."

In the early 1950's Robert had done some reading about the advantages of using mats instead of bedding and discussed it with his veterinarian. A dairyman in Jasper, New York was changing his operation to free stalls and was selling his mats. Robert bought them.

"They were made in Holland. I paid $19 for them. I can't find the ones from Holland anymore so I get them from Germany, but they just don't last as long. They cost $60-$70 now and they are guaranteed for 10 years, but that's still a lot cheaper than using straw," said Robert.

Mats can be cemented in, but Robert has the removable mats, which he feels permits a more thorough cleaning. His cows have less knee and leg problems which he attributes to the mats. Not to mention the biggest pay off which is the low somatic cell count.

"I think keeping your cell count down is very important. If you don't, you won't have a market for your milk," said Robert.

Milking a cow too long before drying her off can lead to mastitis problems. Robert said the cow should be dried off when they start milking about 25 pounds. Continuing to milk her after that is just asking for trouble according to Robert. The Francis' don't hold on to problem cows too long. He feels once a cow begins having problems it is time to get rid of her.

The cows udders are washed off with a sanitizing solution and dried off. An iodine teat dip is also used.

Robert said he doesn't hesitate to initiate new practices or using new products. He recently began using propionic acid on his hay, which allows him to bale earlier and protects against spoilage and his very pleased with the results. This year for the first time he used a preservative on his corn silage.

"I had very dry corn silage this year and if I had not used the preservative it would have molded on me," said Robert. "Now I have the nicest silage. I had one of the feed men come in and he said it looked good enough for him to eat."

Robert and Shirley Francis, Ulysses, were recently honored by the Pennsylvania and Potter County Dairy Herd Improvement Associations for superior quality milk production. Average somatic cell count for 1987 was 87,000. The herd of 39 Registered Holsteins is producing 18,675 pounds of milk and 708 pounds of butterfat per cow.

FUEL INJECTION & TURBOCHARGER SPECIALIST

WINTERTIME PROBLEMS

The year 'round problems of water damage and carbonizing of the fuel injection system become more acute during the cold winter season. And, diesel engines now become exposed to another wintertime problem: Waxing and Gelling Diesel fuel contains paraffin wax which develops into crystals as the temperature drops When crystals begin to form, the temperature is at "cloud point." The pour point of the fuel is the temperature at which the crystals have now formed into a lattice-type pattern, restricting fuel flow This is waxing and gelling, and it clogs filters and blocks fuel lines

POLAR POWER - THE ULTIMATE WINTERTIME TREATMENT

• POLAR POWER combines the advantages of FUEL POWER and FLOW IMPROVER by preventing water damage, the growth of algae, and the carbonizing of injection system AND by preventing waxing and gelling — giving you the ultimate wintertime product

Swine-Feed Testing To Begin Soon

Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG — Penn State will soon be testing swine feed for mold mycotoxins at no additional cost to the farmer, according to Dr. Kenneth Kephart, Extension Swine Specialist.

Kephart spoke at the annual Franklin/Adams/Cumberland Swine Producer's meeting held February 9 at the Franklin County Extension Office.

Four out of ten swine feed samples now tested by the Penn State lab "don't meet the specs on paper," he said.

Kephart's slide presentation stressed proper feeding of swine.

Creep feed, the solid feed given to nursing pigs to get them used to feed, has little effect on their weight gain. The type of creep feed given does not matter, Kephart said, as long as the pigs are weaned at younger than four or five weeks.

A young pig's problems at weaning can include changing from a liquid to a solid diet, low immunity, poor facilities, and low feed consumption. If pigs are weaned at the correct age, each pig will gain 5-8 pounds during the first two weeks after weaning. "It's almost always cheaper to leave them on the sow," Kephart said, rather than wean them too early. Pigs gain half a pound a day on the sow; they won't gain at all if weaned too soon. "Often we get trapped into earlier weaning than we should," he stated.

Pigs at 10-25 pounds should have a feed containing 15-20 percent milk products, either whey or skim milk. The feed should be medicated, pelleted in 1/8 inch pieces, and contain 1.25 percent lysine. By the time a pig gets to 25-40 pounds, milk products in the feed may not pay. It should have a palatable, medicated feed containing one percent lysine.

Feed additives for young pigs include CSP-250, ASP-250, Mecadox (until the pigs weigh 70 pounds), Lincomycin, Apramycin, and copper sulfate (two pounds per ton; use with antibiotic.)

Poor performance of young pigs in the nursery may be feed-related or facility-related. Moldy feed causes feed refusal and prolapsed rectums. Cold, damp, drafty facilities are generally unhealthy for the animals.

In response to a question from the audience, Dr. Kephart recommended handling runts separately, putting them in smaller pens and having only eight to ten per pen. They will gain faster and more economically if given milk replacer with their feed, he said.

Feed additives recommended for grower-finisher pigs (40-125 pounds) are CSP-250, ASP-250, tetracycline and Tylan. For animals 125-140 pounds, additives may not pay. When choosing an antibiotic for these animals, "choose one that does not require withdrawal," Kephart said. He noted that the number of violations in Pennsylvania hogs is fairly low.

Feeding problems in grower-finisher pigs are moldy feed and wasted feed. "Ten percent wasted feed works out to $4-5 per hog," Kephart said.

During gestation, a sow should be fed four to five pounds of feed once a day. For the first month, the feed should contain tetracycline at the rate of 400 grams per ton. During lactation, a sow with a large litter should have full feed. Sows with a smaller litter should be fed at the rate of six pounds of feed for the sow and one half pound for each pig. Feed additives are CSP-250, ASP-250, Tylan Sulfa, Neomycin, and Terramycin.

Adding fat to the diet or a lactating sow may help in the summertime, Kephart says, although he recommends getting rid of the fiber first. Added fat may increase the survival rate if it was below 80 percent.

Feeding problems of the breeding herd include waiting until farrowing to correct constipation (fiber should be fed throughout gestation to avoid this), moldy feed, and overfeeding through gestation. Overfeeding is expensive, prolongs farrowing time, and may lead to milking problems.

Dr. Larry Hutchinson, extension veterinarian, discussed biosecurity. Biosecurity involves not only keeping disease off the farm by vaccination and worming, but also avoiding the introduction of bacteria and viruses onto the farm, and minimizing the economic effects of disease if an outbreak does occur. He recommended the control of new arrivals, control of farm traffic, separation of groups, sanitation, vaccination and worming, and maintaining high disease resistance.

Hutchinson advised farmers to isolate newly-purchased animals in a separate facility for three weeks. During this period, the animals should be wormed, treated for mange, and tested for pseudorabies and bruccelosis. About two weeks after arrival, they should be vaccinated.

Within the next six to ten months, Hutchinson announced, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture will institute regulations on the sale of feeder pigs within the state. Information will be required on the incidence of pseudorabies on the farm of origin, no matter what state that farm is in. 'It will change the way you do business if you are selling or buying feeder pigs," he said.

Farm traffic includes trucks and truckers, farm visitors, domestic animal traffic, rodents, wild animals, and wild birds, all of which may spread disease. "Some of this traffic is controllable, some is not," Hutchinson said. "The major cause of the spread of avian flu was trucks," he added. Pseudorabies is also spread this way. He recommended not allowing anyone who does not absolutely have to be there into any hog facilities.

MORE INSECT CONTROL.

MORE CONSISTENCY.

MORE PERFORMANCE.

COUNTER® GIVES YOU MORE.

Every season, there's a complex of insect pests waiting to attack your corn crop and reduce yields. And in conservation tillage fields, trash on the surface can provide a home for even more pests. You can't afford to stand by while they eat into your income and potential profits. You need the best protection you can get. COUNTER® systemic insecticide-nematicide.

MORE INSECT CONTROL

Since 1975, tests by major universities in the Corn Belt have proved that COUNTER delivers more dependable control of more major corn pests than any other corn soil insecticide.

COUNTER controls a broad spectrum of pests, including corn rootworms, wireworms, white grubs, nematodes and other problem insects (see chart). And COUNTER gives you guaranteed cutworm protection. See your local Cyanamid AgriCenter™ dealer for details on this product guarantee.

MORE CONSISTENCY

Since its introduction, COUNTER has consistently outperformed all other corn soil insecticides by a wide margin, regardless of years of continuous use. So there's no need to periodically take chances with less reliable products.

MORE ACCURATE PLACEMENT

You can protect your crop and the surrounding environment when you go in-furrow with COUNTER insecticide. You're putting all of your protection to work in the soil where it's needed. And your insecticide won't be scattered by wind during application or washed away by heavy rains. Protect your crop and the environment. Because you care for the land.

MORE VALUE

Swine-Feed Testing

Groups of animals should be segregated by age. Ideally, air, manure and traffic should go from the youngest to the oldest, not vice versa, he said. Parvo is present on most farms and does not cause trouble after the animals have developed immunity. A gilt should be exposed to parvo or be vaccinated for it three to four weeks before breeding. "The wrong time to expose her is when she's bred or after she's bred," Hutchinson said, because of the danger to the developing pigs.

Hutchinson stressed the need for "cleanable" facilities. "Clean first, disinfect second," he recommended. "If you've got things well cleaned, disinfectants can do you a lot of good. Nothing can disinfect a pile of manure."

When worming sows, timing is important. "You want the sow to farrow clean of worms," he said, for the protection of the pigs.

Maintaining high disease resistance involves good ventilation to reduce odor, moisture and germs; maintaining a high level of nutrition; proper medication of feed and water; and stress reduction (temperature control, movement, etc.)

Concerning drug residues, Dr. Hutchinson said, "The federal government wants hogs to be traceable back to the farm of origin. I don't know how it's going to be accomplished. If there's any question about whether this sow can go to market, we need to do some testing."

"We need to be consumer-oricnted," he continued. "Consumers must be convinced that our product is a good product. I wish we could do it without being regulated to death."

Dr. Kephart spoke on " Sow Culling for Commercial Producers." Only 8.4 percent of sows that are culled are culled by the farmer's choice. The other 91.6 percent either die, become lame, won't breed, or have problems farrowing. "This says that there aren't many opportunities to cull on poor performance," Kephart said. "The goal is to improve the genetic base of your herd." He cautioned that the harder a herd is culled, the lower the average age of the herd will be. "You'll have more gilts farrowing," he said. A sow reaches her peak of production by the third litter, he noted.

Genetic improvement will be slow. "It's easy to increase ovulation rate, but hard to increase litter size," he said. "If you raise your own gilts, most of the genes in your herd are from the boars," he added.

Ways to prevent culling include improving the overall environment and the nutrition of the animals. Kephart cited energy, calcium and phosphorus as the most important components of nutrition.

Reasons for culling a sow are:

1. she won't settle with two services.
2. she won't come into heat.
3. lameness.
4. three small litters
5. high stillbirths
6. disease; abnormalities such as hernias; MMA (mastitis metritis agalactia)

Don't cull for a poor first litter or for a delayed heat after the first lactation.

1. Select replacements early, at 180-200 pounds.
2. Have a large gilt pool--two to three gilts for every crate you have to fill.
3. Breed on the second heat.
4. Move non-breeders out by 250-260 pounds.

"If you can keep your culling rate down to 15 percent (30 percent a year) or less, you are ahead," he concluded. "That way, you're turning your herd over every three years or so."

Fabral Roofing and Siding Panels help you!
Low Maintenance for Farm Buildings, Stables or Horse Barns.

The low maintenance, remarkable durability and pleasing appearance of Fabral panels make them extremely popular for use on farm buildings. When architecturally required, metal panels can be bent. Consult CRMC's engineering staff for exact recommendations. Translucent panels in profile's configuration can be used for skylights or sidewall light panels. The exceptional strength and tough baked on finish of these painted panels make them virtually maintenance free even when standing unprotected. The snug fitting sidelap provides a water-tight fit. The wide section between ribs provides superior rain carrying capacities. To complete your building, CRMC stocks a full line of color matched accessories and fasteners. Call or write today for information regarding your building project or any questions you may have. We are a company that is here to serve you.

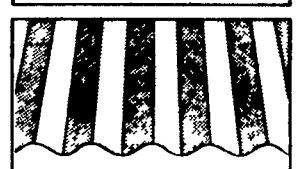
GALVANIZED STEEL

Grandrib 3 has a full 36" coverage with 1¼" deep ribs every 9". The rib's depth and placement give it exception rain carrying capacity. Anti siphon side lap makes it virtually leak proof



CORRUGATED

Both Fabral's 1¼" by 7½ and 2½" by Corrugated Panels are available in both Galvanized Steel and Aluminum. Years of use have proven these panels to have excellent rain carrying capacity. They will withstand years of weathering with [illegible] of maintenance.

Biotechnology Could Make Alternate Uses For Corn, Soybeans

Fuel, plastics, paints, lubricants and road de-icers are among the products that can be made from corn and soybeans. Some Europeans already carry their groceries home in biodegradable plastic bags made from corn starch. A Midwestern farm magazine now prints its pages with ink made from soybeans oil.

Biotechnology can make these alternative uses of corn and soybeans more viable, according to John C. Sorenson, Ph. D., Research Head of Experimental Plant Genetics at Asgrow Seed Company.

"We can use biotechnology to improve the raw materials chemists use to make various products," he says.

Making plastic out of starch can be more economical if chemists are provided the right kind of starch. Sorenson explains that starches are basically water-soluble, some more than others. Plastics manufacturers require starches that are not highly soluble.

Starches less suited for plastics chemical modification, which is often expensive. Through biotechnology, corn genetics can be altered so that appropriate starches and accompanying enzymes are incorporated within a kernel to be used for a particular plastic.

Sorenson says that plastic manufacturers will probably enlist the help of plant breeders to develop hybrids specially suited for specific processes. Then those manufacturers will contract growers to produce the special corns.

"It will be much like the processing tomato industry. The tomato processors and breeders worked together to develop fruits with desired traits, such as even ripening and high solids content," Sorenson says. "Now the processors contract farmers to grow the specific varieties of tomatoes they need to meet their production requirements."

Sorenson indicates that soybeans also will be tailored through biotechnology to "design" oils for special uses.

Soybean oil has five major fatty acids that vary in volume, depending on bean variety. Manufacturers may want only one of these five fatty acids, so they must run the soybean oil through extensive -- and expensive -- processing the remove the undesired fatty acids.

Through biotechnology, Sorenson says, the genetic makeup of soybeans could conceivably be altered so that the plants produce beans that contain up to 95 percent of the desired fatty acid. Oil from such beans would be considerably more economical to process.

Such developments won't happen soon, but they are currently under investigation. Sorenson says that conventional plant breeding techniques have already yielded a sunflower that produces up to 85 percent of one fatty acid.

Altered starch and oil composition will likely occur as demand for specialty crops increases. As researchers succeed in developing alternative uses for corn and soybeans, biotechnology will be called upon to make their novel products economically viable.

Beef War Heats Up

ELIZABETHTOWN — "The U.S. and Japan are playing a game of chicken over beef that both sides say could lead to new trade sanctions against Japan," according to the Wall Street Journal. A four-year agreement that allows Japan to put a limit on beef imports expires on March 31. At this point, both sides are so far apart that, according to the Journal, "they haven't even begun to talk about when to begin talking."

The U.S. has taken a tough stance, insisting on the immediate elimination of import restrictions. The Japanese are saying the most they can give is higher quotas (U.S. is already the largest importer of beef in Japan) and that they won't take part in any talks if the U.S. demands a promise to end quotas as a precondition. (The U.S. position may signal a similarly tough stance in dealing with other countries, including South Korea and some European nations, that also limit beef imports.)

If an agreement is not reached before the March 31 deadline, some officials have indicated that the U.S. could impose trade sanctions against Japan or take Japan before a tribunal of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) for unfair trade practices. Apparently, Japan would like to avoid either option, but finds itself unable to promise the abolition of their quotas because of pressure from a strong farm lobby.

However, the Japanese have proposed what they see to be reforms in the beef-importing system. They've proposed expanding the level of imports and cutting the price of domestically grown beef as much as 30% to make it competitive with imported beef. This appears to be an attempt to reform the beef distribution system which keeps prices high and demand low. As a first step, Japan announced last month that it would cut wholesale beef prices by 5%.

"It may sound rather silly that grown men are sitting around arguing about hamburger," said a U.S. trade official. "But it has become a symbol of the U.S.-Japan relationship."

Frank Fukumoto, from NOSAWA in Tokyo, Japan, spoke to the Pennsylvania Holstein Association at their convention last wekk about the Japanese dairy industry. Fukumoto promotes American genetic materials to the Japanese market.

Japanese Dairy Farmers Fed Millions Despite Sparse Land

BY PAT PURCELL

LANCASTER — Japanese farmers exist on land that is one-tenth the size of California, but support a population that is half of the United States total population.

Frank Fukumoto, Marketing Representative for NOSAWA of Tokyo, Japan, made many enlightening comparisons between Japanese and American farmers during the afternoon session of the annual meeting, Wednesday, at the Pennsylvania Holstein Convention.

The country of Japan equals only 70 percent of the total area of California due to the many mountains. Much of that land is not suitable for farming. Dairy herds are very small especially on the three main islands where a herd size of 15 head is common and farmers do not have pasture for them.

Hokkaido is the dairyland area of Japan and farmers operate much the same as their American counterparts. There is so little land available and land prices for available land are astronomical, according to Fukumoto. Japanese cannot

CHECKING HEAT-TREATMENT OF SOYBEANS AND OIL MEAL

The growing use of heat-treated soybeans for dairy cattle has prompted inquiries regarding testing various sources and batches to determine if heat-treatment has been adequate and not excessive. One of the most common methods is the urease activity test which expresses such in increased units of pH. Beans or soybean oil meal with values of .05-.30 are considered reasonable evidence of proper cooking. If used in a TMR or a high-moisture grain mix containing urea, a range of .05-.10 is preferred on the urease activity test. Raw beans may test 1.7-2.3 on urease activity. Levels under .05 may indicate overcooking. Another test that may be used is protein dispersibility index (PDI). It is less commonly offered by some laboratories. PDI values should range from 12-30. Values under 12 are indicative of overcooking. The primary nutritional considerations for heat-treating soybeans for dairy cattle is to increase rumen by-passable protein content, or to destroy most urease activity if they are to be used in a mixture with urea. They must be heat-treated, however, for feeding to single-stomached animals to improve protein utilization. If extra rumen by-pass protein is not needed, because the herd generally does not respond to it or other sources of it are being fed, heat-treatment should not be necessary for cattle feeding if beans are not used with urea. Most laboratories serving the feed industry will run urease activity tests at a cost of about $6 to $10 per sample. It is best to also test the beans for protein and possibly fat at the same time.

ENVIRONMENT AND MASTITIS

The environment of dairy cows can affect the incidence of mastitis in some situations. Environment influences the exposure to bacteria and the susceptibility of the cows to disease. Sources of environmental bacteria on dairy farms include bedding, manure, feedstuffs. soil and water. Factors which affect the environment include climate, season of the year, herd size, type of housing, general health and management of the animals, and sanitation of their facilities.

In general, wet, humid conditions with high temperatures provide the best conditions for bacterial growth. Even with the best sanitary management, the bed a cow lies in provides a good environment for pathogens. Bedding is frequently finely chopped organic material, such as sawdust, shavings, or chopped straw. These materials are a good source of nutrients for bacteria. The number of organisms living in the bedding is dependent on the degree of contamination. As the bedding gets wet or becomes mixed with manure, bacterial numbers will grow quickly.

The highest incidence of environmental mastitis is thought to occur during the hot, humid months of summer. This is affected by other complications such as the use and condition of a pasture. Herds in total confinement are likely to have an increased incidence of environmental mastitis during the summer. Other situations which increase optimum conditions for environmental pathogens are overcrowding, poor ventilation, and inadequate manure removal.

Holsteins make up the majority of the dairy herds along with a small number of Jerseys. Total cow population is around 1.4 million and average milk production per cow in Hokkaido is approximately 13,200 pounds. The average is nearly 1,000 pounds lower in the three main islands. In the past five years the total number of cows have remained consistent, but the number of herds has decreased drastically.

While American genetics have had and will continue to have a tremendous influence on the Japanese Holstein breed, Fukumoto said that Japan is not yet ready to take advantage of the embryo transplant opportunities. "Japan does not have enough embryo transplants technicians or the technology which you have in this country. Maybe in 5 or 6 years," said Fukumoto.

BETTER GENETICS MEANS BETTER PRODUCTION

The January 25 issue of Hoard's Dairyman has an article by J. R. Bertrand of the Dairy Science Department at Clemson University that relates to management practices in herds with varying levels of production. Records on over 500,000 Holstein cows were divided into production groups based on the Rolling Herd Average.

Of interest, from a genetic standpoint, are the PD $ values for service sires and the percentage of cows identified by sire.

Apparently, managers of high producing herds pay more attention to their breeding program.

PREDICTED DIFFERENCE DOLLARS

Predicted Difference for Dollars (PD$) has become the primary value used to rank sires for profitability. How is this value calculated?

Each time the USDA sire summary is run (2X per year, January and July) the PD $ figures are calculated. The January 1988 values were based on a milk price of $11.50 per cwt of milk with 3.5% fat, and 3.2% protein. Differentials of 16.3 cents for fat and 10.8 cents for protein were used. This was the average milk price for 1987 minus the costs of hauling and assessments.

Thus PD$ for milk and fat was the result of $0.05795 (PD milk) plus $1.63 (PD fat). PD $ for milk, fat and protein was calculated as $0.021339 (PD milk) + $1.63 (PD fat) + $1.08 (PD protein).

While the first formula is most commonly used at present, increasing interest in the protein content of milk has begun to shift emphasis to the formula that includes protein when the breeding industry evaluates sires.

MISSING THE AI ADVANTAGE*

It seems hard to believe that the consequences of missing an opportunity would only become more apparent in three to four years. This is the situation that is encountered when dairy producers don't breed their heifers by AI. In fact, using AI on heifers can provide a greater return both economically and genetically than using AI only on older animals.

The January, 1988 USDA-DHIA genetic evaluations clearly show the genetic superiority of AI bulls. The average of all AI bulls that received their first summaries (this includes all the AI bulls before any culling takes place of bulls for the Active AI list) compared to the average of Non-AI bulls also summarized for the first time shows a difference of +$55 Predicted Difference Dollars (PD$) in favor of the AI bulls (Table 1). This indicates that if heifers are bred to unproven average AI sires instead of the average natural service or "jumper" bull the future offspring will produce about $55 dollars more income (305 2X ME basis) each lactation. When this difference is multiplied by the number of heifers entering the herd each year, the addition of hundreds or thousands of dollars income becomes apparent. If

| First Evaluation - AI bulls | +$50 |
| First Evaluation - Non-AI bulls | -$ 5 |
| AI Sire Advantage | +$55 |

These facts make it clear that AI programs should begin with heifers. These animals will be the dairy herd's genetics of the future and usually have a higher conception rate as well, so why not take advantage of them? A commitment to heifer AI will provide greater returns and superior genetics.

Turkey Industry Continues To Grow

GETTYSBURG — The turkey industry in Pennsylvania continues to grow. Turkeys will outnumber people in Pennsylvania by 1999, at which time more than 12,000,000 turkeys will be grown here, if the current trend continues. Percapita consumption of turkey in the U.S. has increased from 1.3 pounds per American annually in 1931, to 14+ pounds annually today. Along with this increase in Americans eating turkey, the number of turkeys produced in Pennsylvania has increased sixfold. A Turkey Conference is scheduled to aid this development.

Mark your calendar to come to the 1988 Turkey Conference on Wednesday, March 16 at the Sheraton Inn, Business Rt. 15 South, Gettysburg, PA. A program can be obtained from your County Agricultural Extension office or by writing to Linda Houtz, 213 W. L. Henning Building, The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA 16802. Please preregister with the application on the program.

Program topics include the housewife's view of retail purchase of turkey products, poult care and performance, keeping turkeys healthy, adequate feeding at the high performance turkey, improved ventilation for turkey barns, economic outlook for turkey products, and turkey performance compared to equipment design and operation.

UC Davis Produces Genetically Identical Twin Pigs

DAVIS, CA — Pete and Repeat share more than their comical names.

They are a pair of genetically identical Hampshire boars produced at the University of California, Davis, by splitting a single embryo into two embryos. It is believed that this is only the second time that a pair of twin pigs has been born using this method.

"The purpose of this project is to develop a group of genetically identical boars," explains Trish Berger, assistant professor of animal science. "Then we can perform experiments in which we change the environmental factors."

For example, Berger can vary the boars' environmental temperature or the nutritional content of their diets. She will then study how these changes affect their ability to reproduce. Since Pete and Repeat have exactly the same genetic background, she will know that any variation could be due to an unforeseen difference in the environment.

Although the twin boars make ideal research animals, it is unlikely that embryo splitting will become practical for the average pork producer because of the technical difficulties involved, Berger says.

The embryo splitting technique has been used in research for quite some time with cattle; however, production of identical twins is much more difficult from a management standpoint with pigs, since a sow will not carry a pregnancy unless she has at least four viable embryos between the second and third week of pregnancy, Berger explains. This is compounded by the fact that pigs have a 35 percent embryo mortality rate, and split embryos are even less likely to survive.

Considering this 30 percent survival rate, Berger placed 14 embryos in the sow that carried Pete and Repeat, which statistically should result in 4.2 surviving embryos. One embryo was collected from each of seven different donor sows, then each embryo was split to produce the 14 embryos. It was necessary to use only one pair of split embryos from each donor in order to determine whether the offspring were identical or not.

When Berger has additional pairs of genetically identical boars, she will begin her studies, which promise to provide information for livestock producers in the future.

"Anything that improves our understanding of physiology or growth will, in the long-term, benefit pork growers," she says.

This project is a collaborative research effort by Berger; Gary Anderson, professor of animal science; and Dr. Robert BonDurant, associate professor, and Dr. Robert Pashen, assistant professor, both in the Department of Reproduction, School of Veterinary Medicine. Working with these faculty members is master's degree candidate Kendall Ash. Herdsman Kent Parker and numerous students are also instrumental in this research, Berger says.

Reproductive Efficiency is Profitability

Reproductive efficiency is historically the single most important economic factor in the cow-calf enterprise. Further, it is not confined to the commercial industry; purebred breeders require functional, efficient brood cows to retain their genetic progress.

$ cost to maintain the cow

It is apparent then, that the cow who does not wean a calf has an effective efficiency of zero. To achieve this optimum efficiency requires the cow to calve unassisted and rebreed within 90 days.

It is no easy task. The reproductive performance of a herd is a function of three factors: the percentage of cows in heat within 90 days postpartum, the percentage of those heat cycles that are fertile, and the percentage of those matings resulting in a pregnancy because the bull was fertile. Further, these factors are multiplicative; that is the total pregnancy rate results from multiplying the factors together. For example, if the postpartum estrus, fertile estrus, and bull fertility percentages are all 95%, the resulting pregnancy rate is only 86%. Imagine then the effect on pregnancy rate when a bull is only 50% fertile!

First, let's examine what happens when cows do not cycle in the critical 90 day period. The first result is an extended calving interval. For those producers regularly marketing calves at a given time, one study has shown extension of the calving season to 15 months can result in a productive loss of 100 lbs. per calf! These losses occur because the calf is younger and will not get as heavy at a given sale date. Additionally, it is hard to "back up" that cow, so the late calver will remain a late calver. Replacement heifers will also need additional time to mature.

Nutrition plays a key role in the ability of the cow to return to estrus. One study showed cows described as "thin" had only a 60% 90 day postpartum estrus rate, while those in "moderate" flesh were at the 90% level after only 60 days. Good nutritional management of the breeding herd starts when the calf was weaned last year. It may be necessary to sort cows based on their condition to see that those thin ones regain enough weight to be reproductively efficient. Thin cows may need to gain up to 350 lbs. in 4-5 months after weaning their calf. Even the cow in moderate flesh will need to gain 100 lbs. or so to account for the weight of fetus, fluids, and membranes just to remain in moderate condition for rebreeding. Know what the feed requirements are for your cows at different levels of production. Just as important, use forage analysis and feeding methods to be sure your feed is meeting those needs.

Another factor in breeding efficiency is calving difficulty, or dystocia. Dystocia can cause devastating losses in efficiency. Research has shown those cows which require assistance at calving take longer to return to estrus. Secondly, assistance at calving usually results in more dead calves at birth. Infections in the cow can result in lower pregnancy rates and higher costs. Finally, loss of both calf and cow from dystocia can wreak economic havoc on the enterprise.

We have discussed bull fertility earlier in this report. Refer to that information to be sure bull fertility is not a limiting factor in your breeding program.

The time to start planning and managing cows for breeding for the 1989 calf crop is now. Fundamental knowledge of nutrition and management factors that increase pregnancy rates can result in higher returns to you!

New Product Info

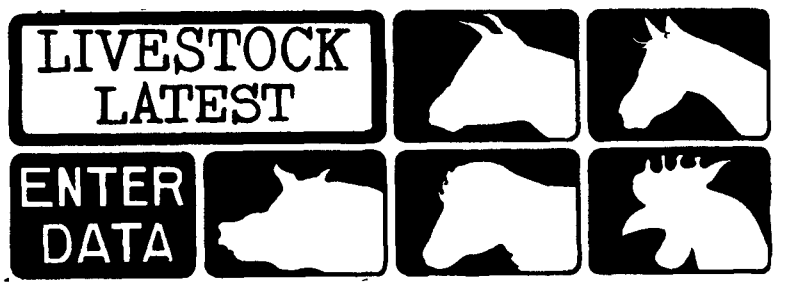
Representatives of the Upjohn Company recently visited with us to describe their new product, Noxcel. This is an antibiotic to be used for treatment of shipping fever in feedlot and stocker cattle. They report advantages for the drug because of small dosages (1 ml per 100 lb. of body weight), no pre-slaughter withdrawal period, and effective results in sick cattle after three consecutive daily doses. Another advantage reported is that resistance to the drug is not a problem after continued use. It is a prescription drug, so visit with your veterinarian to see how it might fit into your health program.

American Hereford Scholarships Available



KANSAS CITY, MO — American Junior Hereford Association members emulating the "qualities of Americanism and 'true grit' obvious in the character of John Wayne," are encouraged to apply for two $500 John Wayne Memorial Scholarships. Continuing its support of Hereford youth activities, the American Hereford Auxiliary sponsors the $1,000 in scholarship money. The ladies organization funds the majority of the scholarship with monies generated from other auxiliary programs. In addition, private donations made to the auxiliary specifically for the John Wayne Scholarship are used.

Recipients are selected on the basis of their scholastic and leadership achievements, and agribusiness involvement. In addition, they exemplify the qualities of John Wayne, a long-time Hereford breeder as co-owner of the 26 Bar Ranch, Springerville, Az.

Applicants must be a full-time student attending college and pursuing a career related to thge beef cattle industry. The scholarships will be presented during the 1988 All-American Junior Hereford Expo, July 20-23, at EE Hereford Ranch, Winona, Ms.

Additional information and the scholarship application may be received by writing the American Hereford Association's Youth Department at P.O. Box 4059, Kansas City, Missouri, 64101. The application deadline is May 15, 1988.

York York Wins at Louisville

EAST BERLIN — A York County-bred hog topped its age class at the Yorkshire Winter Type Conference, held January 22-23 in Louisville, Kentucky.

Bred and exhibited by Joel Stern, East Berlin, the six-month-old boar bested its age class of 15 entries and won recognition for rate of gain.

Weighing in at 345 pounds, Stern's entry measured 1.1 backfat and 7.3 loin eye, with only one hog topping that loin eye measurement. WDA was 1.93 pounds, placing the York County hog sixth out of the 140 entries in gain efficiency.

The prizewinner sold for $2,000 in the Conference sale which followed competition, and was purchased by Bennett Farms, Eddyville, Kentucky. Sale of more than 70 each of boars and gilts totaled over $144,000.

The Louisville Yorkshire Winter Type Conference is open to breeders from across the country.

Stern has consigned a boar of the same breeding to the March 5 Pennsylvania Yorkshire Breeders sale, to be held at the Lebanon Fairgrounds.

Pennsylvania Angus Association Meeting Held

HARRISBURG — Greg McKean of Mercer will serve as president for the coming year for the Pennsylvania Angus Association. He was elected to this position during the annual business meeting of the group held here.

Taking over the duties of vice president will be Fred Frey, Quarryville. Chet Hughes, Holtwood, and Dianna Shive, Seven Valleys, were re-elected to their positions of secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Kaye Sweigard, Furlong; Austin Rains, Mercer; Greg Krueger, Coatesville; and Dr. Joseph Calderazzo, York; were elected to the board of directors.

The members decided to hold the Pennsylvania Angus Breeders' Show at Centre Hall, July 7-9. Burleigh Anderson of Meadow Mist Farms at Loysville will host the state field day, scheduled for July 16. The Pennsylvania Lawn Sale will take place August 13 at Warren Angus in Furlong.

After the business meeting was the presentation of awards. The 1987 Pennsylvania Angus Family of the Year was Dr. Joseph, Sally and Jennifer Calderazzo of GH2 Angus Associates at York. The Outstanding Junior Boy was Chad Cash, Centre Hall, and the Outstanding Junior Girl award went to Cathy Shive, Seven Valleys. The Premier Breeder of the Year was Joe and Kathy Wiesenbaugh of Rocky Forge Farm at Hagerstown, Maryland, and the Pennsylvania Breeders' Show Appreciation plaque went to Richard Gregg of New Providence.

Maryland-Virginia Dairy Herd Meetings Scheduled

Dairy farmers in Maryland and northern Virginia face many of the same herd management problems. So representatives of the Cooperative Extension Service at land-grant universities in both states have arranged a traveling seminar which will make stops at three locations on consecutive days during the second week of March.

Interested persons from throughout the Mid-Atlantic area are welcome to attend any of the meetings in either state. This would include residents of West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Delaware -- as well as Maryland and Virginia.

Most of the speakers are state Extension specialists from Virginia Tech and the University of Maryland. Several of them will appear on the program at all three locations.

The two Maryland meetings are first on the schedule. They will emphasize dairy heifer management. The Virginia meeting, coming last, will concentrate on reproduction and herd health. Here is the schedule:

March 8- Friendly Farm restaurant, located east of White House in northern Baltimore County.

March 9- Ramada Inn at Hagerstown (Washington County).

March 10- Ruritan grounds, located two miles west of Berryville (Clarke County), along business route 7.

Both Maryland meetings will include commercial exhibits. They will start with registration at 9 a.m. The formal program will run from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., with an hour off for lunch. Visits with commercial exhibitors may be made from 9 to 10 a.m. and from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Tickets for the noon lunch should be purchased in advance -- after mid-February -- from county offices of the Cooperative Extension Service in Maryland. The $5 charge also will include a copy of the proceedings.

The Virginia meeting will not have commercial exhibits, and there will be no registration. The program will run from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. A catered lunch will be available at noon for a nominal charge.

Unique to this meeting will be a presentation by George Washington, owner of the Loudoun Veterinary Service at Purcellville, Va. Dr. Washington is a distant cousin of his famous namesake. he will speak on "Herd Health Practices."

Franklin Co. Pesticide Training

CHAMBERSBURG — Franklin County Agricultural Agent, John Shearer, has announced a special Pesticide Training Meeting for part-time farmers who are unable to attend the various daytime training meetings held every winter. The two-hour meeting will be held Monday, March 7, from 7:15 to 9:30 p.m. in the Franklin County Administration Building, Franklin Farms Lane, Chambersburg.

The purpose is to provide licensed Pennsylvania Private Pesticide Applicators with the update-training credits required by law for license-renewal. Only holders of valid Private Applicator licenses should attend. The meeting will provide two core credits and two category-specific credits for those in attendance.

County Agent Shearer, and Franklin County Crop Improvement Association technician, Martin Krone will instruct. Topics covered will include an explanation of the credit-requirements of the 1986 Pennsylvania Pesticide Act, proper apparel for spraying, reading and understanding labels, pesticide use in field crops, and pesticides for vegetables and back-yard fruit.

Those attending should arrive at 7:00 p.m. to insure receiving all of the four credits.

Osborne Presents New Confinement Feeder

Osborne Industries' new feeder has a 15-bushel capacity and was designed to accommodate up to 60 head for two days.

SALINA, KS — A third size in its line of confinement finish feeders has been introduced by Osborne Industries, Inc., according to the company. The feeder is the Model RF3 Big Wheel feeder. It employs the patented mechanical-flow design featured in all of Osborne's Big Wheel feeders. The feeder has a capacity of 15 bu and was designed to accommodate up to 60 head for two days between fillings. The construction is Osborne's RTM-GLASS fiberglass and steel. Stainless steel is an available option.

The RF3 like all Big Wheel round feeders is said to work well in penline applications. Adapters are available to make fitting to the penline easy. All feeds are said to feed through the RF3 without waste or close attention to the adjustment. Special bump bar agitators are available to overcome bridging that can occur in high-fat or ground high-moisture feeds.

The feeder is 60 in. tall. Trough diameter is 39 in. The feeder is sized for pigs in the range from 50 lbs. to market weight. More information is available from Osborne's local authorized dealer or by contacting the company at Osborne Industries, Inc., P.O. Box 388, Osborne, KS 67473, or 1-800-255-0316/1-913-346-2192.

Chevron Chemicals Acquires PPG's Farm Chemicals

SAN FRANCISCO — Chevron Chemical Co., a subsidiary of Chevron Corp., today announced it has purchased the agricultural chemical products of Pittsburgh-based PPG Industries, Inc. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

The acquisition includes these agricultural chemicals registered for use in the United States and overseas:

- "Cobra," a new post-emergence, broadleaf soybean herbicide, which is currently in its second sales season;
- "Genate Plus," a pre-plant, incorporated corn herbicide, which controls a number of annual and perennial grasses;
- "Rhino," a pre-plant, incorporated corn herbicide, which is a pre-mixed combination of Genate Plus and atrazine;
- "Genep," a pre-plant, incorporated herbicide, which controls several annual broadleaf weeds and grasses in vegetables, alfalfa and potatoes;
- "Furloe," a pre-plant and post-emergence herbicide used on alfalfa and other field crops;
- "Sprout Nip," a plant growth regulator used as a potato sprout inhibitor.

Customers can typically continue to obtain these products through their present farm supply dealers, Chevron officials said. The company anticipates that future U.S. marketing will be carried out by the planned Chevron-Sumitomo joint venture company currently in final negotiations.

"Acquisition of these compounds complements our existing product line and serves notice of our commitment to provide a full line of quality crop protection products," said Bob Dennison, vice president of Chevron Chemical Co. and general manager of the Ortho Agricultural Chemicals Division.

Westfalia System at Increases Cluster Remover Line

ELK GROVE, Ill.— An automatic cluster remover designed to increase the labor efficiency of a milking operation by up to 50 percent has been introduced by Westfalia Systemat, a manufacturer of high-tech dairying equipment.

The ACR 3 is designed for compatibility with the optional Stimopuls M, a pre-milking stimulation device. Stimulation helps condition and relax the muscles involved in milk production and can increase individual milk output as much as 5 to 8 percent.

Standard money-saving features on the ACR 3 include kick-off detection, which notifies the operator if a milking unit has been prematurely removed, and orafice-free design which minimizes plug-ups and, consequently, down time. Also standard is adjustable milk-out to meet the needs of herd and management programs featuring memory strip time.

Westfalia Systemat has designed the ACR 3 with maximum milk yield in mind, yet has done so without compromising cow safety. After vacuum shut-off, a standard safety feature, relieves vacuum pressure at the teat end of the cow after each milking cycle. This in turn makes cluster removal easy and also lessens the chance of muscle and udder injury.

For manual control of the ACR 3 a switch is located in the control unit. In manual mode the system operates as though the milker were attached directly to the pipeline.

The ACR 3 represents the latest addition to Westfalia Systemat's continuing effort to make high-output dairying safe, economical and efficient.

For additional information, contact Westfalia Systemat, 1862 Brummel Drive, Elk Grove Village, IL.

Ziegler Joins White Oak Mills

ELIZABETHTOWN, PA — Dean Ziegler has joined White Oak Mills as a swine sales and service representative. Dean will replace Marlin Becker, who has recently been promoted to Director of Swine Marketing.

White Oak manufactures a complete line of feeds and concentrates for swine, beef, and dairy industries under the White Oak label. The main location is in Elizabethtown, and they also have a retail store and warehouse in the Shippensburg area.

Ziegler will be working primarily on sales and service to our customers. He will assist in the many facets of the swine industry, such as the marketing of feeder pigs and finishing hogs, swine nutrition and health, swine housing consultation, and the sale of Genesis breeding stock.

Dean was born in the Manheim area and grew up in the country. He graduated from Manheim Central High School, where he was active in the Vo Ag program and FFA, having served as the chaplain of the chapter. Dean had earned the Keystone Award, which is the highest honor the state gives to FFA members. He also has taken courses at Penn State University as part of his training for this position.

Ag Conference Held In Adams County

BY GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

DILLSBURG — "If the support program ends, I don't think dairy farmers will be helped. They'll be hurt. I think grain farmers will be helped, particularly corn growers. But in the end, things will level off and everyone will be better off." This is an example of the straightforward answers the crowd of farmers, agri-business representatives, and Extension personel heard from Congressman Fred Grandy of Iowa. Grandy, a member of the House Committee on Agriculture, was on of three speakers at an agricultural conference held here recently for the constituents of PA's 19th District by Congressman Bill Goodling.

In a presentation that was to highlight agriculture issues likely to receive consideration during the remainder of the 100th Congress, Grandy told the crowd not to look for any big changes in the Food Security Act of 1985. Grandy noted, "The Food Security Act of 1985 was not well received in Iowa, but then farm programs never seem to sell well. The Farm Act is working though and I know this because now my farmers are having to deal with tax problems. Before hand they never made enough money to worry about taxes." Grandy explained that the House Agricultural Committee is looking and earning this year. "The Agricultural committee is looking at horizons...issues that will need to be addressed. What we're fighting now are scrimmages around the Farm Bill that have nothing to do with farming." Grandy cited examples of capitalization of pre-production costs for tax purposes and the restructuring of the banking regulations and their effect on re-structured farm debt as two examples of such scrimmages.

Grandy stressed that the Agricultural Committee hopes to identify those horizon issues that will effect the long-term basis of agriculture. Stated Grandy, "My folks back home are now more worried about what the government will do to them than what the government will do for them."

Grandy's list of horizon issues include: How to get young people into agriculture?; How to protect groundwater in agricultural production area?; How to develop a comprehensive computer program for the mirad of USDA programs such as ASCS, SCS, and FmHA?; The future of oil seeds and the development of alternative uses of this oil?; and, How to "de-couple" agricultural production from subsidy payment?

Robert Riemenschneider, Director Multilateral Trade Policy Affairs Division Foreign Agricultural Service, USDA, receive a host of questions following his presentation on the current round of agricultural trade talking currently underway in Geneva.

Riemenschneider explained, "In this, the eighth round of trade talks since 1940, our objectives are on the long-term basis...We want to have free trade in agriculture by the turn of the century. We are opposed to any short-term measures that doi not change the long term process."

He explained that this position includes the world-wide recognition now that the global disequilibrium in the marketplace stems largely from too much government to production State Riemenschneider, "Our trading partners now recognize that in any trade negotiations related to agriculture, they must look beyond their own border policies, import and export regulations. They must address their domestic support programs which are driving their border policies."

This past July the United States tabled a bold proposal before the 95 member country negotiations that called for: 1. A 10 year phased out elimination of all government supports 2. A 10 year phased out elimination of all market barriers 3. A 10 phased out elimination of any sanitary regulation that is not supported by standardized scientific research.

Although there are also two other proposals tabled at the talks, Riemenschneider said that the United States is hopeful they the 95 countries can at least reach an agreement in priniciple on the United States proposal by the end of 1988. And, have the details of implementation negotiated in 1989, the termination date for this present round of talks.

Cecil Co. Small Farm Workshop

ELKTON, MD — The University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service of Cecil County will be sponsoring a 2 day Small and Part-time Farming Workshop entitled "Managing the Small Farm Enterprise." This workshop will be held Tuesday, March 8 and Tuesday, March 15, 1988 beginning at 7:30 p.m. on both nights at the Cecil County Extension Office. The Extension Office is in room 7 of the County Courthouse Building, Main Street in Elkton, Maryland.

There is no charge for this workshop which will cover small horticultural and livestock enterprises.

Topics for session one on March 8th will include production horticulture and production livestock management. Under the horticultural session, topics will include care and management of fruit trees, home vegetable production, ornamental plant production and Christmas tree production.

The concurrent livestock session will cover nutrition, reproduction, anatomy, pasture management, recordkeeping and herd health program. Animal species to be covered in this workshop include beef, sheep, goats, swine, and horses.

On March 15, a second session will be held on small farm financial planning, recordkeeping, marketing and alternative agricultural enterprises. This session will involve both livestock and horticultural producers.

If you are planning to attend these small part-time management sessions, please pre-register by calling the Cecil County Cooperative Extension Service at 301-398-0200 or 301-658-4041, ext. 181, or stop by our office in the County Courthouse Building.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

Ag Conference Held

deletion of government subsidies, Riemenschneider stated, "Economic studies show that there are really very few losers. Free markets do force alot of unprofitable production out of the market and stabilizes the price for the efficient producer. What we're looking for is a global trading environment that hasn't been seen since before World War II. Under these conditions, the farmer will get his production signals from the marketplace and not from the government."

Final speaker of the conference was James Darwin Carter, Confidential Assistant to the Administrator Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, USDA. Carter was instrumental in the implementation of the Dairy Herd Termination Program.

In his presentation Carter outlined the vast number of problems finding markets for every pound of beef added to the market by the Buy-Out Program. Transporting frozen beef from Nebraska to Savannah and loading it on foreign ship, breakdowns of foreign ships with no replacement parts in the states, a dock strike, a flair in the Iran-Iraq conflict that kept a herd of cows stabled at Kennedy airport, and twice the CCC running out of money to pay for the beef, were just a few of his predicament.

Stated Carter, "Shipping all that frozen or chilled beef was a real job, but shipping the live animals had its own set of problems. It's pretty hard to find airports large enough to land a 747 jumbo jet, yet small enough to let you run a herd of cows up the runway."

At the conference Rep. Goodling introduced his 17-member Agricultural Advisory Board. The board is comprised of farmers, agri-business people, and Extension Directors, from the York, Adams, and Cumberland Counties. Goodling, who serves on the Committee on Education and Labor and on the Committee on Budget, noted that this committee helps him keep abreast of agricultural issues before they come to the floor as bills for passage. Following the conference, Goodling met with this board for a luncheon and an input session.

Maple Festival Set In Bradford County

TROY — The public is invited to participate in an exhibit of "Just Trees" scheduled to be held at the Annual Maple Festival, April 23, and 24, at the Troy Fairgrounds.

This display, the first one of its kind ever to be held in the area, is co-sponsored by the Bradford County Forest Landowners' Association, and the Bradford County Conservation District. The purpose for the endeavor is to challenge people, young and old, everywhere, to appreciate the beauty and usefulness of trees; to realize that "Forests Are More Than (Just) Trees", the current Conservation motto; and to reenforce the concept that everyone is responsible for the management and conservation of forests, a most valuable renewable resource.

Artists and craftsmen from grade school age and up are being asked to create for the exhibit multi-dimensional artifacts in the shape of a tree, or one dimensional items with a tree or trees as the main design on any kind of medium. This includes all kinds of sculpture from soft cloth to hard sculpture in wood, wire, metal, ceramic, porcelain, cardboard, paper, dried or live flowers, etc. Any craft done with thread or yarn such as knitting, embroidery, crotchet, loomed items, quilts, is needed, with the main or repeated design on the finished product being a tree or trees. Painted pictures in oil, acrylic, or water color are also acceptable.

Another special category for antique or commercially made "Trees' is planned for people who might loan their treasures for such a display.

Prizes will be awarded for outstanding entries, but the most simple entries as well as more sophisticated "trees" are welcome. Opportunity to sell the exhibit items to the viewing public will be given to applicants. The "Just Trees' committee will transact the sales for a small commission so that applicants do not have to sit with their entries.

There is no entry fee charge for applicants, and the viewing public will be admitted free of charge. Brochures with information and application forms will soon be distributed throughout the area. Applications for entries must be returned to Jane Bresee, R.D. #1, Box 131, Ulster, Penna. 18850, by April 1.

For more information please contact the Bradford County Conservation District Office, R.D.#4, Towanda, Pa. 18848, or call 717-265-5539, or call Jane Bresee, 717-358-3346.

Develop A Seed Stock Herd

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, MD — "There is no set way to develop a top herd of dairy animals, and that is why it (herd development) is intriguing and interesting to me," said Edward Reed of Thonyma Farm at the Maryland Holstein Convention last week. Reed and his son are full partners in a Kansas dairy operation that was founded by Reed's father in 1920. Over the years, the development of their herd through cow families has made the Thonyma prefix a very respected and well-known name among Holstein breeders.

Fundamental to a breeding program is a good knowledge of cows, according to Reed. He advises visiting successful dairy farms, observing management practices, and attending shows, sales, and meetings.

Farmers should select animals of related blood lines and with a maximum of physical and production uniformity for a foundation herd. This cuts years from a breeding program since these characteristics normally take generations to produce, Reed observed.

"From my experience in herd building, I think it is impossible to over-estimate the value of cow families," Reed stated. Desirable cow families are a group of females that descend from a particular outstanding foundation cow that breeds true from generation to generation, including sisters, he added.

Beginning in 1920 until World War II, the Thonyma breeding program was much like those on other farms in Kansas as far as selecting herd sires. Cows were bought and bulls were raised on the farm. Thonyma Farm didn't own any excellent cows and sold about as much beef as milk.

Reed realized that during those years, not much herd development had taken place. Cows were culled and retained with no regard as to what cow families they belonged to, he explained. The farm had no outstanding animals. A new approach to herd building was needed.

At this point, Reed entered the service and the farm sold their herd with the exception of two calves and two cows. A group of heifers were purchased that fall with the expectation that Reed would return when they were ready to calve. Seventeen head were purchased from throughout the state at dispersal sales and the state sale. Heifers were selected carefully for type and production; they came with strong, complete pedigrees.

The foundation herd comprised 21 cows. As it developed, those families with weak members were sold. This included whole families, not just the undesirable members. After considerable culling, just two cow families remained, and these cows were three-quarters sisters to each other.

A third cow family began when a cow was purchased in 1951. She also was the only cow purchased in the 20-year period that followed. She proved to be an excellent cow.

In the later years, before the herd was sold in 1962, culling was down to one or two animals due to low production or off-type. Only two bulls from different families were used during this time, each for a 10-year period.

In addition, the herd consisted of 22 cows that had produced lifetime records of more than 100,000 lbs. of milk. Two cows had a lifetime record of more than 200,000 and another had more than 250,000 and was still producing strongly at 18 years. Longevity had been bred into the herd: one cow in the herd was the great-great-great granddam of another.

In 1962, the family partnership dissolved, and 62 cows and heifers were sold to the Paclamar herd in Colorado. They became an important part of the Paclamar's breeding program, Reed said.

At the time of the sale, the Thonyma herd was the only Holstein herd with 12 consecutive averages on the DHIR of over 600lbs. of fat. Of those females sold, 13 were excellent, 31 were very good, and seven GP. On record, they had 16 Gold Medal Sires, 10 Silver Medal Type for type qualified sires, 15 Silver Medal Production for production qualified sires, the development of three more Gold Medal Sires, an All-American Bull, and an Honorable Mention All-American Cow. The bull calves had been sold in more than 20 states, and 14 Gold Medal Dams were developed during that period.

"Now you know why I'm sold on cow families in building a breeding herd," Reed pointed out. These record reflect 26 years of work. Today the herd at Thonyma is using the same type of program using members from the original three cow families plus three more families. The farm consists of 600 acres, 120 of which are under irrigation. There are 340 head of cattle on the farm, 120 milking, and a beef herd for the ET work.

The last classification stood at 105.7BAA and the DHIR on 71 cows was 21,626m, 3.8% 820f. A total of 96 EX have been bred, 25 Gold Medal Sires, 26 Gold Medal Dams, six others were developed, 156 bulls in AI service, and they have sold more than 640 Thonyma-bred bulls to breeders throughout the United States.

The cow family work has resulted in one family having 17 generations of Excellent behind them and several groups with 10 or more generations of Very Good or Excellent behind them with more than 100,000lbs. lifetime production to boot.

"Examining past history into livestock breeding, in many cases it has shown that the person with limited financial means contributed the most to the advancement of their breed," noted Reed. The necessity of financial success dictated the extra time and thought that went into the operation.

Selection of sires to be used were limited to a smaller number over that particular period of development, Reed said. They still are today. Uniformity is bred by using a few top sires. "I am convinced that it is very difficult to develop a top breeding herd by the indiscriminate use of sires regardless of how strong the bulls are," he added.

Most great breeding herds in the past were developed by the limited use of a few top bulls and their sons. Uniformity will be lost using each of the top bulls that appears each year. There will be some good offspring, but not every bull is good for every herd.

The selection tools of the future will be for one thing only: more profitable production over a long lifetime. False gods of the dairy industry for the "true type" animal have plagued the breed and have caused the destruction of some great cow families, according to Reed. This was one area the beef industry didn't have to cope with, which allowed the development without restrictions. By necessity, there will be many changes in the dairy industry in the years to come. "I only regret that I'm not young enough to see them," said Reed.

AN OPEN LETTER TO NORTHEASTERN DAIRY FARMERS

Dear Dairy Farmer:

For some time now, Farmland Dairies has been the object of attacks by RCMA officials. Financed with your milk money, RCMA officials have blamed Farmland for RCMA's own failure to deliver on its promises to dairy farmers.

To date, we have not responded publicly to RCMA's attacks. Instead we have communicated directly with the fine independent farmers shipping to Farmland. They understand the reasons we are not supporting RCMA and are satisfied that Farmland remains their best market. The clearest proof is that Independents shipping to Farmland earn more than RCMA or coop members — Throughout our 70 year history, they always have and we expect they always will.

Lately, however, some RCMA members have begun harassing our farmers. They are trying to deny independent Farmland farmers their freedom of choice. RCMA is financing these efforts. Their major media campaign denies you the information you should know about RCMA and seeks to deny your neighbor his freedom of choice. Regardless of how you personally feel about RCMA, you owe your neighbor his freedom of choice. For your own benefit you may also want to hear — firsthand — the truth about RCMA and Farmland.

We ask nothing more of you than the following:

(1) Respect your neighbor's freedom of choice to ship to whomever he wants to and to join or not join RCMA.

(2) Don't allow your neighbors to be harassed simply because they see things a little differently from you. This is not a dictatorship. Freedom of choice is every American's right.

(3) Recognize that everything you've heard or read about RCMA and Farmland comes from RCMA and that there are usually two sides to every issue, including RCMA. Take a few moments of your valuable time to read our side of the story.

Sincerely,
Marc Goldman
Farmland Dairies

P.S. 100% of the cost of this ad is being paid for by Farmland Dairies. Farmland never uses producer funds to pay for advertising or public relations.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY

Financed with your milk money, RCMA has presented a pretty one-sided picture of itself. For months now we've been asking a lot of important questions about RCMA and have never gotten any answers. That's part of the reason why Farmland Dairies has chosen not to participate in RCMA activities. You might want to know the answers yourself, since your livelihood and your family's future is at stake.

Question: Why should dairy farmers pay expenses for RCMA's 72 Board of Directors and armies of organizers, public relations firms, attorneys and political lobbyists? This is the same cast of characters that has brought the industry to the brink of disaster. Why would you think they can help you now?

Question: Why in October 1987 did RCMA collect $.50/cwt from processors yet pay out only $.10/cwt to farmers? Why only $.16/ in November, during the tightest supply period in recent memory? What can they do for you when milk is flush?

Question: Why did independent farmers in New England lose their direct premiums after January 1, 1988 (RCMA is why!)

Question: Why do RCMA by-laws permit them to deduct RCMA costs and losses from your milk check? Why didn't RCMA organizers tell you they could?

Question: Why aren't RCMA checks bonded? Why weren't you told this?

Question: Why has RCMA made sweetheart deals exempting some of the nation's largest milk handlers from paying premiums?

Question: Why have RCMA and the coops lied to you about Farmland Dairies? They told you that you'd get a nickel more if Farmland signed with RCMA. Farmland would have to sell one-third of all the fluid milk in the Northeast for that to be true. We wish it were, but we're actually less than 5%. What else did RCMA miscalculate?

Question: Why does RCMA keep saying that Farmland won't pay over-order premiums when Farmland has been paying : $.75/cwt. over-order premiums to all of our producers -- directly - with no reblending or deductions?

Question: With all the problems facing the dairy industry today, why do RCMA officials portray Farmland as the enemy? Are RCMA officials looking for a "fall guy" because they know they can't deliver on their promises?

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY, cont.

RCMA officials want Farmland Dairies out of business because we make them, and the coops they run, look bad!

Farmland is the only major independent processor that still buys 100% of its milk supply direct from independent farmers. Farmland has treated its farmers as family for over 70 years. Farmland has never turned away milk from one of our producers because of over-supply and pays top dollar for every drop of milk it buys. Farmland pays true butterfats on every load.
Farmland provides industry-trained fieldmen to service the needs of our farmers. We can be reached day or night, weekends or weekdays, to help with problems or just talk. We put up the best bottle of milk in the area and increase Class I sales every day.

We fight and have won the tough battles other dairies stay away from. We fought seven years for a change in N.Y. State's dealer licensing law that has increased competition and promotes increased consumption of Class I milk. Farmland fought New York City's archaic four-day code-dating law. We won, forcing dealers to improve the quality of packaged milk sold in New York and ensuring that City stores have milk on the shelves all day long, thus promoting increased consumption.

Today, Farmland is proposing greater promotion of Class I milk to put more income in your pocket, through processor-funded marketing programs.

RCMA officials want you to believe that Farmland is the enemy of dairymen everywhere. Independent producers shipping to Farmland know the truth. They know that year after year Farmland is their best market for milk. That's why, despite all the pressure, they continue shipping to Farmland. That's why our packaged volume continues to grow. That's why Farmland is able to take on new farmers, while other dairies can't handle their surplus.

Why didn't RCMA officials tell you any of this?

TODAY, AS THROUGHOUT OUR 70 YEAR HISTORY, FARMERS GET A BETTER DEAL WITH FARMLAND DAIRIES

Do you run your dairy business on facts or promises?
Shortage or flush, Independent Farmland farmers have always earned more than co-op members.We expect they always will. Maybe that's why co-op officials have joined with RCMA against Farmland.

Waterfowl Gain In Conservation Reserve Program

ELK LAKE — Using a U.S. Department of Agriculture program to turn a field losing over 17 tons of soil per year into a haven for ducks and geese is a sound business venture as far as Bob Warriner, Susquehanna County farmer, is concerned. Bob operates the 1,000-acre Agawam Farms at Elk Lake.

According to Bob, it was just a smart move. "That field was eroding too high; it was wet; we only got a crop half the time; and when we did, it wasn't the best yield." As Bob sees it, he can make just as much or more profit by concentrating his efforts on his better farmland.

Bob used the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) to take 60 acres of his poorest land out of row crops and put it into either grass or wildlife uses. "CRP is a good program," he exclaims. "I don't think $60 per acre is too much for the government to pay to get the land that is causing most of the erosion problems out of production. In addition, it helps to clean up streams and lakes."

A waterfowl pond was built in part of an eroding field with cost share from CRP. A design was prepared by the USDA Soil Conservation Service. A 14-foot high dam creates a four-acre lake. Two-thirds of the lake is two feet or less deep while the other one-third is up to ten feet deep.

The deep water provides fishing. The lake can be drawn down several feet to permit seeding of the shallow water areas to corn, sorghum, millet or buckwheat in May. The area is flooded in mid-September. A small island in the center of the pond increases waterfowl nesting areas. It is seeded to tall fescue grass.

Bob Warriner's Waterfowl Pond.

Bob Warriner and Wayne Ray, SCS.

A 100 yard cleared area is maintained around the shallow area which is seeded to tall fescue and birdsfoot trefoil. The corn in the contour strips just up the hill make this is an ideal area for waterfowl according to an SCS biologist.

Bob sees waterfowl and fishing as a real plus for the land. "They're part of the environment and enjoyable to have around. It used to be that everyone up here in northeastern Pennsylvania had their own fishing hole and duck pond. Besides, waterfowl don't do half the damage of deer."

Bob has a 20-acre swamp and Elk Lake joins the farm on the east. "Wildlife and waterfowl are something I like to have around. The family hunts and we just like to see them," said Bob.

Conservation of natural resources is not new at Agawam Farms. The first conservation plan was developed in 1954. The plan was revised in 1973 and again the past year to meet the requirements of the Conservation Provisions of the 1985 Farm Bill.

Government programs are used effectively at Agawam Farms. In addition to the annual CRP rental, cost share was used to pay a portion of the wildlife pond costs. Other cost-share programs such as the annual Agricultural Conservation Program and Long-Term Agreements are used to reduce soil erosion.

Bob also gives credit to the people in the Soil Conservation Service office in Montrose. "Wayne Ray and Bob Wagner give me good guidance when I ask for it," added Bob.

Basically, Bob sees CRP as a good program that is providing benefits to both the farmer and those living downstream from farms. He does not believe that the requirements to control erosion on highly erodible land is a problem. "There's been a state law on controlling soil erosion on farmland for over a decade and besides, it is good management to take care of your land. You need it!" summarized Bob.

Georgian Elected Angus Association President

ST. JOSEPH, MO — A. Harvey Lemmon, a Woodbury, Georgia, cattleman, and registered Angus cattle breeder since he was 9-years-old, was elected president of the American Angus Association, in November at the organization's annual meeting in Louisville, Kentucky.

Lemmon, a native of Dublin, Virginia, and a 1969 graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute was chosen unanimously by the 240 delegates elected to represent their state at the annual meeting. The delegates also elected Gary Dameron, Lexington, Illinois, as vice-president of the 24,000 member American Angus Association for 1988.

In addition, the delegates elected five members to the American Angus Association's 15-member Board of Directors. Elected to serve their first three-year term on the board were T.D. Steele, Roanoke, Virginia, and Brian A. Swartz, LeRoy, Illinois. Re-elected to a second three-year term were Fred Smalstig, Millbrook, New York; Andrew C. Starr, Sunbright, Tennessee; and Vance Uden, Franklin, Nebraska. The 104th American Angus Association Annual Meeting was held at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition.

Harvey Lemmon, the new Association president worked as manager of Millarden Farm at Woodbury, Georgia, before starting his own cattle operation near there. In 1971 he established Lemmon Cattle Enterprises with 30 registered and 84 commercial cows. His operation now spans some 1,000 acres of owned and rented land.

Lemmon majored in animal science at VPI, and was one of two student herdsmen in charge of the school's show cattle. He was a member of both the livestock and meats judging teams, and a member of Block and Bridle and Alpha Zeta honorary agriculture fraternity.

His Angus organization experience dates back to when he held offices in the Virginia Junior Angus Association and represented that state in the National Junior Angus Showmanship contest. He has since served as president of the Georgia Angus Association and the Georgia Cattlemen's Association, and represented Georgia on the Young Cattlemen's Council of the National Cattlemen's Association. He has held many other positions and judged local, state and national Angus shows. This year he completed two terms on the American Angus Association board of directors, the last year as its vice-president and chairman of the executive committee.

Gary Dameron, the new vice-president has been in the Angus business for the past 21 years. He along with his wife Sharon, currently operates a registered cow herd, a commercial cow herd and a feedlot and farming operation on some 1,300 acres near Lexington, Illinois. He has been performance testing for some 18 years, and his herd is also well known for its success in the show ring.

Dameron earned a B.S. degree in animal science at the University of Illinois where he was named the College of Agriculture's outstanding senior.

T.D. Steele, one of the two new members of the board of directors is from Roanoke, Virginia. He has been in the Angus business for 30 years. A graduate of Harvard University, he has also been in the real estate development business since the early 1950's. Steele was one of the founders of the Virginia Beef Cattle Improvement Association in 1955 and helped start the first performance tested bull sale at

Cyanamid Funds Formation Of New Trade Association

WAYNE, NJ — American Cyanamid announces the formation of the National Association of AgriCenter™ Dealers (NAAD) for more than 1,800 key agrichemical dealers in its innovative AgriCenter dealer marketing and distribution system.

"Cyanamid is sponsoring and funding the organization of a national association of agrichemical retailers to improve their ability to serve the farm community. It also will give the group a cohesive voice to pursue issues and activities needed for their growth and prosperity," says William F. R. Griffith, vice president and general manager, Crop Protection Chemicals Department of Cyanamid's Agricultural Division.

The NAAD announcement was made at a meeting hosted by Cyanamid in Las Vegas, Nev., January 13-15. Entering the second year of the Cyanamid "Partners In AgriLeadership®" program, dealers met with Cyanamid representatives to discuss the industry and their roles as AgriCenter™ dealers.

To expedite the start-up of the NAAD, Cyanamid has provided funding, an executive director, secretarial support and office space to the new association. A 40-member board of directors will be formed in mid-March to oversee the future direction of the new association.

Ken Root, Cyanamid manager of agricultural public affairs, and past-president of the National Farm Broadcasters Association will serve as executive director during the two-year start-up plan for the organization.

During the three days in Las Vegas, attendees received details about the new product distribution system and selling strategies, and information regarding the NAAD.

Darryl D. Fry, Cyanamid Agricultural Division president, commented, "One of the most important characteristics any successful company has is commitment. We feel the organization of the NAAD reflects the commitment Cyanamid has to maintaining a leadership role in the agrichemical industry."

SELLING AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES VERSUS MARKETING PRODUCTS

by James G. Beierlein

Selling agricultural commodities is a risky business. Since one peach, cantaloupe or quart of milk looks pretty much like another and large numbers of producers face the same weather and market conditions, a good season usually brings a good crop and often a lower price and income for all producers. A producer can break out of this situation and obtain greater profits and success by making his product appear different in the eyes of the consumer. But this requires marketing a product rather than merely selling a commodity.

What is A Commodity? Commodities -- items such as peaches, cantaloupes and milk -- have uniform quality and appearance. Any single grade A quality commodity can be interchanged with any other grade A item of the same commodity and few can tell the difference.

Changing a Commodity into a Product Up until a few years ago almost all food could be classified as commodities (e.g. chicken, duckling, cheese, apples and so on). Today there are a number of success stories about how agricultural commodities have been transformed into branded food products. Who would have thought that we would have seen consumers paying a premium price to buy a Holly Farms or Tyson or Perdue chicken rather than plain unbranded supermarket chicken? Firms such as these have succeeded in making their product appear different in the eyes of consumers to such an extent that consumers are more than happy to pay a higher price for a product that they perceive to be of higher quality. This process of making a product appear different from others within the same commodity is called branding. Now food retailers do not just sell chicken but sell the Perdue brand of chicken. It's a name brand that stands for something that consumers feel warrants a higher price and ask for by name. It can also bring greater profits to its producer.

Advantages of Branding By branding a product, the producer hopes to separate it from its competitors. By purchasing a branded product, consumers often feel they are getting a special assurance that the product they are buying meets their needs better than other similar products. Producers may gain additional sales and profits because they offer a superior product in the eyes of the consumer. The extra profits come about because they have established a differentiated product, where the demand for their product is less subject to the whims of the market and they can exert greater control over the price. In addition to higher profits, branding offers producers a number of advantages, including increased consumer loyalty, more repeat business, and easier introduction of new products. These are especially important to people in the food business, since much food is bought largely out of habit and with little thought. If branding is successful, repeat purchases will automatically seek out the familiar, trusted brands which can lead to greater sales and profits.

How To Brand a Product

Achieving brand recognition by the consumer is not an easy task. It requires a good product that consumers feel is different from the "run of the mill," plus a strong promotional effort to reinforce this idea to the consumer. Shoppers are willing to buy a "good brand" without inspection or comparison shopping when they are assured of the quality as implied by its brand name.Promotion of the product is required so that the brand name becomes familiar and comes to mean something to the consumer. Otherwise the product might as well be unbranded, undifferentiated commodity. If this type of program is successful, shoppers should routinely buy Jersey Fresh Apples or Pennsylvania Best Brand Peaches each time they want them, without thinking about other brands or even looking at anyone else's product.

The Importance of A Good ProductIt is important not to forget that the success of the branding effort still rests heavily on the development of a good product. All promotion does is get the word out quickly. Good promotion of a bad product may temporarily increase sales but in the longer run it can quicken its end. Good promotion of a good product is required for good success. The process of transforming agricultural producers from sellers of commodities into marketers of branded food products is a necessary step in making agriculture profitable in the future. Your success and future economic survival depends heavily on your ability to successfully make this change.

The Ag-Chem foam marker offers you efficient operation with a 12 volt compressor that draws only 9 amps. Independent left and right boom markers can be controlled from the cab for on-the-go operation. That lets you operate either boom marker for precise, economical foam placement. And best of all the Ag-Chem Foam Marker produces a dense foam within seconds of agitation, and has a dependable output that can be adjusted for volume.

Use with the new 80-to-1™ high concentrate foam.

Agrigenetics' Biotechnology Improves Corn

EASTLAKE, Ohio — A group of scientists at the Agrigenetics Corporation research facilities in Madison, Wisconsin, is using a new biotechnology method to transfer resistance to maize dwarf mosaic virus (MDMV) into an elite line of corn. This is the first time that the method, called restriction fragment length polymorphism mapping (RFLP, pronounced "riflip"), has been used to predict the transfer of a complex genetic trait.

The RFLP mapping of MDMV resistance was announced on December 10 by Dr. Jeanne Romero-Severson of Agrigenetics at a Chicaco meeting of the National Sweet Corn Breeders Association, held in conjunction with a meeting of the American Seed Trade Association. "The breeders are very interested. They hope that RFLP technology will help them develop new varieties of crop plants," said Dr. Romero-Severson.

RFLPs are natural variations in DNA structure. They provide genetic signposts to find useful genes. These signposts make it easier to use standard breeding methods to take good genes from many different corn plants and to put them together in new combinations.

MDMV is a serious problem for the American farmer in high humidity areas. Many field corn varieties are susceptible to MDMV. There are very few sweet corn varieties which are resistant. Losses due to MDMV may exceed 50% of yield in field corn and preclude growing sweet corn in some regions.

Corn breeders have found it hard to move MDMV resistance into hybrid corn. Agrigenetics has found that this is because at least five different genes are needed to get good resistance and each gene is on a different chromosome. Previously breeders had no way of knowing which plants had all five genes. Using RFLP, the Agrigenetics scientists were able to detect the genes and to find the rare germplasm that had all five.

The biotech group within Agrigenetics collaborated with breeders at Jacques Seed Division of Agrigenetics in Prescott, Wisconsin. "We're using advanced techniques to solve practical problems," said Dr. Mike Murray, head of Agrigenetics' RFLP mapping group. "RFLP technology will not replace classical breeding methods. We see ourselves as giving breeders new analytical and predictive tools to work with."

Many other genetic traits are controlled by several genes. The Agrigenetics group is now looking forward to using RFLPs in other crops and with other traits such as yield, crop quality, and insect and disease resistance. They already are using tomato RFLPs.

"This is one of the ways that biotechnology is going to affect all of our lives, even if we aren't aware of it." said Dr. John Ingle, director of research at Agrigenetics. "The farmer will be able to buy improved plant varieties, and new varieties will be developed faster."

Agrigenetics Corporation, a subsidiary of The Lubrizol Corporation, is a broadly-based plant science company with major activities in seeds, specialty vegetable oils and plant biotechnology.

Sharing Soil Information In Lancaster County

LANCASTER — Agronomists and farmers who have been studying soil fertility and tillage management, recently met to discuss data that they have unearthed so far. Held at the Farm & Home Center, the meeting involved sharing information on such things as the effects of starter fertilizer, nitrogen sidedressing, and tillage methods.

Principal speakers were Mike Brubaker of Brubaker Agronomic; Bob Anderson, Lancaster County Extension agronomist; Gerald Heistand, Conservation District; and Mitch Woodward, county extension agronomist. Below are the major findings and conclusions reported at the meeting.

•Crops don't require much nitrogen until they are 12 to 24 inches high. This is the important time to sidedress.

I'M NOT LION...
THE CLASSIFIED LIVESTOCK SECTION HAS BEASTLY SELECTIONS!

•Penn State has revised its numbers for the amount of residual nitrogen in soil. If manure is applied rarely, there will be 0 percent residual nitrogen. Frequent applications, 50 percent of the time, would yield 15 percent residual nitrogen, while soil receiving continuous manure applications, 75 percent of the time, would have a 25 percent nitrogen residue.

•Checking for corn root worms in July or August will tell a farmer if he will need insecticide in the next year.

•Slit tilling eliminates gutters and soil erosion, promotes water absorption, bacteria growth, and soil breathability.

Change Fertilizer Methods When You Change Tillage Systems

MOLINE, IL — Farmers who use reduced tillage practices frequently mention two problems. First, it's difficult to get fertilizer down into the crop root zone and not disturb residue needed on the soil surface to control erosion. Second, the cool, moist soil conditions with conservation tillage can limit fertilizer utilization, particularly during early stages of crop growth.

Getting full value from fertilizer dollars is a major challenge for conservation tillage, which is defined as any tillage system that leaves at least 30 percent of the old crop residue on the soil surface at planting. (No-till is an extreme form of conservation tillage.)

"Conservation farming requires better fertilizer management," says Dr. Richard Johnson, senior scientist at the Deere & Company Technical Center in Moline, Illinois. "No-till or severely limited tillage can cut crop yields if soil fertility programs are not adjusted to fit the new conditions."

The new conservation tillage farmer who hasn't done his homework can get some unpleasant surprises.

As Johnson puts it, "There are many good reasons for considering conservation tillage, but saving money isn't always one of them. Too many farmers think conservation tillage will increase their net profits. After harvest they often discover their yields have dropped or their fertilizer costs have increased."

Johnson stresses that a farmer should examine all the economics involved before deciding to change tillage practices. In fact, on most farms, tillage isn't the biggest expense. Total tillage costs for corn in the Midwest can range from $10 to $16 per acre.

"To determine tillage costs on your farm, break out current machinery expenses into tillage, planting, harvesting, grain hauling, and chemical application," Johnson says. "Per acre, tillage should total roughly 25 percent of the cost."

"Next, compare tillage costs with fertilizer and pesticide costs. These costs are closely related. Reduced tillage often means increased fertilizer and herbicide costs. More insecticides may also be needed."

"And remember that every farm, and often every field, is different. No one tillage system works best in all situations. Tillage practices are always site-specific. Fertilizer requirements and application methods can also vary considerably."

Johnson says soil testing is a necessary first step with conservation tillage: "Knowing the nutrient availability in your soil is essential, and regular soil testing is the only way to find out. It's also helpful to supplement this with crop tissue testing during the growing season. Conservation tillage is usually easiest where soils are not low in major nutrients."

How do conservation tillage soil conditions differ from those of conventional tillage? Johnson explains: "Soil is mixed less thoroughly, and most crop residues are not incorporated. Residues that are mixed into the soil are layered in the top two to four inches. Heavy surface residue cover promotes cooler, more moist soils. Nitrate nitrogen is more subject to loss by denitrification, or leaching. Plant nutrient distribution can become stratified. Also, the upper two inches of soil tend to become more acid if nitrogen is surface applied."

Conservation tillage changes nitrogen availability. Increased surface residue reflects solar radiation and shades the soil, so soil temperature is lower; and more water is held in the soil during early spring — there's less runoff. The result is that soil remains cooler and wetter later into the growing season, affecting seed germination and growth rate.

"To maintain crop yield potential under high residue conditions, more nitrogen fertilizer is often required. This increases production costs," he says.

It's also more difficult to apply nitrogen fertilizers effectively because too many fertilizer particles fall on crop residues instead of the soil surface. Without rainfall or mechanical incorporation into the soil, the fertilizer volatilizes and nitrogen is lost.

No-till eliminates any sort of separate operation to inject ammonia fertilizer down into the crop root zone before planting. This often forces a switch to alternate nitrogen fertilizers which are more expensive.

Many things change under conservation tillage. "Good fertilizer management is essential," says Johnson.

His suggestions for making the most of a conservation tillage program also include periodic use of tillage practices to thoroughly mix the upper eight to 10 inches of soil; using injected nitrogen, if possible; and watching expenses carefully: "Do not spend more than you save."

WOODS' M5 DIXIE CUTTER

Solid mount gear box featuring forged steel gears running on lubricated tapered roller bearings
Shear pin shears on hardened sleeve to protect mower & tractor from shock damage
10 gauge steel deck
1 1/2" x 3" bar steel blade holder
Lower bearing support plate protects blade holder drive from shock damage
Woods exclusive quick change blade holder assembly
3/8" steel full length side skids

Worth More In The Long Run

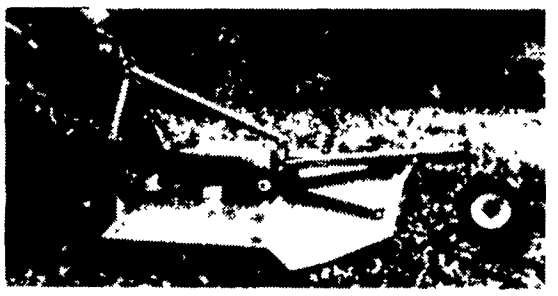
Woods' M5 Dixie Cutter cuts and shreds a five foot swath. It has a direct gear drive with a heavy-duty gear box and is available in models for rear-mounting on 3-point hitch, fast-hitch or AC snap-coupler.

Sure, you'll have to pay more for a Woods' M5 rotary cutter. That's because you're getting more. More features. More safety. More years of reliable service. Dependability. That's what makes Woods products worth more.

Woods' Dixie Cutter is one of several mowers from an expanding line of high-quality equipment available at a fair price.



WOODS
Division of Hesston Corporation

Get to know Woods. We've been around for 38 years. And during that time we've been keeping promises and making products that offer outstanding performance.

REAL ESTATE - 83 ACRE FARM

Real Estate consists of 83 acres, 10 perches, more or less in Union Twp., Snyder County, Pa. whereon is situated a two story frame dwelling house, a 36 ft. x 60 ft. hip roof barn (built in 1949), a shed-corn crib combination, a wood shed and other minor outbuildings. First floor of home includes kitchen, dining room, living room, and enclosed rear porch. Second floor has three bedrooms and there are two attic storage areas. Home is insulated and has vinyl siding, however there is no running water in house, but a spring does supply water to the home. Barn is supplied by well water. There is a prescriptive right of way to the farm with app. 47.3 tillable acres. One of the very nice features of this farm is the road frontage along Petey's Hollow Rd. Here is a farm with a very nice country setting but yet only minutes from the main highway. Be sure to inspect, arrange your financing and be prepared to bid on and buy this farm on auction day. Recorded in Snyder County Deed Book 72, Page 452. For showing of Real Estate. Call (717)658-3730 or (717)444-2168.

TERMS: 10% down, Balance within 30 days. Real Estate to be offered at 12 noon.

PURINA MILLS, INC.

Dairy Tips By Dr. John Clark

ANIMAL FAT — EXTRA ENERGY FOR HIGH PRODUCING COWS

Energy is one of the most limiting nutrients for milking cows especially during the first 90 days of lactation when dry matter intake is too low to support milk production without excessive weight loss. If more than 60-65% of rapidly fermentable grain is fed in the ration, rumen acidosis may occur, the cows goes off-feed and production of milk and butterfat is reduced.

Animal fat, properly blended in the grain or concentrate ration provides over twice the amount of energy as an equal weight of corn. Top producing cows can efficiently utilize 1½ pounds of animal fat if the ration is correctly balanced and fed properly. One and one half pounds of animal fat and 5½ pounds of roughage replaces about 7 pounds of corn.

Now there's a silage additive made to Purina standards.

There are countless silage treatments available and it can be difficult to choose the right one for you. Rather than try them all, trust your silage to Purina MAXI-SIL™. Purina is the top dairy nutrition company and MAXI-SIL™ was developed to deliver MAXImum SILage protection at an economical cost. The silages (alfalfa, rye, barley, wheat) that you make this spring and will feed in the heat of the summer are critical feeds to protect with MAXI-SIL™.

Consider these proven benefits:

PROTECTS NUTRITIONAL VALUE

- MAXI-SIL™ promotes fast, low heat fermentation in your silo.

PROLONGS BUNK LIFE

- MAXI-SIL™ retards mold growth in the bunk to reduce waste.

MAINTAINS PALATABILITY

- This benefit is especially important in summer heat when dry matter intake may go down.

EASY TO USE

- One bag treats 50 tons, it has no special storage requirements and is easy to apply.

Call your Purina Dealer for their spring MAXI-SIL prices.
